Syn. — Under. — It has always been English usage to say "under one's signature," as we say "under one's hand," "under one's seal." Some, in this country, have imagined "over one's signature" to be more correct, not considering that the reference is to the paper containing the instrument, or mass of thought to be verified. This is under the hand in signing, as it is under the seal when affixed, though, in either case, the written words may be above. Thus the three phrases all stand on the same footing, and if one is changed, all must be changed.

SYN. — Corpulent. — Stout, in our early writers, was used chiefly or wholly in the sense of strong or bold; as, a stout champion, a stout heart, a stout resistance. At a later period it was used for thick-set or bulky; and more recently, especially in England, the idea has been carried still further, so that Taylor says in his Synonyms, "The stout man has the proportions of an ox; he is corpulent, fat, and fleshy in relation to his size." Few in America entirely drop the original sense; and many who have read Washington Irving's story of the "Stout Gentleman" never suspected that he was merely a very fat man.

[From Tantalus. See infra.] To torment with a prospect of good that can not be realized.

SYN. — To disappoint. — To disappoint is literally to do away with what was pointed; hence, the peculiar pain from hopes thus dashed to the ground. To tantalize describes a most distressing form of disappointment, as in the case of Tantalus, a Phrygian king in fabulous history, who was condemned to stand up to his chin in water, with a tree of fair fruit over his head, both of which, as he attempted to allay his hunger or thirst, fled from his approach.

Hence, to tantalize is to visit with the bittest disappointment, — to torment by exciting hopes or expectations which can never be realized.

TÉR-SE (14), a. [-ER; -EST.] [Lat. tersus, rubbed or wiped off.] Elegantly concise or compact.

SYN.—Concise. — Terse was defined by Johnson "cleanly written," i. e., free from blemishes, neat, or smooth. Its present sense is compact, with smoothness, grace, or elegance, as in the following lines of Whitehead:—

*In eight terse lines has Phædrus told

(So frugal were the bars of old)

A tale of goats; and closed with grace,

Plan, moral, all, in that short space."

It differs from concise in not implying perhaps quite as much condensation, but chiefly in the additional idea of "grace or elegance."

SYN.—Prudence.—Wisdom has been defined to be the "use of the best means for attaining the best ends," and in this sense implies the union of high mental and moral excellence. Prudence is of a more negative character; it rather consists in avoiding danger than in taking decisive measures for the accomplishment of an object. Sir Robert Walpole was in many respects a prudent statesman, but he was far from being a wise one. Burke has remarked that prudence, when carried too far, degenerates into a "pepille virtue," which is the more dangerous for the plausible appearance it wears.

WISE, a. [-ER; -EST.] [A.-S. wis, allied to wit, v. i.] 1. Having knowledge; learned. 2. Making due use of knowledge; discerning and judging soundly. 3. Versed in art or science. 4. Godly; pious. 5. Dictated or guided by wisdom.

WIST'FUL-LY, adv. In a wistful manner.

WIT, v. i. [A.-S. witan.] To know; — now used only in the infinitive to wit, a phrase equivalent to namely, that is to say. — n. [A.-S. witt, wit.] 1. Mind; intellect; sense. 2. A mental faculty. 3. Association of objects not usually connected, so as to produce a pleasant surprise; also, the power of readily combining objects in such a manner. 4. A person of eminent sense, knowledge, or genius; one distinguished for bright or amusing sayings.

SYN.—Humor.—Wit formerly meant genius, and now denotes the power of seeing on some thought or occurrence, and, by a sudden turn, presenting it under aspects wholly new and unexpected—apparently natural and admissible, if not perfectly just, and bearing on the subject, or the parties concerned, with a laughable keenness and force. “What I want,” said a pompous orator, aiming at his antagonist, “is common sense.” “Exactly?” was the whispered reply.

The pleasure we find in wit arises from the ingenuity of the turn, the sudden surprise it brings, and the patness of its application to the case, in the new and ludicrous relations thus flashed upon the view. Humor is a quality more congenial than wit to the English mind. It consists primarily in taking up the peculiarities of a humorist, and drawing them out, so that we enjoy a hearty, good-natured laugh at the unaccountable development he makes of his whims and oddities. From this original sense, the term has been widened to embrace other sources of kindly mirth of the same general character. In a well-known caricature upon English reserve, an Oxford student is represented as standing on the brink of a river, greatly agitated at the sight of a drowning man, and crying out, “O that I had been introduced to this gentleman, that might save his life!” The “Silent Woman” of Ben Johnson is one of the most humorous productions, in the original sense of the term, which we have in our language.

OF

GREEK AND LATIN PROPER NAMES.

RULES

FOR PRONOUNCING THE VOWELS AND CONSONANTS OF GREEK AND LATIN PROPER NAMES.

RULES FOR THE VOWELS.

1. Any vowel at the end of an accented syllable, and e, o, and u, at the end of an unaccented syllable, have the long English sound; as, Ca'to, Ce'crops, Di'do, So'lon, Cu'mæ, Me-lis'sa, Mo-los'sus, Tu-lin'gi; in which words the final vowels of the first syllables have the same sound as the corresponding vowels in the first syllables of the English words pa'per, ce'dar, si'lent, co'lon, du'ty.

2. A ending an unaccented syllable has the sound of a in fa'ther or in last; as, Ga-bi'na, A-re'ne, pronounced Gah-bi'nah, Ah-re'ne.

3. I ending a final syllable has the long sound, as To'mi. At the end of initial unaccented syllables it varies, somewhat indefinitely, between i long, as I-u'lus, and i short (like i in pin), as in I-ta'li-a. In all other cases i ending an unaccented syllable has its short sound, as in pin.

4. Y is pronounced as i would be in the same situation.

5. Æ and æ are pronounced as e would be in the same situation.

6. If a syllable end in a consonant, the vowel has the short English sound; as, Bal'bus, Del'phi, Cin'na, Mos'chus, Tus'cus, in which the vowels have the same sounds as in the English words man'ner, sell'dom, din'ner, scaff'fer, mus'ter.

EXCEPTION. — E in final es is pronounced as in the familiar proper name Au'des (än'deez).

RULES FOR THE CONSONANTS.

7. C before e, i, y, æ, and æ, is pronounced like s; before a, o, and u, and before consonants, like k; as Ce'a, Cie'ro, Cyl'prus, Cæ'sar, Cæ'li-a, Ca'to, Co'tes, Cu'mæ.

8. G before e, i, y, æ, or another g followed by e, has the sound of j; before a, o, and u, and before consonants other than g, as above excepted, the hard sound, as in the English words gave, gone; as, Ge'to, Gi-gan'tes, Gy-gæ'us, Ag'ger, Gab'i-i, Gor'gi-as, Sa-gun'tum.

9. Ch has the sound of k, but it is silent before a mute consonant at the beginning of a word; as, Chtho'nia, pronounced Tho'ni-a.

10. T, s, and c, before ia, ie, ii, io, iu, and eu, preceded immediately by the accent, in Latin words, as in English, change into sh and zh. But when the t follows s, t, or z, or when the accent falls on the first of the vowels following, the consonant preserves its pure sound; as, Sal-lus'ti-us, Bru'tti-i, Mil'iti-a-des, &c. T in the termination tion also retains its original sound; as, The-o-do'ti-on.

11. S has, in general, the sound of s in this. Final s preceded by e, or a liquid, has the sound of z.

12. Initial x has the sound of z.

13. Initial ph before a mute is silent; as, Plu'ti'a, pronounced Thi'a. Initial p before s is silent; as, Psy'che, pronounced Sy'ke. Initial p before t is silent; as, Ptol-emæ'us, pronounced Tol-e-mæ'us.

14. At the beginning of words we frequently find the uncombinable consonants mn, tn, &c.; as, Mne-mos'y-ne, Tmo'lus, &c. These are to be pronounced with the first consonant mute, as if written Ne-mos'y-ne, Mo'lus, &c.

REMARK. 1. The termination eus, derived from the third declension of Greek contracts in eüs, although usually made a single syllable in poetry, is resolved into two syllables in the Table. This is also done by Walker and Trollope; is defended by Labbe and Carr; and may be conceded to the exigencies of poetry. The other syllabication, by which eus has the sound of use, as in the noun abuse, is also given; and should be followed in pronunciation in all ordinary cases.

2. The names in Italics are the Anglicized forms of the classical names above them. Each for himself must judge whether to adhere to the classical pronunciation or not.

3. Diacritical marks are used, in this Vocabulary, to indicate the soft sounds of c, g, and s, in some cases, as in Aç'i-da'li-a, Æ-gæ'ri-a, A-ehil'les; also when n has the sound of ng, as in An'cho-z.

The abbreviations Pw., F., K., Pe., Fac., S., Py., C., L., B., For., Sch., W., M., and Fr., stand, respectively, for the following authorities, viz., Passow, Freund, Klotz, Pape, Facciolati, Smith, Pauly, Carr, Labbe, Bischoff & Möller, Forbiger, Scheller, Walker, Müller, and Frijlink.

The figures which follow certain words in the Vocabulary refer to corresponding Rules of Pronunciation. The figure 6, for example, appended to Abantes, refers to Rule 6, which shows that the vowel in the last syllable has its long English sound.

SCRIPTURE PROPER NAMES.

THE following Vocabulary contains a careful selection of such Scripture names as present any difficulty of pronunciation; but classical names occurring in the Scriptures, and given in the preceding vocabulary of Greek and Latin names, are for the most part omitted. That mode of pronunciation which is deemed to be best supported, is given first, and any other pronunciation which has, to any considerable extent, the sanction of present and reputable usage, is subjoined as an alternative mode. The names have been accented, divided into syllables, and marked in accordance with the system of notation employed in the previous part of this work. The consulter will not, therefore, require any Rules to guide him to a correct pronunciation of the names here given, but with reference to those which are omitted, it will be well for him to remember, —

1. That, in words of two syllables, the accent is uniformly on the first.
2. That, in words of two syllables in which the accented vowel is separated from the next syllable by only one consonant or by a consonant digraph, the consonant or the digraph goes to the following syllable; as, A'din, Jo'tham.
3. That ch always has the sound of k.
4. That g is always hard, as in go.
5. That every final i forming — with or without a preceding consonant — a distinct syllable, has its long sound; as in A'i, Ab'di.
6. That the terminations ites and enes (as in Gilve-adites, Gad'a-renes, &c.) are pronounced in one syllable.
7. That in other respects Scripture names usually follow the analogy of Latin pronunciation. See p. 487.

PRONOUNCING VOCABULARIES

MODERN GEOGRAPHICAL AND BIOGRAPHICAL NAMES.

By J. THOMAS, M. D.,

AUTHOR OF THE SYSTEM OF GEOGRAPHICAL PRONUNCIATION IN LIPPINCOTT'S GAZETTEER OF THE WORLD.

ELEMENTS OF PRONUNCIATION

OF THE PRINCIPAL MODERN LANGUAGES OF CONTINENTAL EUROPE.

VOWELS.

1. In the languages of Continental Europe, a never has a sound like that in the English words fate or name, but is usually like the a in far or father, often approximating that in fat. In Hungarian it is sometimes like o in not.

2. E generally has a sound similar to a in fate, or else to e in met. In French it is often silent. In Swedish, e, when long, has a sound resembling that of short i, but more prolonged. Thus, Carlén might be pronounced kar-län'. When short, it is like e in met.

3. I usually sounds as in marine; that is, like long e in English. It is sometimes like our short i, as in pin. It is important to observe that i final in French, Italian, and Spanish, has the full, clear sound of ee in see; it should therefore not be allowed to fall into ï, as it is apt to do in English or Anglicized words.

4. O has for the most part nearly the same sound as in English. Sometimes it is long, as in no, but often it has a sound intermediate between that of our o in no and that in rot. In Russian, o, when not accented, is very short, almost like a in father, or intermediate between this and that in fat. In Swedish and Norwegian, at the end of a syllable, it is sounded like our oo.

5. U in most languages is pronounced like the English oo. In French (and in Dutch when it ends a syllable) it may be said to combine the sounds of our oo and long e. If the speaker, after placing his lips in the position for pronouncing oo, endeavors, without moving his lips, to utter the sound of ee, that of the French u will be produced.

6. Y is usually like i, that is, like our e. In Danish, Norwegian, and Swedish, it sounds like the French u or German ü. In Polish it resembles our short i, as in pin. In Dutch it is like our long i. It may be observed, that, according to the modern Dutch orthography, ij is substituted for y. Thus, the old spelling Overyssel is replaced by Overijssel, Bilderdyk by Bilderdyk, &c.

DIPHTHONGS.

7. Aa in Danish usually sounds nearly like our a in fall, sometimes approaching o long. Ä (ä) in Swedish sounds like long o in English.

8. Ae, or ä, is usually pronounced like a in fate, or e in met. In Dutch and Flemish ae sounds like a in far. In the modern Dutch orthography, ae is replaced by aa. Thus, the name formerly written Haerlem, is now Haarlem, Maes is changed into Maas, &c.

9. Ai and ay are usually proper diphthongs, being compounded of the sound of a as in far and i as in fig, thus nearly corresponding in sound to our long i. In French, and in Modern Greek, they are pronounced nearly like ay in the English word day; that is, like the long a in fate.

10. Au has generally the sound of ow in now. In French au and eau have the sound of long o.

11. Ei and ey are generally proper diphthongs, uniting the sounds of a in fate and e in me, being similar to ay in day when this word is pronounced very full. In German they are like our long i; in French, nearly like our e in met, or a in fate.

12. Eu in French and Dutch has a sound nearly similar to u in the English word fur, but somewhat more prolonged. This sound is intermediate between that of the English short u and that of the German ü. (See 14.) In German eu and äu have the sound of oi in English.

13. Ie at the end of a word is always pronounced in French like e in the English word me. In German it is frequently so pronounced. In the middle of a word, ie, both in Dutch and German, always sounds like our long e.

14. Oe, or ö, occurs in several European languages. In Danish, however, instead of two dots being placed over the o, a mark is drawn obliquely through it (ø). The sound is unlike any thing we have in English, but is nearest to that of u in fur, or e in her. If, while the lips are retained in the position proper for forming o long, the speaker tries to utter the sound of e in met (or a in fate), he will produce the sound of ø. [This sound, as well as that of the French u, should, if possible, be learned from an oral instructor.] In Dutch, oe sounds like our oo.

15. Oi in French is usually sounded like wü; moi is pronounced muü; roi, riva; &c. Oi in the termination of certain adjectives, was formerly used instead of ai, and was pronounced like this diphthong. Now, however, oi in such words is almost universally replaced by ai. Thus, instead of François, Française (French), the forms Français and Française are now used.

16. Ou in French and in Modern Greek sounds like our oo; in Dutch and Norwegian, like ow in the English word now, or like ou in house. In Portuguese it is pronounced nearly like long o.

17. Ue or ü, has the sound of the French u. (See 5.)

18. A double vowel, in foreign words, is generally equivalent to the single vowel prolonged.

CONSONANTS.

The consonants in the languages of Continental Europe are, for the most part, similar in sound to the same letters in English. The following exceptions may be mentioned:—

18. B at the end of a word in German is pronounced like p. Between two vowels in Spanish its sound is somewhat similar to v, with which it is often interchanged; as, Cordoba, Cor'ova, &c. This sound of b is formed by bringing the lips loosely or feebly into contact.

19. C before e and i in Italian is pronounced like ch in the English word chill; in the same position in Spanish it sounds like the Spanish z or like our th in thin. In German, c before e, i, and y is pronounced like the German z, or like ts in English. In Polish it has the same sound, even at the end of a word.

20. D at the end of a word in German and Dutch is pronounced like t. In Spanish and Danish, between two vowels or at the end of a word, it has a sound similar to th in this.

21. In all the European languages g is hard before a, o, and u; in German, Danish, Norwegian, and Polish, it is hard in every situation, though it sometimes has a guttural sound. Before e and i (or y), in French, Portuguese, Spanish, and Swedish, it is like the j of these languages. In the same position in Italian it sounds like our j, or soft g. In Dutch it is always pronounced like h strongly aspirated. Gu before e and i, in French, Portuguese, and Spanish, sounds like g hard.

22. H in French, Italian, Spanish, and Portuguese, is either never pronounced at all, or else is sounded so slightly that an English ear can scarcely perceive it. In the other languages of Europe it has the same sound as in English.

23. J in Italian, German, Polish, Swedish, Norwegian, Danish, and Dutch, is pronounced like our y. In French and Portuguese it has the sound of zh, or s in the English word pleasure. In Spanish it is equivalent to x, being similar in sound to a strongly aspirated h.

24. Often at the end of a syllable, in French and Portuguese, m and n are said to have a nasal sound; but, more correctly speaking, dropping their own proper character, they impart nasality to the preceding vowels, which are then sounded through the nose. For example, ban in French approximates in sound that indicated by böng in English. Alem or alen, in Portuguese is pronounced almost a-lëng'. In pronouncing the nasal vowels in these languages, care should be used not to press the back part of the tongue against the palate, as is done in producing the sound of the English ng. In French, o before n nasal has nearly the sound of our o in note, but is somewhat shorter. That is to say, if the English word no be pronounced quickly, with the vowel rendered nasal, the sound produced will correspond almost exactly to that of the French non. N in Italian before g usually preserves its clear sound; hence Marengo is pronounced almost mä-rënn'go; in all or nearly all the other languages, n in such cases approximates the sound of the English n in ink.

25. N in Spanish (like gn in French and Italian, and nh in Portuguese) has a sound combining that of n and y consonant. Mino and Minho are pronounced alike—men'yo.

26. Qu before e and i in Portuguese and Spanish, and before every vowel in French, has the sound of k. In most other languages it is essentially the same as in English.

27. R in most European languages is trilled more strongly than in English, particularly at the end of a word or syllable. In pronouncing it, the tip of the tongue is made to approach very near to the roots of the upper teeth.

28. S in many European tongues, when between two vowels, is very soft, having the sound of our z, or one very near it. In German it is usually pronounced soft at the beginning of a word. In Hungarian it sounds like our sh, or the German sch.

29. T in several European tongues has a sound somewhat more dental than in English. This is especially observable in Spanish, in which language it is pronounced by putting the tip of the tongue against the upper teeth.

30. W in German and some other languages is nearly similar to our v. It may be described as a v uttered with the lips alone, without the aid of the teeth.

31. X in Spanish generally sounds like a strongly aspirated h. (See 23.) In Portuguese it is pronounced like our sh.

32. Z in German and Swedish has the sound of ts; in Italian, z usually sounds like dz, zz like ts. In Spanish it is pronounced like the English th in thin.

COMBINED CONSONANTS.

33. Ch in Spanish has the same sound as in the English word chill. In Italian, it is pronounced like k; in German, Polish, and some other languages, it has a guttural sound, somewhat similar to a strongly aspirated h. This sound must be learned from an oral instructor. In French (except in the case of some words derived from the Greek), and in Portuguese, ch has the sound of our sh.

34. Cs in Hungarian sounds like ch in the English word church.

35. Cz in Polish sounds like our ch; in Hungarian, like ts.

36. Dy in Hungarian blends the sounds of d and consonant y, and hence approximates the sound of our j. The same combination occurs in some English words, as in soldier, verdure, &c. (See 44.)

37. Gh in Italian is like gh in the English word ghost, or g in game.

38. G in Italian, when followed by i, has the same sound as th in Portuguese, or ll in Spanish. Before a, o, or u, the i following g is silent. (See 41.)

39. Gn in French and Italian (like ñ in Spanish) combines the sounds of n and consonant y. (See 25.)

40. Gy in Hungarian blends the sounds of d and y consonant. Magyar is pronounced möd'yör'. (See 36.)

41. Lh in Portuguese, and ll in Spanish, combine the sounds of l and y consonant. For example, velho is pronounced vel'yô; villa, veel'yä; llano, lyä'no. Ly in Hungarian has also the sound of ll in Spanish. Ll in French, when preceded by i, was formerly, in certain words, sounded like the Spanish ll; but according to the modern popular pronunciation, all sound of the li in such words is dropped. Aurillac, formerly ö're'll'yäk', is now generally sounded ö're'yäk'; Bouillon, formerly bool'yö'n', is now boo'yö'n', &c. It may be observed, however, that public speakers, and others who aim to be very correct in their pronunciation, still frequently retain the sound of the l.

42. Nh in Portuguese is pronounced like the Spanish ñ. (See 25 and 30.) Ny in Hungarian has the same sound.

43. Sc in Italian, before e and i, sounds like the English sh.

44. Sz in Hungarian is sounded like sharp s or ss; but sz is like our zh. In Polish, sz sounds like our sh.

45. Sch in German is pronounced like sh in English; in Italian, before e and i, it sounds like sk in English, and in Dutch, before all the vowels, its sound is similar, but harsher and more guttural.

46. Th in all the modern languages of Continental Europe except Greek (in which the character θ has the same sound as our th), is pronounced like simple t, or like th in the English word thence.

47. Ts in Hungarian is like cs in the same language; that is, like our ch in church.

48. Ty in Hungarian blends the sounds of t and consonant y; it approaches in sound our ch. A similar combination of t with the sound of consonant y takes place in the English words creature, righteous, virtue.

ACCENT.

49. By accent is usually meant, in English, that particular impulse or stress of the voice which, in pronunciation, is placed upon certain syllables of a word; for example, on the last syllable in confer and retain, on the second in America, and on the first and last in evermore. Many words in English (like the one last cited) have two accents; but one is always predominant, and is termed the primary accent; the other is called the secondary accent.

Something analogous to English accentuation is found in nearly all languages. In the Teutonic tongues, especially, the accent is essentially the same as in English, a large number of the polysyllabic words having both the primary and secondary accent, as Son'ders-hau'sen, Zoll've-rein'.

It is very difficult, if not impossible, to give any general rules, that would be of much practical utility, for placing the accent on foreign words or names. Among what may be termed the principal European languages (viz., English, French, German, Italian, Russian, and Spanish), there is scarcely one general rule for accent to which there are not a multitude of exceptions. Those of most general application are perhaps the following: In Spanish and Portuguese, words ending in a vowel usually have the accent on the penultima; those ending in a consonant are generally accented on the last syllable; yet even to these there are numerous exceptions; e. g., Alcalá, Córdova, Andújar, Cádiz, &c.

50. In Spanish, the difference between accented and unaccented syllables, though sufficiently obvious to a native, is sometimes scarcely perceptible to a foreigner.

51. In Hungarian, there is no accent, according to our use of this word; but the syllables are distinguished from each other by quantity, being, like the Latin, divided into long and short. But as quantity in Latin and Greek is converted into accent by the usage of English pronunciation, so, in giving Hungarian names in the following Vocabularies, the accent is placed according to quantity whenever this could be satisfactorily ascertained.

52. The French language also has no accent, in the sense in which we employ the term. The marks called accents that are placed over the different vowels, serve only to indicate some particular sound of these letters, and not that peculiar impulse of the voice which characterizes an accented syllable in the English and most other European tongues. Thus, the accent over the e in parlé serves to show that this vowel has its first French sound, and at the same time distinguishes it from parle, another form of the same verb, in which the e is mute. The circumflex imparts to the vowels over which it is placed a longer and deeper sound than ordinary; e. g., in hâte, tempête, gîte, and apôtre.

It is commonly said that the French pronounce all the syllables of a word with an equal stress of voice, but that they seem to an English ear to accentuate the last, because in our language the universal tendency is to throw the accent toward the beginning of the word. Accordingly, the principal accent has been placed on the last syllable of French names; at the same time it has been thought proper to mark the others with secondary accents, in order to prevent them from being pronounced too slightly or indistinctly, as is usually the case with unaccented syllables in English. The pronunciation of Orléans, for example, has been thus given — or'lã'ón'.

EXPLANATION OF ABBREVIATIONS AND SIGNS

EMPLOYED IN THE VOCABULARIES OF MODERN GEOGRAPHICAL AND BIOGRAPHICAL NAMES.

* * * The figures refer to the Elements of Pronunciation given above.

Ar.	Arabic.	Port.	Portuguese.
Flem.	Flemish.	pron.	pronunciation.
Fr.	French.	Russ.	Russian.
Ger.	German.	Sp.	Spanish.
Hung.	Hungarian.	Sw.	Swedish.
Norw.	Norwegian.	Syn.	Synonym.
	Turk.		Turkish.

â, æ, î, ç, marked with this sign [] underneath, have an obscure sound similar to that of short u, but are usually considerably shorter, and, indeed, sometimes are almost mute: thus, Grât'tan might be pronounced grât'tûn or grât't'n; Hël'tgr, hël'tur or hël'tr, &c.

ã, ê, ô are similar in sound to â, ê, ô, but are not to be pronounced so long.

ä is employed to denote the long sound of ä.

ë has a sound similar to e in her (see 14); it may be Anglicized by e.

ü represents the sound of the German ü and the French u (see 5); it may be Anglicized by the English u.

U, small capital, is intended to represent the sound of the French eu (see 12), which is pronounced nearly like u in the English word fur.

B, small capital, is used to denote the sound of b between two vowels in Spanish, often nearly approximating that of v. (See 18.)

D, small capital, is intended to represent a sound similar to th in this. (See 20.)

G and K, small capitals, indicate a peculiar sound of the German ch, or one similar to it. (See 33.)

H, small capital, has a sound somewhat similar to the preceding, but more resembling a strongly aspirated h.

I (liquid) is to be pronounced like li in million; it blends the sounds of l and y consonant. (See 41.)

M and N, small capitals, are used in the respelling of French words, to represent the nasal sound of the preceding vowel, and are not themselves to be pronounced. The French nasal vowels are ãN, êN, ôN, ûN, being similar in sound to äng, üng, üng, üng. (See 24.)

ñ is pronounced like ni in minion; it blends the sounds of n and y consonant. (See 25 and 42.)

R, small capital, has nearly the sound of rr in terror, but stronger. (See 27.)

š is used to indicate that the sound of the s is very soft, nearly resembling our z. In the middle of a word it should be pronounced like a soft z.

ŵ has a sound similar to our v. (See 30.) The ˘ over the v is intended to point out its alliance to our v.

y and ey at the end of an unaccented syllable sound like i in pin.

au and aw have the sound of a in fall.

ç indicates the clear sound of short i before r, as in the English words spirit, miracles, &c.

ov is to be pronounced like ov in cow, and ou like ou in house. In respelling for pronunciation, ov has been replaced by ou wherever the former combination would be liable to be pronounced like long o, as in grow, town, &c.

ss is sometimes used to mark the sharp sound of s where a single s would be liable to be pronounced like z; e. g., Mons, mösss, not möns.

☞ The other marked letters, and the marks denoting the primary and secondary accents, (´, ˘) are the same as those used in the body of the Dictionary.

^a Sometimes called Indo-Germanic or Japhetic.

^b The Indian and Iranian branches are often classed together as forming the Indo-Persian or Aryan branch of the family.

^c The Greek and Latin are often joined together as the Græco-Latin, or classical branch.

^d The Slavonic and Lithuanian branches are often classed together as the Letto-Slavic or Windic languages.

^e Divided into four periods, viz., Semi-Saxon (A. D. 1150-1250), Old English (A. D. 1250-1350), Middle English (A. D. 1350-1550), Modern English (A. D. 1550 to the present day).

^f Called also Semitic and Syro-Arabian.

^g Called also Cananitic.

Besides the Indo-European and Semitic families, philologists distinguish several others, which may be classed as follows:—

Tartaric (or Tataric Family) (called also Turanian, Scythian, Altaic, Ural-Altaic, and Mongolian), including the numerous and widely different languages of the Manchus, the Mongols, the Turks (in Asia and Europe), the Magyars (in Hungary), the Finns, the Laplanders, the Samoyeds, and a multitude of other tribes. Whether the Tamil and its sister idioms in Ceylon and southern India belong to this family is uncertain; they are grouped together under the name of the Dravidian Family. The Japanese, the Corean, and other tongues spoken in the peninsulas and islands of the extreme north-eastern part of Asia are claimed by some as belonging to the Tartaric Family; but this is very doubtful.

South-eastern Asiatic or Monosyllabic Family in China, and Farther India, and countries adjacent to these (including the Chinese, Siamese, Burmese, Annamese, &c.).

Malay-Polynesian or Oceanic Family, including the languages and dialects spoken in nearly all the islands of the Pacific and Indian oceans.

Hamitic Family, composed of the Egyptian, and its congeners, the Coptic, Galla, Berber, Hottentot (?), &c.

South-African (sometimes called Zingian Family), filling Africa about the equator and southward to the Cape of Good Hope.

American Family, occupying with its many and greatly varying dialects the whole continent of North and South America.

Besides these great families, there are several isolated languages, or groups of languages, which have hitherto resisted all attempts at classification. Such are the Yenisean in Siberia; the Albanian (or Skipetar) in north-western Greece; the Caucasian group (including the Georgian, Circassian, Lesghian, and Mitsjehgian idioms) in the mountain-range of the Caucasus; the Etruscan in Northern Italy; and the ancient Iberian, which was once the prevailing language of the Spanish peninsula, and which still lives on both sides of the Pyrenees in the strange language called Basque (Biscayan, or Euscarrá).

indicate the difference between two quantities without designating which is the greater; as, $a \sim b$.

x Varies as; is proportional to; as, $a \propto b$.

∴ Is to; the ratio of; } — used to indicate

∴ As; equals; } dicate geometrical proportion; as, $a : b :: c : d$; that is, a is to b as c is to d .

∴ Hence; therefore; on this account.

∴ Because.

∞ Indefinitely great; infinite; infinity.

○ Indefinitely small; infinitesimal; used to denote a quantity less than any assignable quantity; also, as a numeral, naught; nothing; zero.

∠ Angle; the angle; as, ∠ A B C.

⊥ The perpendicular; perpendicular to; as, draw A B ⊥ C D.

∥ Parallel; parallel to; is parallel to; as, A B ∥ C D.

○ Circle; circumference; 360° .

△ Triangle; the triangle; as, △ A B C; that is, the triangle A B C.

□ Square; the square; as, □ A B C D; that is, the square A B C D.

▭ Rectangle; the rectangle; as, ▭ A B C D; that is, the rectangle A B C D.

√, or √ Root; — indicating, when used without a figure placed above it, the square root; as, $\sqrt{4} = 2$; $\sqrt{4a^2} = 2a$. This symbol is called the radical sign. To denote any other than the square root, a figure (called the index) expressing the degree of the required root, is placed above the sign; as $\sqrt[2]{a}$, $\sqrt[3]{a}$, $\sqrt[4]{a}$, &c.

∩ The root of a quantity is also denoted by a fractional index at the right hand side of the quantity and above it, the denominator of the index expressing the degree of the root; as $a^{\frac{1}{2}}$, $a^{\frac{1}{3}}$, $a^{\frac{1}{4}}$; that is, the square, cube, and fifth roots of a , respectively.

Vinculum, () Parenthesis, [], or { }, Brackets, | Bar, they are applied, or which are inclosed by them, are to be taken altogether; as, $x + y^2$; $2(a+b)$; $a \times (b + c[e + d])$; $\frac{x}{y} | z$.

f, or F Function; function of; as $y = f(x)$; that is, y is, or equals, a function of x .

∩ Various other letters or signs are frequently used by mathematicians to indicate functions; as, f , ϕ , ψ , π , and the like.

d Differential of; as, dx ; that is, the differential of x .

δ Variation; as δx ; that is, the variation of x .

Δ Finite difference.

D Differential co-efficient; derivative.

℞ The letters d , δ , Δ , D , and sometimes others, are variously employed by different mathematicians, prefixed to quantities to denote that the differentials, variations, finite differences, or differential co-efficients of these quantities are to be taken; but the ordinary significations are those given above.

∫ Integral; integral of; — indicating that the expression before which it is placed is to be integrated; as, $\int 2x dx = x^2$; that is, the integral of $2x dx$ is x^2 .

∫ It is repeated to indicate that the operation of integration is to be performed twice, or three or more times, as $\int \int$, $\int \int \int$, &c. For a number of times greater than three, an index is commonly written at the right hand above; as, $\int^m x dx^m$; that is, the m th integral, or the result of m integrations of $x dx^m$.

\int_a^b denotes that the integral is to be taken between the value b of the variable and its value a . \int^a denotes that the integral ends at the value a of the variable, and \int that it begins at the value b . These forms must not be confounded with the similar one indicating repeated integration, or with that indicating the integral with respect to a particular variable.

∑ Sum; algebraic sum; — commonly used to indicate the sum or summation of finite differences, and in nearly the same manner as the symbol \int .

ε Residual.

π The number 3.14159265 +; the ratio of the circumference of a circle to its diameter, of a semicircle to its radius, and of the area of a circle to the square of its radius. In a circle whose radius is unity, it is equal to the semi-circumference, and hence is used to designate an arc of 180° .

o Degrees; as, 60° ; that is, sixty degrees.

' Minutes of arc; as, $30'$; that is, thirty minutes.

" Seconds of arc; as, $20''$; that is, twenty seconds.

^, ^, ^, &c. Accents used to mark quantities of the same kind which are to be distinguished; as, a' , a'' , a''' , &c., which are usually read a prime, a second, a third, etc.; as $a'b'$, $a''b''$, $a'''b'''$, &c.

1, 2, 3, &c. Indices placed above and at the right hand of quantities to denote that they are raised to powers whose degree is indicated by the figure; as, a^1 ; that is, the first power of a ; a^2 , the square or second power of a ; a^3 , the cube or third power of a ; and the like.

IV. MEDICAL.

A-CHĒ'US. Son of Xuthus, from whom the Achæans, a Grecian tribe, were descended.

A-CHĀ'TĒS. A trusty friend and companion of Æneas.

ÆCH'E-RŌN. Son of Sol and Terra, transformed into a river in the infernal regions.

A-CHĪL'LĒS. A Grecian hero, distinguished for his warlike prowess, and invulnerable except in his right heel; but at length slain by Paris, in the Trojan war. He was the son of Peleus and Thetis.

ÆĀ'ĪS. The son of Faunus, a Sicilian shepherd, who was killed by Polyphemus, because he had obtained the affections of Galatea.

ÆC-TĒ'ON. A celebrated hunter, who, having seen Diana bathing, was changed into a stag and hunted down by his own hounds.

AD-MĒ'TUS. A king of Phææ, in Thessaly, and husband of Alcestis.

A-DŌ'NIS. A Cyprian youth famed for his beauty and beloved by Venus, but torn in pieces by a wild boar.

ÆA-CUS. Son of Jupiter and Europa, famed for his justice and piety. After death he was made one of the judges in the infernal regions.

Æ-GĒ'RĪ-Ā. See Egeria.

Æ-GÆ'US. A king of Athens, who gave his name to the Ægean sea, in which he was drowned.

Æ'GLE. 1. One of the Hesperides. 2. The fairest of the Naiads.

Æ-GŪ'P'TUS. A king of Egypt, whose fifty sons, with the exception of Lynceus, were slain on their wedding night by their wives, the daughters of Danaus.

Æ-NĒ'AS. A Trojan warrior, son of Venus and Anchises. He is distinguished for his pious care of his father at the capture of Troy; and his adventures form the subject of Virgil's Æneid.

Æ'O-LUS. The god or ruler of the winds, who resided in the islands between Italy and Sicily.

ÆS'EU-LĀ'PI-US. Son of Apollo, and god of the healing art.

ÆG'A-MĒM'NON. Brother of Menelaus, and commander of the Grecian forces against Troy. He was murdered by his wife Clytæmnestra, with the aid of Ægisthus, her paramour. See CLYTÆMNESTRA.

ÆG'A-NĪP'PE. A fountain at the foot of Mount Helicon, sacred to the Muses.

Æ'JAX. 1. A son of Telamon, and one of the bravest of the Greeks in the Trojan war. 2. A Greek renowned for his bravery in the Trojan war. He was the son of Oileus, and king of the Locri.

AL-ÇĒS'TIS. Wife of Admetus, to preserve whose life she resigned her own. She was afterward, however, brought back from the lower world by Hercules.

AL-ÇĪ'DĒS. A name of Hercules.

ALC-MĒ'NĀ. Wife of Amphitryon, and mother of Hercules by Jupiter.

AL-ÇŪ'Ō-NĒ. A daughter of Æolus, who drowned herself in grief for the loss of her husband, and was turned into a king-fisher.

A-LĒ'Ō. One of the Furies.

ÆM'MON. A title of Jupiter.

AM-PH'ON. A Theban prince who cultivated the art of music with such success that, at the sound of his lyre, stones came together, and formed the walls of Thebes.

ÆM'PHI-TRĪ'TE. Daughter of Nereus and Doris, and wife of Neptune.

AN-ÇĒ'US. A king of the Samians, who, leaving a cup of wine untasted to pursue a boar by which he was killed, gave rise to the proverb, "There 's many a slip 'twixt the cup and the lip."

AN-CHĪ'SĒS. The father of Æneas by Venus.

AN-DRŌM'A-CHĒ. The wife of Hector, distinguished for her domestic virtues.

AN-DRŌM'E-DĀ. Daughter of the Ethiopian king Cepheus. Her mother, Cassiope, having boasted herself fairer than Juno, Andromeda was exposed to a sea-monster, but was rescued by Perseus, who married her.

AN-TĒ'US. A monarch of Libya, of gigantic size and strength, slain by Hercules.

ÆNTE-RŌS. The god who avenges slighted love.

AN-TIG'Ō-NE. A daughter of Œdipus and Jocasta, famous for her filial piety.

A-NŪ'BIS. An Egyptian god, represented as having the head of a dog.

ÆPH'RO-DĪ'TE. The Greek name of Venus.

Æ'PIS. The Egyptian god of industry, worshipped under the form of an ox.

A-PŌL'LO. A deity of the Greeks and Romans, worshiped as the sun-god. He was also god of medicine, divination, archery, and poetry, and presided over the Muses.

A-RĀCH'NE. A Lydian maiden, who challenged Minerva to a trial of skill in embroidery, and was changed into a spider, as a punishment for her presumption.

ÆR'E-THŪ'SĀ. Daughter of Nereus, a nymph of great beauty, in the train of Diana, in Elis;—changed into a fountain when pursued by the river-god Alpheus. It was believed that this fountain flowed under the sea, with the Alpheus, and appeared again in Sicily.

ÆR'GO-NAŪTS. Companions of Jason, who went to Colchis, in the ship Argo, in search of a golden fleece.

ÆR'GUS. The son of Arestor; said to have a hundred eyes. Being sent by Juno to watch Io, he was killed by Mercury, whereupon Juno placed his eyes in the tail of a peacock.

ÆRĪ-ĀD'NE. Daughter of Minos, king of Crete, who, for the love she bore to Theseus, gave him a clew of thread which guided him safely out of the labyrinth of Crete.

A-RĪ'ON. A famous musician and lyric poet of Methymna, in Lesbos, rescued from drowning by a dolphin.

ÆR'IS-TÆ'US. A son of Apollo and Cyrene, who discovered the use of honey, oil, &c., and who first taught men the management of bees.

ÆR'TE-MĪS. The Greek name of Diana.

AS-CĀL'A-PHŪS. A son of Acheron, who, having asserted that Proserpine had eaten a pomegranate-seed in the kingdom of Pluto, was turned into an owl for mischief-making.

AS-TRĒ'Ā. The goddess of justice. During the Golden Age she lived on earth, but when that passed away she abandoned it, and returned to heaven.

AS-TŪ'VĀ-NĀX. Son of Hector and Andromache, killed by Ulysses at the destruction of Troy.

ÆT'A-LĀN'TĀ. A princess of Scyros, who consented to marry any one of her suitors who should outrun her. Hippomenes was the successful competitor.

ÁTE. The goddess of revenge.
ÁTTLAS. A Titan, and king of Mauritania, who is said to have supported the world on his shoulders, and was changed into a mountain.
ÁTRO-PÓS. One of the Parcæ. Her duty among the three sisters is to cut the thread of life.
AU'GÉ-AS. One of the Argonauts, and afterward king of Elis. His stables were the scene of the fifth labor of Hercules, who cleansed them from the accumulated filth of thirty years by turning a river through them.
AU-RÔ'RÁ. The goddess of morning.
BAC-CHÁN'TĒS. Priestesses of Bacchus.
BÁ'CEHUS. The god of wine.
BEL-LĒR'O-PHON. Son of Glaucus, and grandson of Sisyphus. Being falsely accused by the wife of Proetus, king of the Argives, he was sent with a letter from Proetus to his father-in-law, commanding him to put the bearer to death. He is noted for having slain the Chimæra.
BEL-LÔ'NÁ. The goddess of war, and sister of Mars.
BĒR'E-NĪ'CE. Sister and wife of Ptolemy Euergetes. Her beautiful hair was placed in the heavens as a constellation.

- PRO-MÈ'THE-US, or PRO-MÈ'THÈÛS. Son of Iapetus and Clymene, cousin to Epimetheus, and father of Deucalion. Having stolen fire from heaven, he was bound fast on Mount Caucasus and tormented by a vulture, which fed continually upon his liver.
- PRO-SÈR'PI-NÀ, or PRŌS'ER-PINE. Daughter of Jupiter and Ceres, wife of Pluto and queen of Hell.
- PRŌ'TE-US, or PRŌ'TÈÛS. A sea-god who foretold future events, and possessed the power of transforming himself into various shapes.
- PSY'CHE (s'ŭke). A nymph beloved by Cupid, and made immortal by Jupiter.
- PYGMES. A nation of dwarfs, in Africa, only a span high. Every spring they were attacked and defeated by the cranes.
- PYG-MÀ'LI-ON. 1. Son of Belus, king of Tyre, and brother of Dido, whose husband, Sichæus, he slew for his money. 2. Great-grandson of Belus, who made a statue of which he became so enamored, that Venus on his entreaty gave it life.
- PYL'A-DÈS. A most constant friend of Orestes.
- PYR'A-MUS. A Babylonian, the lover of Thisbe. On account of her supposed death he stabbed himself under a mulberry tree; and she, finding his corpse, put an end to her life on the same spot and with the same weapon.
- PYR'RHÀ. See DEUCALION.
- PYR'RHIUS. Son of Achilles and Deidamia. He distinguished himself at the siege of Troy by his cruelty and vindictiveness as well as bravery. At the instigation of his wife he was slain by Orestes.
- PYTH'I-AS. [Properly Phintias.] See PHINTIAS.
- PY'THON. A huge serpent, killed near Delphi, by Apollo, who insin-
- tated the Pythian games in commemoration of the event.
- QUI-R'NUS. A name given to Romulus after his death and deification.
- RÈ'MUS. The twin brother of Romulus, slain by him for leaping in scorn over the walls of Rome when they were building.
- RHÀ'D'A-MÀN'THUS. A law-giver of Crete, son of Jupiter, and brother of Minos. He was famous for his justice and equity, and was, therefore, after death, made one of the judges in the lower world.
- RHÈ'À. Another name of Cybele.
- RŌM'U-LUS. A son of Mars and Rhea Silvia. His uncle threw him as soon as born into the Tiber, but he was saved and brought up by a shepherd, and finally became the founder and first king of Rome.
- SAL-MŌ'NÈ-US, or SAL-MŌ'NÈÛS. A king of Elis, struck by lightning for imitating the thunder-bolts of Jove.
- SAR-PÈ'DON. A son of Jupiter and Europa, and king of Lycia, who distinguished himself at the siege of Troy, and was killed by Patroclus.
- SÀT'URN. Son of Cœlus and Terra, and father of Jupiter. Having been banished from the throne of heaven by his son, he fled for safety into Italy, and taught the people agriculture and the useful arts. The time in which he did this is called The Golden Age.
- SÀ'TYRÈS. Lascivious Sylvan deities, with horns and goats' feet.
- SCYLLÀ. 1. A daughter of Phœreus, changed by Circe, out of jealousy, into a sea-monster, with dogs about the haunches, and placed on a rock on the Italian coast, opposite Charrydis on the coast of Sicily. 2. A daughter of Nisus of Megara, beloved by Minos, for whom she cut off her father's head a purple lock, on which his life depended; for which crime she was changed into a lark.
- SÈM'VE-LÈ. Daughter of Cadmus, and mother of Bacchus by Jupiter.
- SÌ-LÈ'NUS. The foster-father of Bacchus; lascivious and addicted to drunkenness, but regarded as the god of abstruse mysteries and knowledge. He is represented as bald-headed, with short horns and a flat nose, and as riding on an ass.
- SIL-VÀ'NUS. See SYLVANUS.
- SÌ'RENS. Three virgins, with the faces of virgins, on the southern coast of Italy, where with their sweet voices they enticed ashore those who were sailing by, and then killed them. They were daughters of Oceanus and Parthenope, and their names were Leucasia, Ligeia, and Parthenope.
- SÌS'Y-PHUS. Son of Æolus, king of Corinth, and a noted robber, killed by Theseus. For his crimes, he was condemned in hell to roll to the top - of a hill a huge stone, which constantly fell back again to the bottom.

- SOL. A name of Apollo.
- SOM'NUS. A son of Erebus and Nox, and the god of sleep.
- SPH'NX. A fabulous monster near Thebes, with the head of a woman, the body of a lion, and the wings of a bird, which put forth riddles to passers by, and devoured all who were unable to solve them; Œdipus solved one proposed to him, whereupon she destroyed herself.
- STR'ENT'OR. One of the Greeks before Troy. His voice is said to have been as loud as the voices of fifty men together.
- STR'YX. A river in the infernal regions, by which the gods swore their most solemn oaths.
- SYL-VAN'NUS. A Roman deity who presided over woods and all places planted with trees.
- TAN'TA-LUS. A king of Phrygia, son of Jupiter, and father of Niobe and Pelops. For his misdeeds he was placed in a lake of water which receded whenever he attempted to drink, and under a tree laden with all manner of delicious fruits, which always eluded his grasp.
- TAR'TAR-US. The place of punishment in Hades, or the lower world.
- TAL'A-MON. One of the Argonauts, son of Æacus, brother of Peleus, and father of Ajax and Teucer. He was king of Salamis, and first scaled the walls, when Hercules took the city of Troy in the reign of Laomedon.
- TE-LEM'A-CHUS. The only son of Ulysses and Penelope. He went in search of his father after the siege of Troy.
- TEL'LUS. The earth personified; the most ancient of all the deities after Chaos. She is represented as a woman with many breasts distended with milk.
- TEM'PE. A valley of Thessaly through which ran the river Peneus, between Ossa and Pelion; described by the poets as the most delightful spot on the earth.
- TÉR'MI-NUS. A divinity at Rome, who was supposed to preside over bounds and limits, and to punish all unlawful usurpations of land.
- TERP-SICH'O-RE. The Muse who presided over dancing.
- TÉ'THYS. Wife of Oceanus, and mother of the sea-nymphs and river-gods.
- THA-L'ÛA. 1. One of the Muses; the Muse of comedy. 2. One of the three Graces.
- THÉ'MIS. The daughter of Cœlus and Terra, and goddess of justice, who rewarded virtue and punished vice.
- THÉ'SE-US, or THÉ'SEÛS. King of Athens and one of the most famous heroes of antiquity. He was the son of Ægeus (or, as some say, of Neptune) and Æthra, husband of Ariadne and afterward of Phædra, and father of Hippolytus by the Amazonian Hippolyte. He was especially noted for slaying the Minotaur and conquering the Centaurs, and for his friendship for Pirithous.
- THIS'BE. See PYRAMUS.
- TI-SÍPH'O-NE. One of the three Furies.
- TIT'AN. 1. Son of Cœlus and Terra, elder brother of Saturn, and father of a race of giants called Titans, who contended with Saturn for the sovereignty of heaven, until Jupiter (Saturn's son), cast them by his thunderbolts into Tartarus. 2. A grandson of the above, and son of Hyperion; the sun-god. 3. A name given to Prometheus, as grandson of Titan.
- TI-TH'ONUS. Son of Laomedon and father of Memnon, by Aurora, who endowed him with immortality, and when he had become very old and decrepit turned him into a grass-hopper.
- TÍT'Y-US. A son of Jupiter, slain by Apollo for an attempt on the chastity of Latona, and condemned, in the infernal regions, to have a vulture forever feeding on his liver, which was perpetually renewed. He was a giant of size so huge that his body, when stretched out, covered nine acres of land.
- TRIP-TÓL'E-MÛS. A king of Eleusis, who was the inventor of agriculture, and became a judge in the lower world.
- TRÍ'TON. Son of Neptune and the nymph Salacia; a sea-god, and Neptune's trumpeter.
- TRÓ'T-LUS. Son of Priam and Hecuba, slain by Achilles.
- TRO-PHÓ'NI-US. A deity who imparted oracles in a cave near Lebædia, in Bœotia. He was the builder of Apollo's temple at Delphi.
- TÛR'NUS. A king of the Rutuli, in Italy, killed by Æneas.
- TÛ'D'E-ÛS, or TÛ'Ï'EÛS. A king of Calydon, son of Cœneus, and father of Diomedes; celebrated for his victory over Etœceles, king of Thebes.
- TÛ'PHON,
TÛ'-PHO'E-US, or TÛ'-PHO'EÛS. } A famous giant, struck with lightning by Jupiter, and buried under Mount Ætna.
- U-LÛ'S'SËS. Son of Laërtes, husband of Penelope, father of Telemachus, and king of Ithaca; the most eloquent, wise, and politic of the Grecian heroes in the Trojan war.
- U-RÁ'NI-A. The Muse who presided over astronomy.
- Û'RA-NUS. The most ancient of the gods, husband of Tellus or Terra (the Earth), and father of Saturn. By the Romans, he was called Cœlus.
- VÉ'NUS. The goddess of love, gracefulness, beauty, and pleasure; wife of Vulcan, mother of Cupid, Æneas, &c.
- VER-TÛM'NUS. A Roman deity who presided over the seasons (particularly Spring) and their productions. He was the lover of Pomona.
- VÉS'TA. The goddess of flocks and herds, and of the household in general; daughter of Saturn and sister of Jupiter, Neptune, Pluto, Juno, and Ceres. Her temple contained a sacred fire, tended by virgins, and never permitted to go out.
- VÛL'CAN. Son of Jupiter and Juno, and husband of Venus. He was the god of fire, and presided over workers in metal. His workshop was supposed to be under Mount Ætna, where, assisted by the Cyclops, he forged the thunderbolts of Jove, who is said to have kicked him out of heaven on account of his deformity.
- ZÉPHY-RUS. The west wind, son of Æolus and Aurora, and the passionate lover of the goddess Flora.
- ZÉ'TEË. One of the Argonauts, son of Boreas and Orithnia, and brother to Calais, together with whom he pursued the Harpies, and drove them from Thrace. He is generally described as a winged being.
- ZÉ'THUS. Son of Jupiter and Antiope, and twin-brother of Amphion; very expert in music.
- ZÉÛS. The Greek name of Jupiter.

PRINCIPAL COMMERCIAL COUNTRIES IN THE WORLD;

THE VALUE OF THE MONEY IN EACH GIVEN IN THE UNITED STATES FEDERAL CURRENCY; AND OF THE WEIGHTS AND MEASURES IN THE WEIGHTS AND MEASURES IN ORDINARY USE IN THE UNITED STATES, AND ALSO IN THE WEIGHTS AND MEASURES OF THE METRIC SYSTEM.

By E. B. ELLIOTT,

OF THE UNITED STATES TREASURY DEPARTMENT.

UNITED STATES.

(Principal Commercial City, NEW YORK.)

Money.

The National currency of the United States is termed the FEDERAL CURRENCY. Its different denominations proceed in a decimal proportion. The unit of money is the dollar

10 mills	=	1 cent.
10 cents	=	1 dime.
10 dimes	=	1 dollar.
10 dollars	=	1 eagle.

The mill is not coined.

The coin of the United States consists of gold, of silver, of nickel, and of bronze.

The standard gold coin contains, by weight, nine tenths pure gold, and one tenth alloy — the alloy being silver and copper, the silver by law not exceeding one half, but in fact falling much short of this limit, and so far as it can conveniently be done excluded from the alloy. The standard silver coin contains nine tenths pure silver, and one tenth alloy — the alloy being copper. The nickel coin is composed of nickel and copper — the nickel not exceeding twenty-five per cent. The bronze coin contains five per cent. of tin and zinc, and ninety-five per cent. of copper.

GOLD. — From gold of standard purity are coined double eagles, eagles, half-eagles, quarter-eagles, three-dollar and one-dollar pieces. The dollar contains twenty-five grains and eight tenths of a grain (25.8 grains = 0.05875 of an ounce troy) of standard gold. The weights of other gold coins are in proportion.

SILVER. — From silver of standard purity are coined dollars, half-dollars, quarter dollars, dimes, half dimes, and three-cent pieces. The dollar coin contains 412½ grains of standard silver. The half-dollar coin contains 192 grains of standard silver, and the other smaller coins (quarters, dimes, half dimes, and three-cent pieces), in the same proportion as the half dollar — the value of the half dollar and smaller coins being proportionately less by nearly seven and one half per cent. (7.42) of their value than that of the dollar coin.

NICKEL. — Metric Weight of Coins. — From nickel ($\frac{1}{4}$ pure and $\frac{3}{4}$ copper) are coined five-cent and three-cent pieces

—each of the former weighing just 5 grammes (French), or 77.16 grains nearly, and having a diameter of two centimeters: the latter coin weighing 30 grains.

The five-cent coin of nickel is the first issued from the United States mint with the avowed design of presenting a simple relation to the metric (French) system of weight and measure. It is, however, worthy of note, that the standard weight of the U. S. three-dollar gold coin is also almost precisely five grammes (more exactly 5.015,) a difference of about three tenths of one per cent. in excess; and that the standard weight of two U. S. silver dimes is also very nearly the same (more exactly 4.976 grammes), the difference being about one half of one per cent. in defect. That is, our entire gold and silver coinage, with the exception of the silver dollar coin, conforms almost precisely to the French metric system of weights — as nearly so as is practicable, while legally grains and troy ounces are employed to designate their weights.

BRONZE. — From bronze (5 per cent. zinc and tin and 95 per cent. copper) are coined one-cent and two-cent pieces — the former weighing 48 grains, or one tenth of an ounce, and the latter in proportion.

LEGAL TENDER. — The gold coins and the silver dollar are legal tender of payment in all amounts. The half dollar and smaller silver coins (quarter dollars, dimes, half dimes, and three-cent pieces) are legal tender in sums not exceeding five dollars. The nickel five-cent coins are legal tender in sums not exceeding one dollar, and the nickel three-cent coins in sums not exceeding sixty cents. The bronze coinage (one-cent and two-cent pieces) is not legal tender in sums exceeding four cents in amount, but may be paid out from the mint in exchange for the lawful currency of the United States.

UNITED STATES COINS AT DIFFERENT PERIODS. — Under the Act of Congress of the 2d of April 1792, under which act the national coinage originated, the weight of standard gold in the eagle was fixed at 270 grains. Under the Act of the 28th of June, 1834, this weight was reduced to 258 grains, which weight is still retained. The weight of pure gold contained in the eagle under the earlier of these two acts, was 247½ grains; under the later act, 232 grains.

By the Act of January, 1837, it was declared, that the gold and silver coins of the United States should contain nine tenths of pure metal and one tenth of alloy — the alloy, in the case of gold coins, to be of silver and copper; the silver not to exceed one half. Accordingly, the proportion of pure metal in the eagle was slightly increased, the quantity becoming 232.2, as now, instead of 232 grains. The alloy of silver coins was to be copper.

The quantity of pure metal in the silver dollar, 371½ grains, established by the Act of the 2d of April, 1792, (and which, it should be observed, is just fifteen times the weight of pure metal in the gold dollar of that date—or 1½ times the weight of pure metal in the gold eagle,) has continued unchanged, as to the entire dollar, to the present time; the weight of standard metal in the coin has, however, been somewhat reduced by abstracting therefrom a part of the alloy; ¾ grains of alloy being withdrawn by the Act of the 18th of January, 1837, and its standard weight thereby reduced from 416 grains to 412½, the present standard.

The weight of the half-dollar and the smaller silver coins (quarters, dimes, and half-dimes,) was by the Act of the 21st of February, 1853, still further diminished; the weight of the half-dollar being fixed at 192 grains, nine tenths fine, and that of silver coins of smaller denominations in proportion.

Under the Act of the 3d of March, 1851, a three-cent silver coin ($\frac{1}{3}$ fine) was issued, weighing twelve and three eighths ($12\frac{3}{8}$) grains. Under an Act of the 3d of March, 1853, the same fineness (nine tenths) was adopted for the silver three-cent coins as for other silver coins, and the weight was made proportional.

All gold coins issued subsequently to the Act of the 18th of January, 1837, are legal tender in any amount. All silver coins issued prior to the 21st of February, 1853, and all dollar coins of silver whenever issued, are legal tender to any amount; and all silver coins of smaller denomination than one dollar, issued since the enactment of that law, are legal tender in sums not exceeding five dollars.

Coins of unmixt copper have nearly disappeared from circulation, but are occasionally seen. They have not been coined since 1857. The half-cent pieces ceased to be coined by the Act of February 21, 1853. The Spanish and Mexican dollar and their fractional parts have not been in circulation since 1849.

PAPER MONEY. — Early in the late civil war, notes of the United States government—not bearing interest—were declared by Congress legal tender in payment of all dues to the government, except duties on imports; and in payment of all claims against the government except interest on the public debt; and in payment of all debts, public and private, except duties on imports and interest as aforesaid.

The earlier issues of these legal tender notes, when presented in sums not less than fifty dollars, were made exchangeable at par for certificates convertible into certain United States securities bearing six per cent. interest in gold; but by a later Act of Congress these notes ceased to be so exchangeable unless presented prior to July 1st, 1863.

Notes of banks, organized under National laws, are extensively, and under State laws to a very limited extent, employed as the representatives of legal tender notes. The circulation of the notes of the National Banks is limited by law to $300,000,000, very nearly the whole of which amount is constantly in circulation; but only coin and government notes are legal tender. Gold and silver coins have disappeared from circulation, and are sold in market at a premium; legal tender notes of the denominations of one dollar and upwards, and fractional notes of the denominations of fifty cents, twenty-five cents, ten cents, and five cents, taking their place. But few of the five-cent notes, however, continue in circulation, the law now requiring their withdrawal.

The relative annual average values of gold and of legal tender paper currency, in open market in New York city, have been as follows:—

Calendar Years.	Value in Currency of $100 in Gold.	Value in Gold of $100 in Currency.
1832	$114	$88
1833	$144	$70
1834	$204	$49
1835	$157	$64
1836	$141	$71
1837	$138	$72

NATIONAL SECURITIES. — Five-Twenties. — The securities known as "Five-Twenties"—so called from the number of years for which they are issued—are government bonds, some with coupons attached, others registered, redeemable at the pleasure of the government on due notice to the holders, at any time after five years, and payable in twenty years from the date of issue. These bonds bear interest in coin, payable semi-annually, at the rate of six per cent. per annum.

Ten-Forties. — The "Ten-Forties," so called, are five per cent. securities (some with coupons, others registered), redeemable after ten, and payable forty years from date, principal and interest payable in coin. The interest on bonds of the denominations of fifty and one hundred dollars respectively is payable annually, on all other denominations semi-annually.

Seven-Thirties. — The "Seven-Thirties"—so called from the rate of interest which they bear—are treasury-notes with coupons attached, the interest being payable semi-annually in lawful money (currency), at the rate of seven and three-tenths per cent. per annum (or, one cent a day on each fifty-dollars), and convertible at maturity at the option of the holder into six per cent. gold-bearing securities redeemable after five, and payable twenty years from date. Their dates of issue are June 15, and July 15, 1865. On the July issue the government reserves the right of paying the interest in coin at six per cent.

Sixes of 1881. — The six per cent., twenty-year loan, maturing in 1881, principal and interest payable in coin, can not be redeemed by the government prior to maturity, except by purchase.

The above comprise the principal forms of government securities.

Weights and Measures.

STANDARD UNITS.

Standard of Length. — The actual standard of length of the United States, is a brass scale of eighty-two inches in length, prepared for the survey of the coast of the United States, by Troughton of London, and now in the possession of the United States Treasury Department, and deposited at the office of Weights and Measures. The yard measure is between the twenty-seventh and the sixty-third inches of the scale. The temperature at which this scale was designed to be standard, and at which it is so used in conducting the operations of the United States Coast Survey, is 62° Fahrenheit. Late comparisons show that on the United States standard scale at 62° Fahrenheit, the yard is in excess of the British standard by 0.00087 inch. According to a report made as Chairman of the Committee of Weights and Measures, by Professor A. D. Bache, late Superintendent of the United States Coast Survey, in 1860, before the American Association for the Advancement of Science, "the standard temperature of the United States yard" "has never been authoritatively here fixed."

The unit of length — the yard — is derived from ancient arbitrary standards in England. Its thirty-sixth part — the inch — is said to be contained 39,139.29 times in the length of the pendulum that, in a vacuum and at the level of mid-tide, under the latitude of London, vibrates seconds of mean time.

Comparison of the Common with the Metric Standards of Length. — According to Hassler, the meter contains 39,370.91714 of the inch-divisions of the Troughton scale at 32° Fahrenheit; and, consequently, making due allowance for the expansion by heat of the metal scale, 39,365.50154 of these inch-divisions, when the bar is at 62° Fahrenheit. The number of imperial inches in the meter, according to Kater, and adopted in the late Act of Parliament, which rendered the use of the metric system permissible in Great Britain, is 39,370.79. The number of United States inches in the meter, according to the Act of Congress of 1866, authorizing the use of the metric system of weights and measures in the United States, is 39.37.

Standard of Weight. — The weights of the United States are designed to be identical with those of England. The standard of weight is the troy pound, copied in 1827, by Captain Kater, from the imperial troy pound of England, for the use of the mint of the United States, and there deposited. This pound is standard when in air in which the mercury stands at 30 inches in a barometer, and at 62 degrees in the Fahrenheit thermometer. The pound troy is assumed to contain 5,760 grains: the commercial or avoirdupois pound, contains 7,000 of these grains.

Standards of Volume. — The standard of liquid measure is the gallon; of dry measure, the bushel. The former is almost exactly equivalent to a cylinder 7 inches in internal diameter, and 6 inches in height; the latter to a cylinder of 18.5 inches internal diameter, and 8 inches in height, and when heaped the cone must not be less than 6 inches high, containing for a true cone, 2,747.715 cubic inches.

The gallon, if filled with distilled water at the temperature of its maximum density (say 39.83° Fahrenheit, as determined by Mr. Hassler), contains, according to the official report, at that temperature, if weighed in air in which the barometer is 30 inches at 62° Fahrenheit, 58,372.2 standard grains (8,3339 pounds avoirdupois). — The bushel is a measure containing 543,391.89 standard grains (77,6274 pounds avoirdupois) of distilled water at the temperature of maximum density, and barometer at 30 inches at 62° Fahrenheit.

According to Mr. Hassler's comparisons, the weight of a cubic foot of water at its maximum density, the barometer being 30 inches at 62° Fahrenheit, is 938,068 ounces avoirdupois; the weight of a cubic inch of such water being 252.6937 grains. The United States gallon is thus the old wine gallon of 231 inches, nearly; and the United States bushel, the Winchester bushel of 2150.42 cubic inches nearly.

The British standard measure of volume, by Act of 1824, is the imperial gallon containing, when weighed in air, both air and water being at the temperature of 62° Fahrenheit, and the barometer at 30 inches, 10 pounds avoirdupois. The cubic inch of distilled water (temperature 62°, barometer 30 inches), is declared to contain 252.458 grains; hence the imperial standard gallon contains 277.274 cubic inches. The imperial bushel, of 8 imperial gallons, contains 2218.192 cubic inches. Its dimensions are 19.5 inches outside diameter, 8.5 inside diameter, 18.25 depth, and 6 inches height of cone for heaped measure; the contents of the heaped bushel being 2815.488 cubic inches.

The United States standard gallon is to the imperial standard gallon, nearly, as 5 to 6; the United States standard bushel is to the imperial standard bushel, nearly, as 32 to 33.

METRIC SYSTEM.

Metric System of Weights and Measures Permissible. — By an Act of Congress approved in July, 1866, the use of the weights and measures of the metric system is made permissible; and contracts are declared not to be invalid because the weights and measures expressed or referred to therein are weights and measures of that system.

The following tables of equivalents are also therein recognized in the construction of contracts and in all legal proceedings.

Metric Standards to be furnished each State.—By a joint Congressional resolution of the same date, the Secretary of the Treasury was "authorized and directed" to furnish to each State, "one set of the standard weights and measures of the metric system."

Metric Postal Balances to be furnished certain Post-offices.—By another act of the same date, the Postmaster-General was "authorized and directed to furnish to the post-offices exchanging mails with foreign countries, and to such other offices as he shall think expedient, postal balances denominated in grammes of the metric system; and until otherwise provided by law, one half ounce avoirdupois shall be deemed and taken for postal purposes as the equivalent of fifteen grammes of the metric weights, and so adopted in progression; and the rates of postage shall be applied accordingly."

It will be seen on reference to the tables above given, that one half-ounce avoirdupois is actually equal to about 14.176 grammes instead of fifteen grammes.

Length of the Meter.—The meter was designed to be the ten-millionth part ($\frac{1}{10,000,000}$) of the earth's meridian passing through Dunkirk and Formentera.† Later investigations, however, based on additional measures of meridional arcs in other parts of the world, have shown that the meter sensibly exceeds such ten-millionth part of the quadrant—the excess being equal (as is stated by Sir John Herschel) to about one part in 6400.

* Of water at maximum density.

† Sir John Herschel has called attention to the remarkable fact, not generally known, that the earth's polar semi-axis contains almost precisely 1001 millions of English quarter-inches; and recommends the augmentation of the existing English measures of length by their one thousandth aliquot part: the augmented measures to be designated "geometrical measures."

This augmented, a cubic double foot (or a cube, the sides of which are each twenty-four "geometrical" inches), will contain almost exactly 1000 half pounds avoirdupois, (more exactly 1000.131) of distilled water at its temperature of maximum density; and a square the side of which measures 10,000 of the new (or geometrical) quarter-inches, will contain almost precisely one acre, (more exactly, 0.9984 acre). These close approximations to integral ratios, show that the familiar units of measure and weight may be very nearly preserved in a decimal system based upon a natural unit.

1 lb. troy	=	5,760 grains.
1 lb. avdp.	=	7,000 grains.

This weight is applied to all coarse articles, such as hay, meat, fish, potash, groceries, hemp, flax, butter, cheese, &c., and all metals, except gold and silver. Gross weight is the weight of goods with the boxes, casks, or bags which contain them. Net weight is the weight of the goods only. Formerly, the usual custom was to allow 112 pounds for a hundred weight, and 28 pounds for a quarter; but this practice has very nearly passed away. In buying and selling all articles of commerce estimated by weight, the laws of most of the States, as well as general usage, call 100 pounds a hundred weight, and 25 pounds a quarter. The custom-house, however, continues the old usage.

Troy Weight.

69½ statute miles	=	1 equatorial deg. nearly.
3 inches	=	1 palm.
4 inches	=	1 hand (horse measure).
9 inches	=	1 span.
18 inches	=	1 cubit (Scripture).

Long Measure is used in measuring distances, where length only is considered.

Square Measure.

144 sq. inches	=	1 square foot.
9 sq. feet	=	1 square yard.
30½ sq. yards or } 27½ sq. feet	=	1 square rod, perch, or pole.
40 sq. rods	=	1 rood.
4 rods or } 160 sq. rods	=	1 acre.
640 acres	=	1 square mile.

Square Measure is used in measuring surfaces, as land, flooring, plastering, &c.

Cubic Measure.

1728 cubic inches	=	1 cubic foot.
27 cubic feet	=	1 cubic yard.
40 feet of round, or } 50 feet of hewn timber }	=	1 ton, or load.

42 cubic feet	=	1 ton of shipping.
16 cubic feet	=	{ 1 foot of wood, or a cord foot.
8 cord feet, or {
128 cubic feet }	=	1 cord.

Cubic Measure is used in measuring solid bodies, having length, breadth, and thickness; as timber, stone, boxes of goods, the capacity of rooms, ships, &c

Cloth Measure.

2½ inches	=	1 nail, na.
4 nails	=	1 quarter, qr.
4 quarters	=	1 yard, yd.
3 quarters	=	1 ell Flemish.
5 quarters	=	1 ell English.
6 quarters	=	1 ell French.
37.2 inches	=	1 ell Scotch.

This measure is used in buying and selling cloth, ribbons, &c.

Wine Measure.

4 gills	=	1 pint, pt.
2 pints	=	1 quart, qt.
4 quarts	=	1 gallon, gal.
42 gallons	=	1 tierce.
1½ tierce, or 63 gal.	=	1 hoghead, hhd.
1½ hoghead, or 84 gal.	=	1 puncheon.
1½ puncheon, or 126 gal.	=	1 pipe.
2 pipes	=	1 tun.
231 cubic inches	=	1 gallon.
10 gallons	=	1 anker.
18 gallons	=	1 runlet.
81½ gallons	=	1 barrel.

Wine, spirits, cider, vinegar, oil, honey, &c., are measured and sold by this measure. In London the gill is usually called a quartern; but in the North of England it is a noggin, and a half pint is termed a gill.

Ale and Beer Measure.

2 pints	=	1 quart.
4 quarts	=	1 gallon.
9 gallons	=	1 firkin.
2 firkins	=	18 gal. = 1 kilderkin.
2 kilderkins	=	36 gal. = 1 barrel.
1 barrel	=	54 gal. = 1 hoghead.
1½ hoghead	=	72 gal. = 1 puncheon.
1½ puncheon	=	108 gal. = 1 butt.

The Ale gallon contains 282 cubic inches. In some of the New England States, the barrel for cider and beer is legally fixed at 32 gallons. In other States it is of different capacity.

Apothecaries' Measure.

60 minims (or drops), \mathcal{M}	=	1 fluidrachm, fʒ.
8 fluidrachms	=	1 fluidounce, fʒ.
16 fluidounces	=	1 pint (octarius), 0.
8 pints	=	1 gallon (congius).

Dry Measure.

2 pints	=	1 quart, qt.
4 quarts	=	1 gallon, gal.
2 gallons	=	1 peck, pk.
4 pecks	=	1 bushel, bu.
36 bushels	=	1 chaldron, ch.
4 bushels (in England)	=	1 coom.
2 cooms " "	=	1 quarter.
5 quarters " "	=	1 wey.
2 weys " "	=	1 last.

A gallon, dry measure, contains 268 4-5 cubic inches. This measure applies to all goods that are not liquid and are sold by measure, as corn, fruit, salt, coal, &c.

Shipping Admeasurement.

REGISTER TON.—For Register Tonnage, or for measurement of the entire internal capacity of a vessel:—
100 cubic feet = 1 register ton.

This number is arbitrarily assumed to facilitate computation.

SHIPPING TON.—For the measurement of cargo:—

40 cubic feet	{	=	1 U. S. shipping ton.
		=	31.16 imperial bushels.
		=	32.143 U. S. bushels.
42 cubic feet	{	=	1 British shipping ton.
		=	32.719 imperial bushels.
		=	33.75 U. S. bushels.
350 cubic feet	=	1 keel.

1 U. S. (or Winchester) bushel	=	2150.42 cubic inches
1 imperial bushel	{	=	2218.192 " "
		=	1.0315157 U. S. bu.
		=	8 imperial bushels.
1 English quarter	{	=	8½ U. S. bu. (nearly.)
		=	17745.54 cubic in.
		=	10.2694 cubic feet.

A shipping ton (U. S.) of 40 cubic feet equals three and nine-tenths (3.895) English quarters of 8 imperial (or 8½ U. S.) bushels each. A shipping ton (British) of 42 cubic feet, equals four and one-tenth (4.09) English quarters. A shipping ton of 41 (or more exactly 40.9776) cubic feet, would equal exactly four English quarters; i. e., 32 imperial bushels, or 33 United States bushels.

WHEAT A STANDARD OF VOLUME AND WEIGHT.—Wheat is a standard alike for the volume and weight of cargoes. When in bulk on board ship, this commodity occupies about fifteen per cent. less space than when filled into measures of capacity in the customary way. So compressed, a ton of 2240 pounds occupies about 40 cubic feet.

MEASUREMENT CARGO.—The capacity of a vessel for cargo, on voyages of average length, is usually estimated at from 20 to 25 per cent. less than her Register Tonnage, or entire internal capacity. This net space, in cubic feet, divided by 40, gives, in shipping tons, of 40 cubic feet each, her "Measurement Cargo," so called, or her net carrying capacity, in shipping tons. Her measurement cargo is, therefore, from 1½ to 2 times the number of register tons, of 100 cubic feet each, in her Register Tonnage.

DEAD WEIGHT CARGO.—The "Dead Weight Cargo" of a vessel, or the net weight in tons, of the cargo which the vessel can safely carry on voyages of average length, is approximately ascertained by dividing the entire internal capacity of the vessel in cubic feet by 63, and deducting from the gross result one-fourteenth (or about 7 per cent.) for the weights of water, provisions, crew, and their luggage. The number of tons weight in this net result is, therefore, about 1½ times the Register Tonnage, or number of tons of volume in the entire internal capacity of the vessel.

LOAD DISPLACEMENT.—The "Load Displacement" of a vessel, or the entire weight of the vessel, cargo, &c., when fully equipped and ready for sea, may be ascertained by dividing the number of cubic feet of sea-water displaced by the vessel by 35, the number of cubic feet occupied by a ton (2240 pounds) of sea-water.

RELATIVE BUOYANCY OF IRON AND WOODEN HULLS.—In case of vessels of wooden hulls, whether sailing or steam, about 60 per cent of the "load displacement" is for cargo, and 33 per cent. for the hull, the remaining 7 per cent. being for the weights of water, provisions, crew, &c. In case of iron hulls, if of sailing vessels, the weight allowed for cargo is about 68 per cent. of the displacement, if of steam, 65 per cent. The weight of cargo which can be carried is therefore relatively greater with iron hulls than with wooden; 13 per cent. greater, if of sailing vessels, 9 per cent. if of steam.

NEW MODE OF ADMEASUREMENT OF VESSELS.—

The new "mode" for the admeasurement of vessels in use in the United States, since the Act of Congress of May, 1864, is very accurate; prior to that date, the system was rude, and, in its results, inaccurate. The new system differs somewhat from the British system (adopted by Act of Parliament in 1854), chiefly as applied to steamers. In the British measurement of steamers, deductions are made for the space occupied by engines, boilers, and coal; no such deductions being made for United States steamers under the United States law. Under the new United States method, the Register Tonnage of double-decked and three-decked vessels is somewhat augmented, of clipper and half clipper vessels diminished, of single-decked sailing vessels, canal boats, and freight barges on the western rivers diminished, and of river and lake steamers largely increased.

GREAT BRITAIN.

(Principal Commercial City, LONDON.)

Money.

The national currency of Great Britain is called Sterling Money—thus we say, so many pounds sterling. The pound sterling is represented by a gold coin called a sovereign, and its custom-house value in the United States is fixed by law at $4.84. The intrinsic value of the sovereign varies somewhat, depending on the date of the coinage. Victoria sovereigns are worth the most, as being of the latest coinage; those of William IV., George IV., or George III. less, as more worn. The intrinsic value of the legal standard sovereign is $4.86.66. The commercial value of the pound sterling varies, like merchandise, according to demand; $4.84 is that on which duties are charged. Thus, if you buy a bill of goods in London of £100 on which the duty in this country is 25 per cent., and import them, you pay at the custom-house, together with certain other charges not necessary to be here specified, 25 per cent. on $484, or $121. What is called the par value of the pound sterling in the United States is $4.44 4-9. The par value of the pound in London, in American coin, is $4.80. The difference between the par value of the pound sterling in this country ($4.44 4-9) and the actual value to us here, at the time, of a pound sterling in London, is called the exchange. Thus, if exchange on London, in New York, is 9 per cent., a pound sterling is worth $4.44 4-9, and 9 per cent. added, or $4.84 4-9. If 7 per cent., of course, less; if 10 per cent., more.

Freight bills for goods by ship are payable at $4.80 the pound, which is eight per cent. on $4.44 4-9. Exchange on London is usually 7 to 10 per cent. in New York, i. e., a pound sterling in London is worth $4.44 4-9 and 7 to 10 per cent. additional, in New York, nearly.

In the following Tables the pound sterling is given at $4.8666—, which is its intrinsic value when of standard weight and fineness; it being understood, however, that its commercial value in exchange is sometimes higher and sometimes lower.

From a troy ounce of gold of standard fineness (11-12) are coined 77 shillings, and 10½ pence sterling; hence, the sovereign when of standard weight and fineness contains of pure gold 113.0016 grains. From a troy ounce of silver of standard fineness (37-40) are coined 60 pence.

The currency is of coins of gold, silver, and copper (or bronze), and of Bank of England notes, exchangeable on demand at their full nominal value for gold and silver.

Gold is the standard of value, being legal tender in all amounts. Silver and copper are subsidiary coinages, the former legal tender in payment only of sums not exceeding 40 shillings, and the latter only to the amount of 12 pence.

Of copper are coined farthings, half-pennies, and pennies; of silver, threepenny, fourpenny, and sixpenny pieces, shillings, florins, and crowns; of gold, sovereigns, half-sovereigns, guineas, and half-guineas.

In 1860, a bronze coinage was introduced, composed of 95 parts by weight of copper, 4 of tin, and 1 of zinc. A few two-penny and penny pieces are coined from silver, and are distributed as alms by the sovereign, but are not in general circulation. Double sovereigns, although authorized, are not in circulation.

The gold coins consist of 11-12 of pure metal, and 1-12 of alloy. The alloy is of silver and copper. The proportion of silver, however, is small, and it is without commercial value, as it cannot be separated by any economic method. In computing the value of gold coins, the alloy is considered as of no value.

The silver coins are 11.1-12 (or 37-40) of fine silver, and 0.9-12 (or 3-40) of copper alloy.

A pound troy of standard gold is coined into 44½ guineas, or 46 29-40 sovereigns, and a pound troy of standard silver into 66 shillings; the mint price of standard gold consequently being 77s. 10½*d.* per ounce, and that of standard silver 66*d.* per ounce. Prior to the year 1816, a pound troy of standard silver was coined into 62 shillings, and such silver coin, equally with gold, was the legal tender in all amounts. That is, prior to this change in the year 1816, England had endeavored to maintain a "double standard" (so called) of coinage (gold and silver); it has since had but a single standard (gold), all other coins being subsidiary and legal tender only in payment of sums of small amount. The absurd attempt effectively to maintain simultaneously in circulation two metals, gold and silver, each legal tender in payment of all amounts, was practically abandoned by the United States in 1853, and by France in 1865, although a double standard is still nominally retained in each of these two countries. The market value of the silver in the legal tender silver coins of each of these countries being greater than that of the legal tender gold coins of the same denomination, they are forced to retire from circulation; but the intrinsic value of their subsidiary silver coins, legal tender in small amounts, being less than that of the corresponding gold coins, they circulate freely, and are largely employed in facilitating the lesser exchanges of commerce.

From the proportions given above, it will be seen that the weight of pure gold to the weight of pure silver in English coins of the same denominations, is as 1 to 14.2878; also, that the weight of standard gold is to that of standard silver of like denominations as 1 to 14.1590. According to the average of the relative intrinsic values of the two metals, for the fourteen years, 1853-66, as deduced from the periodical quotations of the price of silver in bars in the London market, the weights of equal values of gold and silver, respectively, have been very nearly as 1 to 15 $\frac{1}{2}$; and consequently the relative values of equal weights of gold and silver have been in the inverse ratio of these numbers, that is, as 15 $\frac{1}{2}$ to 1.

The following Table shows the average relative values of pure gold and pure silver, for the greater part of the one hundred and seven years, from 1760 to 1866, inclusive; the values for the twenty-six years, from 1841 to 1866, inclusive, having been carefully deduced from trustworthy quotations of the sterling market price of silver bars in London.

AUSTRIA.

(Chief Commercial City, VIENNA.)

Money.

Silver is the standard, the price of gold coin varying with the relative market values of the two metals. In comparing the values of moneys of countries in which silver is the standard, with those of countries in which practically the standard is gold, regard must be had to these varying relative market values. In the following Tables, the value of gold is assumed to be 15 $\frac{1}{2}$ times that of silver, which ratio is very near the actual average obtaining in the London market during the last fourteen years. The ratio for the last two or three years has somewhat exceeded this value, approaching more nearly to 15 $\frac{1}{2}$.

Since 1858, the silver currency of Austria has been based upon what is known as the 45-florin standard, so called because a new mint pfund of 500 grammes of pure silver (7716.1744 troy grains) is coined into 45 new florins. This standard supersedes the convention or 20-florin standard introduced in 1753, in accordance with a convention between Austria and Bavaria. The latter standard is so named because the Cologne mark of pure silver (3608.943 troy grains, or 233.8555 grammes) was coined into 20 florins — 105 of the new florins are declared exchangeable for 100 of the old.

The weight of the new gold coinage of the States of the Customs' Union, including Austria, like that of their new silver coinage, is referred, according to the Convention of 1857, to the mint pfund of 500 grammes; the mint pfund of pure gold being coined into 50 German or Customs' Union crowns. The standard fineness of the Union crowns is .9 pure metal to .1 alloy.

The ducat, of the old gold coinage, was to continue in use until the close of the year 1865. Sixty-seven (67) ducats were coined from the Vienna-Cologne mark (3609.167 troy grains, or 233.8750 grammes) of pure gold. The Vienna-Cologne mark is precisely 5-6 of a Vienna mark.

The Austrian Commission of April, 1867 (ten years later than the Convention last mentioned), adopted, in addition to the Union crown, gold coins of the value and fineness of the French 10 and 25 gold francs.

The Customs-weight (zoll-gewicht) is that of the Prussian-German Zollverein (Customs' Union), namely, the zoll-pfund of 500 grammes (7716.174 troy grains). It is divided into 30 zoll-loth, and its smallest subdivision in use is the weight of 2 $\frac{1}{2}$ grammes, or .005 of the zollpfund. The zoll-centner contains 100 zollpfund (110.231 lbs. avoirdupois).

The pfund medicinal contains 24 loth, or $\frac{3}{2}$ of a commercial pfund; so that the unze = 2 commercial loth, and the drachme = 1 commercial quent.

Gold, Silver, and Precious Stones. New Standard.

According to the Vienna Convention, and the patents of 1857, a new mint pfund of 500 grammes (7716.174 grains troy), the same as the zollpfund, and divided into 10,000 ass, is now employed for the purposes of the mint.

The mint pfund of pure silver is divided into 45 new florins, or rix-gulden; and the same weight of pure gold into 50 new Union crowns.

For Domestic Commerce.

10 sse, or sil . . .	= 1 hao, or chou.
10 hao, or chou . .	= 1 cash (li).
10 cash	= 1 candareen (fun).
10 candareens . . .	= 1 mace (tsien).
10 mace	{ = 1 tael (liang), or silver ounce.
	{ = 579.84 troy grains of sycee (or sycee-silver).

For Foreign Commerce.

	{ = 1 dollar (silver piaster), Spanish or Old Mexican.
100 cents	{ = worn and unworn together, about $1.04622 U. S. gold; or 4s. 3d.6 sterling; or 5.422 francs.

The silver-ounce, or liang, is called by the English tael or tal, and by the Portuguese taél. The li is called by the English cash, by the Dutch pijze. The li or cash is also, for the purposes of retail trade, called by the Chinese tong-tsen.

Wün-yin is the Chinese term for fine silver, but se-sze (fine silver) or sycee is also employed.

The tael (liang), although denoting a definite weight of the silver known as sycee (i. e. 579.84 troy grains), is not of uniform value; the sycee being of uncertain fineness, and never entirely pure.

The accounts of foreign merchants, European and American, are kept in silver piasters or dollars, based on the pillar-piaster of Spain, or the old silver piaster of Mexico; and the value of the tael is estimated by its rate of exchange for such piasters or dollars.

Gold and silver are not coined by the Chinese government; the only national coin issued being the cash (or li) of mixed metal—a circular coin of about nine tenths of an inch in diameter, with a square hole in the middle by which the coins may be strung in bunches of definite number. The average intrinsic value of the legal cash is about ¼ of a cent U. S. gold; but of legal and forged coins, as commonly found together in payments, about .1 of a cent. In large commercial transactions, silver and gold in bars of differing weight and fineness are used.

The gold bars vary in weight from ½ of a tael (or liang) to 10 taels; the silver from ¼ to 100 taels.

The fineness of the gold bars varies from 92 to 98 touch, or hundredth-parts; that is, the bars contain by weight from 92 to 98 parts of fine gold to 8 to 2 parts of alloy. The fineness of the silver bars varies from 80 to 100, but mostly from 88 to 94 touch or hundredth-parts.

Practically, the fineness of the sycee (or sycee-silver) of commerce is found to average about 96 touch—that is, to contain 96 parts of pure metal to 4 parts of alloy. The alloy is called pakfong, and is a mixture of zinc, nickel, and copper. The intrinsic value of the tael of such sycee is $1.56 U. S. gold = $1.49 of Spanish silver = 6s. 4d.9 sterling; and 67½ such taels = $1000 of Spanish silver.

The fineness of the ingots of sycee-silver sent in payment of taxes to the Imperial Treasury at Peking is found to have been from 97 to 99 touch; making the value of the tael of this silver to be from $1.57½ to $1.61 U. S. gold = from $1.50½ to $1.54 Spanish silver = from 6s. 5d.7 to 6s. 7d.3 sterling.

717 taels of sycee-silver are commonly held to be worth 1000 Spanish dollars; or 1 tael = $1.46 U. S. gold = $1.39 Spanish silver = 6s. sterling; virtually assuming the fineness of the metal to be only 89.84 touch, a fineness considerably below the average fineness of the sycee of commerce.

The intrinsic value of a tael (579.84 troy grains) of fine silver = $1.552 Spanish silver = (assuming, as is done elsewhere in these tables, the value of gold to silver to be as 15½ to 1) $1.624 U. S. gold = 6s. 8d. sterling.

Silver is the standard of currency.

The bronze coins are the skilling and the half-skilling pieces. The silver coins are of two kinds as to intrinsic value: those of which 18¹/₂ dalers are coined from the Hamburg-Cologne mark (3608¹/₂ troy grains) of fine silver; and those of which 20 dalers are so coined. The former, consisting of rigsdalers and dobbelt-dalers (or specie-dalers), are worth $0.5463 to the rigsdaler; the latter, consisting of 4-skilling, 16-skilling, and 48-skilling pieces, are worth $0.5053 to the rigsdaler. The gold coins of Denmark are the Christian d'ors, and the Frederick d'ors, or pistoles, commonly reckoned at 3 rigsdalers 36 skillings. Intrinsic value $3.96. They are common in North Germany, but rare in Denmark itself.

The National Bank of Copenhagen issues notes for 1, 5, 10, 50, and 100 rigsdalers, which are always convertible into specie at their full nominal value.

The pot, the unit of all fluid measure = $\frac{1}{32}$ of a Danish or Prussian cubic foot (fod or fuss) = 54 Danish or Prussian inches (tommer or zoll).

DRY MEASURE.

1 ottingkar (½-kar)
 2 ottingkar = 1 fjerdingkar (¼-kar).
 4 fjerdingkar = 1 skieppe.
 8 skiepper = 1 tønde.

Kar (kan) denotes a vessel, but not, by itself, any definite measure.

The tønde is of various kinds, with the above subdivisions for each.

The korn-tønde, for the measurement of grain and many other hard and dry commodities. The measure is usually struck or leveled (not heaped) except for apples, roots, and other larger kinds of agricultural produce.

 = 4½ Danish or Prussian cubic feet.
 = 139.1213 liters.
 = 3.948 U. S. bushels.
 = 36.7516 U. S. gallons.

Salt is measured by the korn-tønde; but the salt from Norway is sold by weight. A tønde (of 10 Danish skiepper) of Norway-salt must weigh 250 pund.

The measure for coal (both stone-coal and charcoal) is the so-called salt-tønde = $\frac{1}{9}$ of a korn-tønde.
 = 4.825 U. S. bushels.

The öl-tønde (ale-ton) for the measurement of ale, meal, butter, tallow, soap, fish, etc.
 = 135 potter, fluid measure.
 = $\frac{1}{8}$ of korn-tønde.

1 læst (load) . . . = 12 korn-tønder = 47.38 U. S. bu.
 1 læst of stone-coal = 18 salt-tønder = 86.86 U. S. bu.

EAST INDIES.

(Hindustan, or British India.)

(Presidencies of Bengal, Madras, and Bombay.)

Money.

Accounts in all of the three Presidencies are kept in Company or legal rupees.

12 pies = 1 anna.
 15 annas = 1 rupee.

100,000 rupees = 1 laka (of rupees).

100 lakas, or 10 millions of rupees = 1 crore (of rupees), nearly 1 million pounds sterling.

The Company or legal rupee (silver) contains 165 troy grains of fine silver and 15 grains of alloy, and is standard in all commercial transactions. The standard rupee (assuming, as is done elsewhere in these tables, the value of fine gold to be 15½ times that of fine silver of equal weight) = $0.43217 = 22.8 pence sterling.* The laka of 100,000 rupees is valued in local transactions at about £10,000 (more exactly £9,496 15s. 4.8d. sterling).

Gold coins throughout the Presidencies are receivable only at their market value as merchandise.

PRESIDENCY OF BENGAL.

(Chief Commercial City, CALCUTTA.)

Money.

COINS. — Local coins or moneys have the following relations: —

33½ cowries (small white glossy shells used among the lower classes) = 1 pie.

Copper coins are of the denominations of 1 pie, 3 pies (called in Bengal a paisa), 6 pies (½ anna), and 12 pies (1 anna). Copper coins are receivable in payment of any sum not exceeding one rupee.

Silver coins of the Company, or legal standard, are of the value of $\frac{1}{2}$, $\frac{1}{4}$, and 1 rupee. The piece of 2 rupees, although allowed by law, has never been in circulation. Since the 17th of August, 1835, the following relations are fixed by law: —

100 Ascott rupees . . . = 108 Company or current rupees.
 100 Bombay rupees . . = 110 Company or current rupees.
 100 Sonat rupees . . . = 111 Company or current rupees.
 100 Sica or Calcutta } = 116 Company or current rupees. rupees }

The gold pieces in circulation are those of 5, 10, 15, and 30 gold rupees; or ¼ mohur, ½ mohur, mohur, and double mohur.

The present mohur, or 15-rupee piece of gold, contains 165 grains of fine gold and 15 grains of alloy; thus having a weight and fineness identical with that of the silver rupee of the Company. It follows, taking the value of gold to be 15½ times that of silver, that the mohur, or piece of 15 gold rupees = 15½ company rupees (silver).

Other gold coins in circulation are the earlier mohurs of Madras, Bombay, and Bengal, of 16 rupees, valued at about $7.116, and the star-pagoda of Madras, ranging in value from $1.621 to $1.911.

Weights and Measures.

WEIGHTS.

Of commercial weights there are two kinds — (a) the standard "Imperial" or "Indian" weight, also called the New Bazaar weight of Bengal, and (b) the Factory weight. The former is the standard weight of British India in use by the authorities, and also for the market; the latter is used for the factories of Bengal.

Imperial, or Indian, or New Bazaar Weight — (British East-Indian Standard).

The unit of weight is the tola { = 180 U. S. grains troy.
 = 11.634 grammes.
 5 tolas (or siccas) = 1 chittāk = 900 U. S. grains troy.
 = 14400 U. S. grains.
 16 chittāks = 1 seer { = 2½ lbs. troy.
 = 2,057,143 U. S. lbs. avdp.
 5 seers = 1 pussaree { = 10,2858 U. S. lbs. avdp.
 40 seers = 1 maund, moun, or { = 82½ U. S. lbs. avdp. mahnd { = 100 U. S. lbs. troy.
 = 37.324 kilogrammes.

This weight is about $\frac{1}{10}$ heavier than the factory weight. The old bazaar maund, subdivided into 40 seers = 72½ U. S. lbs. avoirdupois.

In the interior the seer varies considerably. At Allahad and Lucknow it is 96 tolas; at Mirzapore and Benares it is 84 tolas; and at Hoogly it is 82 tolas.

Factory Weight (adopted by the Government in 1787).

4 siccas = 1 chittāk = 0.1167 lb. avoirdupois.
 16 chittāks = 1 seer { = 1½ lb. avoirdupois.
 = 846 grammes.

* Here, as in other places in these tables, £1 sterling is considered equal to $4.836½; and $1 = £0.20548 sterling; these numbers being in strict accordance with the relative intrinsic values of the standards.

40 seers = 1 maund $\left\{ \begin{array}{l} = \frac{3}{4} \text{ U. S. cwt. (of 112 lbs.)} \\ = 74\frac{3}{4} \text{ lbs. avoirdupois.} \\ = 95.74 \text{ lbs. troy.} \end{array} \right.$

Gold, Silver, and Precious Stones.

4 punks = 1 daan or dhan.
4 dhans = 1 ruttee.
8 rutees = 1 masha.

The earlier unit was a somewhat smaller sicca = 179½ U. S. grains troy.

The fineness as well as the weight of gold and silver are stated in terms of the masha and its subdivisions. Pure gold and silver are 12 mashes fine.

MEASURES OF VOLUME.

Liquid Measure.

Liquids are sold by the Imperial or Indian weight (new bazaar maund); but in wholesale trade, in part by the English Imperial gallon and in part by the old English wine gallon (U. S. gallon); and English beer by the English hogshead.

Grain Measure.

Grain and most articles of nourishment are sold by weight. The government has never yet, in Bengal, defined any measures of capacity.

5 chytacks = 1 konkee.
4 konkees = 1 raik.
4 raiks = 1 palli.
20 pallis = 1 soallee.
16 soallees = 1 kahoon.

The kahoon, as a weight = 40 factory-maunds = 2986½ U. S. lbs. avoirdupois = 1354.72 kilogrammes. As a measure of capacity it is said to be about 41.1428 British Imperial bushels = 42.44 U. S. bushels.

MEASURES OF LENGTH.

Ordinary and Itinerary Measure.

1 jaub, or jow, or corbe (barley grain) = $\frac{1}{3}$ U. S. inch.
3 jaub = 1 unglee = $\frac{1}{3}$ U. S. inch.
4 unglees = 1 moot (hand) = 3 U. S. inches.
3 moots = 1 span (or big hât'h) = 9 U. S. inches.
6 moots $\left\{ \begin{array}{l} = 1 \text{ hât'l, haats, haut, hâta, or cubit.} \\ = 18 \text{ U. S. inches.} \end{array} \right.$
2 hât'hs = 1 guz or goss = 3 U. S. feet.
2 guz = 1 daanda = 1 U. S. fathom.

Hât'h is generally translated cubit. Its length in some places is 18 inches, in others 20; its average length being about 19½ inches.

Cloth Measure.

3 unglees = 1 gherry = 2½ U. S. inches.
8 gherries = 1 hât'h, haut, or haats = 18 U. S. inches.
2 hât'hs = 1 guz or goss = 1 U. S. yard.
1 guz of Bengal = 1½ guz of Bombay = 2 covids of Madras.

At wholesale, manufactures are sold by the corgé or koorje of 4 gondas; which denotes 20 pieces of any fabric. French silk fabrics are sold by the old Parisian ell.

MEASURES OF SURFACE.

4 square hât'hs, hauts, haâts, or cubits = 1 cowrie.
4 cowries = 1 gunda.
20 gundas = 1 cotta (320 sq. hât'hs).
20 gandehs, or square hât'hs = 1 chytták.
4 chytták = 1 pauah.

PRESIDENCY OF MADRAS.

(Principal Commercial City, MADRAS.)

Money.

The money of account in Madras, as in the other Presidencies, is in rupees, and, since 1835 and 1836, in Company-rupees, each of 16 annas, each of 12 pies; the rupee (Company) being worth $0.46217, or 22.8 pence sterling.

COINS. — For a statement of the existing coinage of the Presidencies, see above, under the head of BENGAL.

The former coins of the Presidency of Madras since 1818 are in gold; new gold rupee (so called) or mohur, and the ½, ¼, and ⅓ mohurs; — in silver: the entire, the half, and the quarter rupee (Company-rupee, value $0.46), and the single and double annas.

During an earlier period until 1800, there were, in gold: the star-pagoda (or current pagoda) of from 35 to 46 fanams, each of 80 cash, being the older arrot-pagoda; — in silver, the entire, the half, and the quarter arrot-rupee (this rupee being worth about $0.47); — in copper, the pie (py) of 20 cash, the dodee of 10 cash, the half-dodee of 5 cash, and the 1-cash piece.

Accounts are kept in pagodas, fanams, and cash: —

Copper.

10 cash = 1 dodee.
2 dodees = 1 pie (py).
3 pies (pic) = 1 anna.
1½ anna = 1 fanam = $0.0392.

Silver.

12 fanam (16 annas) = 1 rupee = about $0.47.

Gold.

3½ rupees $\left\{ \begin{array}{l} = 1 \text{ star-pagoda (current-pagoda).} \\ = \text{from } $1.621 \text{ to } $1.911. \end{array} \right.$

Weights and Measures.

WEIGHT.

Commercial.

1 tola = 180 U. S. grs. (troy).
20 Madras-maunds = 1 candy = 498.7142 U. S. lbs. avdp.

By commercial usage, the viss is always considered 3¼ lbs.; the Madras-maund 25 lbs.; and the candy 500 U. S. lbs. avoirdupois.

Gold, Silver, and Precious Stones.

The weight of gold and silver is the English (or U. S.) troy weight; the munjadi being equal to 5 troy grains, and the pagoda to 54 troy grains, or $\frac{1}{10}$ of a pollum. The natives reckon by the star-pagoda-weight of 52.56 troy grains = 3.4068 grammes. — The assay-weight is likewise the English divided, as in China, into 10 touches of 10 parts each. — Diamond weight is the English jewel-carat.

For pearls the weight is the manglin of 16 parts = 6 U. S. troy grains = 0.3888 gramme. The price of pearls is based on an ideal chow of 64 parts. If the weight in manglins be multiplied by itself, three-fourths ($\frac{3}{4}$) of the product divided by the number of pearls will give the number of chows.

MEASURES OF VOLUME.

Grain.

3 ollucks = 1 puddee	{	= 0.40585 U. S. gallon.
		= 0.043535 U. S. bushel.
8 puddees = 1 mercial	{	= 0.34838 U. S. bushel.
		= 3750.0 U. S. cubic inches.
5 mercials = 1 para	{	= 16.2341 U. S. gallons.
		= 1.7494 U. S. bushel.
80 paras = 1 garce	=	139.474 U. S. bushels.

Grain is also sold by weight, reckoning 1 garce = 9256½ U. S. lbs. avoirdupois.

Oil is sold by the candy of 64 U. S. gallons; rice by the bag of 164 U. S. lbs. avoirdupois.

Liquid.

Liquids are sold according to the U. S. (or old English) wine measure.
Oil, milk, butter, &c., are sold by the puddee of grain measure.

1 puddee	=	0.40585 U. S. gallon.
8 puddee	=	1 mercial = 3.24832 U. S. gallons.
20 mercials	=	1 candy = 64.9364 U. S. gallons.

MEASURES OF LENGTH.

In Madras the English (or U. S.) foot and yard are in quite general use by native workmen.

The moolum (covid or cubit) ranges from 18 to 21 U. S. inches, and its average length is about 19½ or 19¾ U. S. inches.

The native kole, or artificer's rod (as also the guz) = about 33 U. S. inches.

The baume (fathom) is about 6½ U. S. feet.

Nalli valli (signifying the distance walked in 24 minutes) = about 1½ U. S. mile.

7 nalli valli = 1 kadam = about 10 U. S. miles.

At wholesale very many fabrics are sold by the corge or koorje of 20 pieces (as in Bengal).

LAND OR SQUARE MEASURE.

24 grounds, or maunies	{	= 1 cawney.
		= 57,600 U. S. square feet.
		= 1.3223 U. S. acre.
		= 53.51 French ares.

PRESIDENCY OF BOMBAY.

(Principal Commercial City, BOMBAY.)

Money.

Since 1835, the money of account established by the British Government is the same as in Bengal and Madras, and accounts are almost always kept in rupees, annas, and pies :—

12 pieces . . .	=	1 anna	=	0.03851
16 annas . . .	=	1 (Company) rupee . . .	=	0.40217
Accounts in Bombay are sometimes kept in rupees, quarters, and reas :—
100 reas . . .	=	1 quarter	=	$0.11554
4 quarters . . .	=	1 rupee	=	0.46217

Coins.

The copper coins are the urdee of 2 reas, the dori of 6 reas, the dogganey or pie (Calcutta) of 4 reas, and the fud-dah or double-pie. These coins are alloyed with tin and lead, and have only a local circulation.

The silver coins are the rupee, its half and its quarter, as in Bengal.

1 rupee = 4 quarters = 16 annas = 400 reas.

The gold coins are the ¼ mohur (paunhas or fanum), the ½ mohur, the mohur (of 15 nominal rupees) and the double-mohur, as in Bengal. The intrinsic value of the Bombay-mohur (gold) of standard weight and fineness, is $7.106.

In Bombay the following nominal relations exist :—

1 mohur = 3 paunhas or fanums = 15 rupees = 60 quarters = 240 annas = 750 fuddes (or double-pies) = 1000 doreas (or pies) = 1500 dogganeys = 3000 urdees = 6000 reas.

Weights and Measures.

WEIGHTS.

Commercial.

The Imperial (Indian) or New Bazaar Weight, explained under Bengal, is in process of introduction, and is the legal standard.

5 tolas . . .	=	1 chittāk . . .	=	180 U. S. (troy) grains.
16 chittāks	=	1 seer	=	900 U. S. (troy) grains.
40 seers . . .	=	{ 1 Imperial, In- dian, or new }	=	82½ U. S. lbs. avdp.
		{ bazaar maund }

The following weights are still in common use :—

4 dhan or yar . . .	{	= 1 ruktica = 3½ U. S. grains nearly.
8 ruktica	=	1 masha = 17.01 U. S. grains nearly.
4 mashes	=	1 tank . . . = 68 ⅓ U. S. grains nearly.
72 tanks (or 30 pies)	{	= 1 seer { = 4900 U. S. grains nearly. = 11½ U. S. ounces avdp.
40 seers . . .	=	1 Bombay maund = 28 U. S. lbs. avdp.
20 Bombay maunds }	=	1 Bombay candy = 560 U. S. lbs. avdp.

The candy varies in different districts from 560 to 3055 lbs. avoirdupois.

The Sattara candy = 3055 U. S. lbs. avoirdupois.

The candy for cotton = 23 maunds { = 784 U. S. lbs. avdp.
= 7 U. S. cwt.

Other maunds and candies are occasionally used, namely :—

A second Bombay maund of 42 seers	{	= 29.4 U. S. lbs. avdp.
The Pucca maund (or Bengal factory maund)	{	= 74½ U. S. lbs. avdp.
The new Bengal bazaar maund (standard)	{	= 62½ U. S. lbs. avdp.
The Madras maund of 24.636 lbs. avdp.—by commercial usage	{	= 25 U. S. lbs. avdp.

Five different Surat maunds of 40, 41, 42, 43½, and 44 Surat seers, respectively; a Surat seer = 0.936 U. S. lbs. avdp.

A second Bombay candy of 21 common Bombay maunds

A third Bombay candy of 22
such maunds

Three different Surat candies of 20, 21, and 22 common Surat maunds, — a common Surat maund (40 Surat seers)

The Travancore maund

The Travancore candy of 20
such maunds

The Chinese or Canton pecul

The U. S. (or English) commercial weight (avoirdupois) is also used.

Gold and Silver.

6 chows . . .	=	1 goonze . . .	=	1.79 U. S. grain.
2½ goonze . .	=	1 wall	=	4.475 U. S. grains.
100 goonze or 40 walls }	=	1 tola	=	179 U. S. grains.
24 tolas . . .	=	1 seer	=	4296 U. S. grains.

Pearls.

4 annas . . .	=	1 quarter = ¾ U. S. (troy) grain.
4 quarters .	=	1 suttie = 3 U. S. (troy) grains.
24 sutties or 330 tuccas }	=	1 tank { = 72 U. S. (troy) grains. = 4.6635 grammes.

Pearls are sold by ideal chous, computed by the following process: The weight in tanks is multiplied by itself and the result by 330, and the product divided by the number of pearls; the quotient is the number of Bombay chows. The number of chows, therefore, in a string or collection of pearls — by this rule as well as by that given under Madras — varies directly with the square of the weight, and inversely with the number of pearls.

1 Madras pearl chow = $3\frac{1}{8}$ Bombay pearl chows.

MEASURES OF VOLUME.

Grain.

2 tipprees . . = 1 seer . . = 0.7 U. S. lb. avoirdupois.
 4 seers . . . = 1 pylee . . = 2.8 U. S. lbs. avoirdupois.
 16 pylees . . = 1 parah . . = 44.8 U. S. lbs. avoirdupois.
 8 parahs . . = 1 candy { = 358 $\frac{2}{5}$ U. S. lbs. avoirdupois.
 = 162.567 kilogrammes.

At wholesale often 1 para = 17 pylees, a larger weight by $\frac{1}{4}$ per cent.

Rice.

2 tipprees . . . = 1 seer.
 $7\frac{1}{2}$ seers . . . = 1 adowly.
 20 adowlies . . = 1 parah.

25 parahs or 4 candies = 1 murah { = 863 $\frac{3}{4}$ U. S. lbs. avdp. or = about 100 U. S. bush.

The candy weighs 215 $\frac{1}{16}$ U. S. lbs. avdp. = 97.947 kilogrammes, and has a capacity of about 25 old English Winchester (or U. S.) bushels = 881 liter.

A sack (or bag) of rice denotes 6 local maunds weight = 138 U. S. lbs. avdp. = 76.2 kilogrammes.

Salt.

10 $\frac{1}{2}$ adowlies = 1 parah (korbe) { = 1607.61 U. S. cubic in.
 = 0.74758 U. S. bushel.
 = 56 U. S. lbs. avdp.
 100 parahs = 1 anna . . { = 2 $\frac{1}{2}$ U. S. long tons (weight).
 = 7 $\frac{1}{2}$ 758 U. S. bushels.
 16 annas = 1 rash . . { = 40 U. S. long tons (weight).
 = 1196.13 U. S. bushels.

Liquids.

Liquids are commonly measured by the old English wine (or U. S.) gallon. For distilled spirits the maund of 50 seers is used, a weight equal to 76 $\frac{3}{4}$ U. S. lbs. avoirdupois = 34.797 kilogrammes.

MEASURES OF LENGTH.

1 nugalee = 1 $\frac{1}{2}$ U. S. inch.
 2 nugalees . . . = 1 tussoo . . = 2 $\frac{1}{2}$ U. S. inches.
 8 tussoos . . . = 1 vent'h . . = 9 U. S. inches.
 16 tussoos (2 vent'hs) . = 1 hât'h . . = 18 U. S. inches.
 24 tussoos (3 vent'hs) . = 1 guz . . { = 27 U. S. inches.
 = 0.6858 meter.

The hât'h is the same as the hât'h, covid, or cubit of Bengal. The English (or U. S.) yard is also used. At wholesale fabrics are sold by the corgé of 20 pieces.

In Surat the guz (for cloth) of 24 tussoos = 24 U. S. inches.

MEASURES OF SURFACE.

Ordinary.

20 hutties . . = 1 pund . . = 0.04057 U. S. acre.
 20 pund . . . = 1 beegah . . = 0.81135 U. S. acre.
 120 beegah . . = 1 chahur . . = 97.363 U. S. acres.

Revenue Field Survey.

16 annas . . = 1 goontah . . = 4 U. S. square rods.
 40 goontahs = 1 acre . . = 1 U. S. acre.

In Northwest Provinces.

20 nanwansi . . = 1 saswansi
 20 saswansi . . = 1 hachwansi.
 20 hachwansi . . = 1 biswansi.
 20 biswansi . . = 1 biswa.

20 biswa . . . = 1 beegah { = 3025 U. S. sq. yards.

In Cairo the piaster is divided into 33 medini, or 80 current asper. In Upper Egypt the same piaster is divided into 30, 40, 50, 60, 70, and 80 medini.

The piaster is called in Arabic "gersh," in the plural "gurush."

In round numbers, 10 Egyptian piasters are reckoned as equal to 11 Turkish piasters.

Of paper money, the so-called mestrawat, or mushitaravat, is at about 12 per cent. discount against silver; nagadie, 7 $\frac{1}{2}$ per cent., and hawalat, 14 per cent.

The price of cotton, coffee, and indigo is always understood to be in Spanish piasters; other goods, in current Egyptian money.

COINS. — The present gold coins of Egypt are of 100, 50, 20, 10, and 5 piasters; the silver coins are of 20, 10, 6, 5, 3, 1 $\frac{1}{2}$ piasters, and 1, $\frac{1}{2}$, and $\frac{1}{4}$ piaster. The 5-fadda piece ($\frac{1}{2}$ piaster) is the smallest coin known in the Egyptian trade. For smaller amounts the people substitute articles of small value and of daily demand, as grain, etc.

Besides the above silver coins, there are in general circulation — the French 5-franc piece (called real franca) at about 19 piaster 10 fadda, the Austrian Convention (or specie) thaler, called pataska — at about 20 piaster, and the Spanish pillared piaster (colonati talari, called colonati) = at about 20 piaster 28 fadda.

France will again circulate to the exclusion of gold; unless by new legislation a limit shall be fixed to the amount in payment of which the silver coins shall be received in payment of debt, now legal tender in all amounts.

The legal-tender gold and silver coinages have the same degree of fineness; that is, nine-tenths (or $\frac{900}{1000}$) of pure metal to one tenth of alloy.

In addition to the legal-tender coins of gold and of silver, there was established in 1865, by the monetary convention of that year, concluded between France, Belgium, Italy, and Switzerland, a subsidiary silver coinage, of less intrinsic value than the legal-tender silver coinage of like denomination. In this new or subsidiary coinage the weight of the pieces was left the same as that of the corresponding legal-tender silver coinage, but the fineness of the metal was much reduced; the new coins containing only .835 of fine metal to .165 of alloy. The new coins are simply tokens, and are not required by law to be received as payment of dues for an amount greater than 50 francs (nearly \$10) in any one payment. The legal weight of pure metal in the subsidiary silver coins is thus fixed at about 14 $\frac{1}{2}$ times the weight of pure metal in the gold coins of like denomination.

The object of issuing these subsidiary coins, thereby abandoning in part the futile attempt to maintain in successful operation a double standard, was to provide a silver coinage which could circulate side by side with the established gold coinage — and thus remedy to some extent the error originally fallen into in fixing too low the legal weight of gold coins as compared with silver.

The silver 5-franc piece of France is the only silver coin which is legal-tender in all amounts; the smaller silver coinage being subsidiary, and legal-tender only in payment of sums of small amount as has already been stated.

The weight of the silver coinage of France (unlike that of its gold) has a very simple relation to the gramme, the metric unit of weight; the silver franc (both legal-tender and subsidiary) weighing just five grammes, and other silver coins in proportion.

The gold franc contains $\frac{10}{9}$ of a gramme of standard gold, nine tenths fine; or $\frac{10}{9}$ of a gramme of pure gold.

GERMANY.

(Zollverein and Münzverein.)

The Zollverein (Customs' Union) is a league embracing almost all the States of Germany. It was formed in 1833, and went into operation on the first of January, 1834. Its object was to assimilate, unite, and simplify the fiscal arrangements of these States. It has abolished all restrictions on internal communication, and has established a common system of duties on exports and imports, and a common system of money, weights, and measures.

The unit of weight which has been adopted by the Union for the purposes of revenue, of commerce between the States, and of external commerce, and for postal and railway purposes, is the zollpfund of 30 zolloth, and equal to the half-kilogramme. The zollcentner of 100 zollpfund is equal to 50 kilogrammes

Until within a few years, the standard of weight for coinage in all the States of the German Zollverein, was the Prussian (or Vereins) mark of 288 grän = 3608.943 U. S. troy grains = 233.8555 grammes; but since 1858, in accordance with the Monetary Convention of 1857, between most of the States of the Zollverein and of Austria, a minzpfund of 500 grammes (the same as the zollpfund) was adopted in place of the Prussian mark. The minzpfund is divided into 10,000 as.

The Minzverein of 1857 adopted for the northern states of Germany the 30-thaler standard; for Austria and Liechtenstein, a 45-florin (or gulden) standard; and for the southern states of Germany, a 52 $\frac{1}{2}$ gulden (or florin) standard. That is, for the Northern States, the minzpfund of 500 grammes of fine silver was to be coined into 30 Vereins thalers, into 45 Austrian florins (or gulden); and into 52½ South German gulden (or florins). The 30-thaler standard, and the 52½ gulden standard, each based on the zollpfund, superseded respectively the previously existing 14-thaler standard, and 24½ gulden standard, which last-mentioned standards were each based on the Prussian (or Vereins) mark.

The gold coinage, adopted for the German States and Austria by the Monetary Convention of 1857, is the Union crown and Union half-crown, the former containing .02 of a münzpfund, or 10 grammes of fine gold, and the latter .01 of a münzpfund, or five grammes of fine gold. These pieces weigh respectively 1½ and 5½ grammes; the gold from which they are coined consisting of .9 of pure gold to .1 of alloy.

It is, perhaps, worthy of remark, that this gold coinage of the German Münzverein, is the only gold coinage yet issued by any country which bears a simple and decimal relation to the metrical unit of weight, the gramme.*

Carefully prepared and extensive tables, giving in terms of the Union crown, and of its decimal submultiples, the values of all the principal gold coins of the world, have lately been prepared and published in Germany.

The North German States, with the rectification of territorial changes made in consequence of the war of 1866, consist of Prussia, Saxony, Mecklenburg-Schwerin, Oldenburg, Brunswick, Saxe-Weimar, Mecklenburg-Strelitz, Saxe-Meiningen, Anhalt, Saxe-Coburg-Gotha, Saxe-Altenburg, Waldeck, Lippe-Detmold, Schwarzburg-Rudolstadt, Schwarzburg-Sondershausen, Reuss-Schleiz, Schaumburg-Lippe, Hamburg, Lübeck, and Bremen.

The South German States consist of Bavaria, Würtemberg, Baden, Hesse-Darmstadt, Reuss-Greiz, and Liechtenstein.

The Hanseatic towns, Hamburg, Lübeck, and Bremen, although members of the North German Confederation, are not as yet parties to the German Zollverein (or Customs' Union).

The following countries, in consequence of the wars of 1864 and 1866, have been newly united to, and now constitute a part of the kingdom of PRUSSIA; to wit:—

The former kingdom of Hanover; the former electorate of Hesse-Cassel; the former duchy of Nassau; the former landgraviate (or principality) of Hesse-Homburg; the former republic (or free city) of Frankfort on the Main; the former duchies of Schleswig-Holstein and Lauenburg; and detached portions of Bavaria and Hesse-Darmstadt.

Bank value refers to credits standing in the books of the Hamburg Bank, and which are represented by silver deposited in the bank.

Prior to 1856 the Cologne mark, Hamburg standard (namely, 3608 grains troy), of pure silver was coined into 34 marks; since that date into 35 marks. The bank value of the same weight of pure silver is supposed to be coined into 27 3/4 marks.

Assuming the current value of gold in market to be 15 3/4 times that of silver, we have the following values: —

GREECE.

(Principal Commercial Cities, ATHENS and PATROS; but ZANTE and CERIGO are growing in commercial importance.)

Money.

MONEY OF ACCOUNT.—From 1829 to February ½, 1833, accounts were kept in terms of phœniken of 100 lepta each; the standard phœniks being = $0.1741.

Since February ½, 1833, accounts in the kingdom of Greece have been kept in drachma and lepta: 100 lepta = 1 drachma.

Greece has a double monetary standard — gold and silver. The legal relation fixed to the weights of gold and silver coins of the same denomination is (as in France) 1 to 15½.

1 gold drachme (standard) { = $0.1728.
= 0.8954 franc.
= 8.52 pence sterling.

1 silver drachme (standard) = $0.1742; taking, as hitherto, the market value of gold to be 15½ times that of silver ($0.1728 is the value of the standard silver drachme answering to the legal assumption that gold is worth 15½ times silver).

It is understood that Greece has of late adopted the French standard of coinage.

COINS.—By a tariff of February 1 ½, 1833, the old coin called phœniks was declared = 93 new or royal lepta; by the same tariff the Mexican piaster and the Spanish (pillared) piaster, called colonato, were made legally receivable as = 6 drachma.

Copper.—The copper coins are of pure copper, and are pieces of 1 lepton, and 2, 5, and 10 lepta. They are legal tender only in payment of sums not exceeding 1-50th (or 2 per cent.) of the amount of any debt.

Silver.—The silver coins are the 5-drachma, the drachme, the ½-drachma, and the ¼-drachme pieces. These coins contain .9 of fine silver to .1 of alloy.

Gold.—The gold coins are the pieces of 20 and 40 drachma. They contain .9 of fine gold to .1 of alloy.

In local transactions copper is the chief medium of exchange. Comparatively little silver is coined, and coins of gold are yet more scarce.

Weights and Measures.

WEIGHTS.

By a royal decree of 28th July, 1836, the French metrical weights and measures were adopted for Greece; but only with the existing national nomenclature. To the names of the new weights and measures the term Royal is prefixed.

The new unit of weight is one and a half kilogramme.

General.

	1 royal kokkos (centigramme).
10 royal kokkoi	= 1 royal obolos (decigramme).
10 royal oboloi	= 1 royal drachmē (gramme).

		{ = 8.47 (about 8 $\frac{1}{2}$) cantari.
1 millar of 1000 libre-grosse	{ = 372.655 (about 375) oki.

A millar of figs denotes bunches, weighing about 13 or 14 cantaro.

Coin-weight is by grammes, the same as the French. Apothecary weight as in Bavaria.

MEASURES OF VOLUME.

Royal or New.

	1 kybos (millimeter).
10 kyboi	= 1 mystron (centiliter).
10 mystra	= 1 kotylē (deciliter).
10 kotyla	= 1 litra (liter).
100 litra	{ = 1 koilon, or kilo (hectoliter).	= 26.417 U. S. gallons.

For grain measure, they have the royal kilo (100 liters or 1 hectoliter) = 468 $\frac{3}{4}$ old drachma = 1.17187 old oki.

For oil measure, they reckon the liter = $\frac{2}{3}$ of the old oka-weight.

Commodities for which there are capacity measures, as wood for fuel, butter, oil, wine, etc., are also often sold by weight.

Former Measures of Volume.

1 old kilo	{ = 0.3316 (nearly $\frac{1}{3}$) new kilo (koilon).
	{ = 33.16 royal litra (liter).
	{ = 8.660 U. S. gallons.

The volume-weight of an old kilo of wheat = 22 oki. 1 barile = 24 bozze (boccoli), for wine, honey, and oil.

In Patras the oil-barile = 19 $\frac{1}{2}$ oil-oki = 48 weight-oki; and the oil-oka = 2 $\frac{1}{2}$ common oki.

MEASURES OF LENGTH.

New Measures adopted in 1836.

	1 royal gramma (millimeter).
10 royal grammata	= 1 royal dactylos (centimeter).
10 royal daktyloi	= 1 royal palamis (decimeter).
10 royal palamai	= 1 royal pechūs, or piki (meter).

1000 royal pecheōn	{ = 1 royal stadion (kilometer).

10 royal stadioi or stadia	= 1 royal skoinis { = 1 myriameter.
	{ = 6.21376 U. S. miles

Old Measures compared with New.

1 new or royal pechūs (or piki)	{ = 1.5432 old small piki, or endash.
	{ = 1.4948 old small piki.
1 old small piki, or endash (for silk)	{ = 0.648 royal or new piki.
	{ = 25.5120 U. S. inches.
1 old large piki (for linens and woollens)	{ = 0.663 royal or new piki.
	{ = 26.3094 U. S. inches.
1 builders', surveyors', brick-layers' and masons' piki	{ = $\frac{3}{4}$ royal or new piki.
	{ = 29.5278 U. S. inches.
1 old stadion	= 184.184 royal or new pecheōn (piki), or meters.

MEASURES OF SURFACE.

1000 royal (or new) square pecheōn or square-piki (decare)	{ = 10 ares.
	{ = 1 royal stremma.
	{ = 0.7873 of the old stremma of Morea.
	{ = 0.2471 U. S. acre.
	{ = 3025 old small square-piki.
The old stremma of Morea	{ = 1.270 new stremma or decare.
	{ = 1270 new square piki or sq. meters.
	{ = 0.3138 U. S. acre.

ITALY AND THE PAPAL STATES.

The KINGDOM OF ITALY comprises the Sardinian States, Lombardy, Tuscany, Parma, and Modena, Romagna, Umbria and the Marches, Naples and Sicily.

The PAPAL STATES, comprising prior to 1859 twenty "legations" and "delegations," now (1868) embrace only five, namely, Rome and the Comarca, Viterbo, Civita Vecchia, Velletri, and Frosinone.

KINGDOM OF ITALY.

(Principal Commercial Cities, GENOA, FLORENCE, LEG. HORN, NAPLES, TURIN, MESSINA, PALERMO, and VENICE. The seat of government was transferred, in 1865, from Turin to Florence.)

Money.

Since the monetary convention of 23d December, 1865, concluded between France, Italy, Belgium, and Switzerland (called the quadripartite monetary convention), the weight, fineness, and value of the standard coins of gold and silver of these several countries have been assimilated. (See France.)

ACCOUNTS.

In certain provinces of the present kingdom of Italy, the French standard for accounts and coins was adopted prior to the date of this convention.

In Italy the franc is called lira, or lira italiana nuova. 100 centesimi = 1 lira, or lira italiana nuova. The standard is double, both gold and silver. A forced paper currency superseded to a large extent the use of coin. This paper currency on the 5th of June, 1868, was at a discount of about 8 per cent against gold.

The standard gold lira contains $\frac{1}{31}$ of a gramme of standard gold, .9 fine. { = \$0.1990 U. S. gold.

The standard silver 5-lire piece or scudo contains 25 grammes of standard silver, .9 fine = \$0.973 — assuming, as hitherto, the market value of gold to be 15 $\frac{3}{4}$ times that of silver.

Silver coins of smaller denomination than five lire are subsidiary and legal tender only in payment of sums not exceeding 50 lire in any one payment. These subsidiary coins contain to the lira 5 grammes of silver of the fineness of 825. Intrinsic value of such lira = 0.1805.

COINS.

Coins of copper are of 1 centesimo weighing each 2 grammes, of 2 centesimi weighing each 6 grammes, and of 3 centesimi weighing each 10 grammes.

Coins of silver are pieces of $\frac{1}{2}$ lira (25 centesimi), $\frac{1}{4}$ lira (50 centesimi), 1 lira, 2 lire, and 5 lire (or scudo).

Coins of gold are pieces of 10, 20, 50, 80, and 100 lire; although those of 80 lire are no longer coined.

Coins of billon of $\frac{1}{2}$ monta (20 centesimi) and 1 monta (40 centesimi) are still extensively circulated in Lombardy and Piedmont.

Weights and Measures.

NEW OR METRIC SYSTEM.

The metric system of weights and measures, the only legal one, was adopted in the Kingdom of Italy by the law of 29th June, 1851, so that the meter, are, liter, and gramme, with their decimal multiples and submultiples, are now the standard measures respectively of length, surface, volume, and weight. (See France.)

This system had been in force prior to this date in several of the countries which are now incorporated in that kingdom. Its use, however, is not yet universal, the old systems being employed to a considerable extent both for customs and trade.

It was legally established in the Sardinian States, the 1st of April, 1850; in Lombardy, in 1803, while under French rule, and again from the 1st of January, 1861, by virtue of the law of the 15th of September, 1859. In Modena it was decreed in 1859, but its use never became general; in Romagna, the 8th of October, 1859; in Tuscany, the 11th of January, 1860, by decree of the provisional government; in Emilia, the 15th of September, 1860; in the Marches and Umbria, the 10th and 24th of November, 1860.

SARDINIA AND PIEDMONT.

(Principal Cities, GENOA, TURIN, and ALESSANDRIA.)

Former Money.

The French silver standard for money was adopted in Genoa 2d October, 1826; and the French gold standard 8th June, 1832.

Prior to 1826 accounts in Genoa were kept in lire, soldi, and denari.

12 denari = 1 soldo.
20 soldi = 1 lira or lira sarde	{ = $0.1605.
	{ = 0.8295 francs.

Such lire were called lire fuori di banco, moneta buona, that is, lire outside of the bank in good coin, of which coin 33 lire were reckoned to the Cologne or Vereins mark of fine silver. The Cologne mark ($\$608.94$ U. S. grains troy) of fine silver is worth — reckoning the value of gold at 15 $\frac{1}{2}$ times that of silver — $\$10.10886$ U. S. gold.

There continue in use various other former moneys, — as the valuta di banco, of which 4 lire di banco = 5 lire fuori banco; also moneta abusiva, or coin depreciated from 4 to 10 per cent. below fiori banco, moneta buona; also moneta di permesso, of which about 54.8 lire are coined from the Cologne mark of fine silver, the value of the lira being consequently about $$0.185$.

There were also several other moneys of account, divided into 20 soldi of 12 denari each; as, the scudo d'oro, or gold dollar, the old Genoese half doppia (pistole); the scudo di marra, a gold piece worth about 11 lire 12 soldi 6.72 denari of moneta buona; the scudo d'argento, or silver dollar; the old silver genovina of 9 $\frac{1}{2}$ lire fuori banco, moneta buona; the pezza or the local piaster of 5 $\frac{1}{2}$ lire fuori banco, moneta buona; and the scuto di cambio or dollar of exchange of 4.6 lire fuori banco, moneta buona.

On the continental portion of the late kingdom of Sardinia accounts were kept in denari, quattrini, soldi, lire, and scudi, according to the lira of Piedmont, of which 44.3077 were coined from the Cologne mark of fine silver.

3 denari	= 1 quatrino.
4 quattrini	= 1 soldo.
20 soldi	= 1 lira.
6 lire	= 1 scudo.

The lira of Piedmont = { 1.1849 lira nuova } = $$0.23$.
{ (or French franc) }

On the continent 100 lire nuove or lire italiane (frances) were reckoned = 85 lire piedmontesi = 120 lire fuori banco of Genoa; and 87 lire nuove (frances) were reckoned = 100 Austrian lire.

Former Measures of Length.

1 piede liprando = 12 once, each of 12 punti, each of 12 atomi = 1.5 piede manuale (or common foot) = 0.513766 meter = 1.686 U. S. foot = 20.227 U. S. inches.

1 raso of 14 once =	0.59939 meter = 23.598 U. S. inches.
5 piedi liprandi =	1 tesa (fathom).
6 piedi liprandi =	1 trabucco.
12 piedi liprandi =	1 pertica (perch).

800 trabucchi	= 1 miglio. { = 2.466 kilometers.

LOMBARDY AND VENETIA.(Principal Commercial Cities, MILAN AND VENICE).

Western Lombardy became a part of the kingdom of Sardinia by the treaty of Villafranca, 11th July, 1859, and the peace of Zurich, 10th November, 1859.

The kingdom of Sardinia was merged into that of Italy, 17th March, 1861.

The remaining districts of Lombardy with Venetia were added to the kingdom of Italy by the peace of Prague, 23d August, 1866.

Money.Moneys of Account.

The legal money of account in Lombardy proper since 1861, and in Venetia since 1866, is the Italian lira or lira nuova of 100 centesimi, worth $0.1930, or 1 franc.

From 1858 to 1861, accounts in the former Lombardo-Venetian kingdom were required to be kept in gulden or florins (florini) of the 45-gulden standard (45-gulden fuss); 45 new gulden being coined from the münzpfund (500 grammes) of fine silver.

100 Austrian soldi (or new { = 1 florin (or new gulden). kreutzers) = $0.4803 = 2.489 francs.

From 1824 to 1858, they reckoned in Austrian lire — 3 Austrian lire being equal to the conventions-gulden, or gulden of 20-gulden fuss; so that 60 Austrian lire were coined from the Cologne mark of fine silver.

5 centesimi = 1 Austrian soldo.
= 1 Austrian lira.

100 centesimi, or 20 soldi { = $0.1685.
= 0.8732 franc.

100 new gulden (or florins) = very nearly 105 conventions-gulden or florins.

In Milan they also reckon in current lire — lire corrente (lire milanesi, lire abusive) — each of 20 soldi, each of 12 denari.

5 current lire, or lire of Milan = 4 Austrian lire convention standard.

1 current soldo, or soldo of Milan = 4 Austrian centesimi. Therefore 75 current lire, or lire of Milan, were coined from the Cologne mark of fine silver.

Hence 1 current lira (lira corrente) or lira of Milan = $0.1348 = 0.6986 franc or Italian lira = 0.8 Austrian lira, convention standard or of 20-gulden fuss.

National Coins of the former Lombardo-Venetian Kingdom.

IN GOLD. — Under the law of 1st November, 1823, the new sovereign (sovvrano) of 13 florins 20 kreutzers (convention money) = 40 lire, nominal value = $6.778; and the half sovereign of 6 florins 40 kreutzers = 20 lire, nominal value = $3.389.

IN SILVER. — Under the law of 1st November, 1823, the new scudo of 6 Austrian lire, or of 2 gulden, convention money = $1.0109.

The half scudo of 3 Austrian lire, or 1 gulden, convention currency = $0.5055.

The Austrian lira = 20 kreutzers, convention currency = $0.1685.

The half and quarter lire are in proportion.

IN COPPER. — The soldo (Austrian) of 1 kreutzer or 5 centesimi; the 3-centesimo piece of 0.6 of a kreutzer; and the piece of 1 centesimo of 0.2 of a kreutzer; also a piece of 10 centesimi or 2 kreutzer.

VENETIA.

Of the earlier moneys of account in Venetia, used in the purchase and sale of certain kinds of merchandise, were the moneta corrente piccola (small currency) or moneta di piazza (market money). Of this currency were the ducato of 24 grossi, each of 12 denari-di-ducatu, or grossetti; and the lira of 20 soldi or marchetti, each of 12 denari-di-lira. Therefore, 1 ducato piccolo = 6.2 lire piccole = 124 soldi piccole; and 1 denaro-di-ducatu, or grossetto = $5\frac{1}{3}$ denari-di-lira.

A silver ducat of still earlier coinage { = 8 lire correnti piccole.
 { = 1.9 ducato corrente piccolo.

By law, in force up to the time that Venetia became a part of the kingdom of Italy —

1 ducato corrente piccolo = 3.64875 Austrian lire; so that,

1 lira corrente piccola { = 0.588506 Austrian lira.
 { = 53.8506 Austrian centesimi.

Under the former French dominion, and until the 1st of November, 1823, they commonly reckoned in Italian lire (francs) of 100 centesimi; a system of reckoning to which, in 1866, they return, after a disuse or abandonment of 43 years.

Earlier Venetian Coins.

The earlier Venetian coins during the period of the Republic were —

IN GOLD. — Zecchini (sequins), ducats d'oro, and doppie, doubloons or pistoles; worth formerly, 22, 14, and 33 lire piccole respectively; and worth very lately, 13.60, 8.56, and 23.80 Austrian lire respectively; equal respectively to 23 lire piccole 2 soldi $2\frac{1}{2}$ denari, 14 lire piccole 10 soldi $10\frac{1}{2}$ denari, and 40 lire piccole 8 soldi $9\frac{1}{2}$ denari.

IN SILVER. — Scudi della croce (dollar of the cross) formerly of 12 lire 8 soldi piccole, now of 7.65 Austrian lire; the half, quarter, and eighth of the same; ducats d'argenti (silver ducats, formerly of 8 lire piccole, now of 4.88 Austrian lire = 8 lire piccole 5 soldi $10\frac{1}{2}$ denari); the half and fourth of the same; talleri (dollars, formerly of 10 lire piccole, lately of 6.10 Austrian lire); and the half and quarter of the same. These talleri (dollars) were coined for commerce with the Levant.

IN COPPER. — Soldi or biggattini; half soldi or bessini; quarter soldi or bessini.

Coins for the Levant.

Austria has coined gold zecchini (sequins) in Venice up to the year 1823, especially for the Levant trade. For the same purpose Austria has coined, and to a late period has continued to coin in Venice, the Maria-Theresè dollar, that is the convention-species-thaler (of 2 gulden of the 20-gulden standard) with the old stamp and the year number 1780.

Measures of Length.

The metric system of weights and measures was introduced, under the French dominion, as early as 1803, but in trade and daily work the old local measures continued to be used.

METRIC MEASURES OF LENGTH.—PROVINCIAL NOMENCLATURE.

1 piede (foot) = 12 once (inches), each of 12 linee, each of 10 decimi = 0.347735 meter = 1.1409 U. S. foot.

5 piedi = 1 passo.
 6 pedi = 1 pertica grande (large perch), or cavezzo.
 4½ piedi = 1 pertica piccola (small perch), or chebbo.

The braccio (ell) is of two kinds, each divided into 12 once (inches): (1) the braccio da lana (woolen ell), also called braccio da panno (cloth ell) = 0.683396 meter = 0.747334 U. S. yard; also (2) the braccio da seta (silk ell) = 0.638721 meter = 0.6985 U. S. yard.

100 passi = 1 miglio veneto, or Venetian mile = 1733.67 meters = 1.0803 U. S. mile.

63.906 miglia = 1 average degree of meridian.
 The miglio marino is the common sea-mile of the United States and other countries.

Measures of Surface.

1 tornatura (hectare) = 100 tavole (ares), each of 100 quadrat-metri (square meters) = 15.2784 old quadrat-perche (square perches) = 2.471 U. S. acres.

The quadrat-pertica (square perch) of Milan = 24 tavole, each of 4 square trabucchi of Milan = 6.54518 French ares or new tavole = 7.828 U. S. square yards.

The migliajo of Venice = 1000 quadrat-passi = 80.2299 French ares = 0.747 U. S. acre.

Silk Weight.

Silk, commonly, in Italy is sold according to fineness, the finer commanding the higher price. The fineness is ascertained in the following manner: On a spindle or reel, of which the circumference is equal to the old Parisian aune, the silk is wound 400 times. This skein constitutes a sample, the fineness of which is inversely as the weight.

TUSCANY.

(Principal Commercial Cities, LEGHORN and FLORENCE.)

Former Money.

Since its incorporation into the Italian kingdom, Tuscany has adopted the Italian lira (or lira nuova) = 1 franc = $0.1930. Former systems have, however, not entirely disappeared.

From the commencement of the year 1837, and prior to the adoption of the new currency, accounts were required by law to be kept in Tuscan or Florentine lire (lire toscane or lire fiorentine). It was permitted to subdivide the lira either into 100 centesimi or into 20 soldi of 12 denari each.

Accounts were also sometimes kept in pezze da otto reali (piasters of eight reals), each pezza being divided into 20 soldi, each of 12 denari di pezza; and also in ducats (ducats) each of 20 soldi, each of 12 denari di ducato.

- 1 pezza da otto reali (piaster of 8 reals) = 5½ lire.
- 1 ducato or scudo corrente = 7 lire.

It should be remarked that gold is considered invariably at a premium of 7 per cent.; so that the pezza da otto reali d'oro (piaster of 8 reals in gold) = 6.1525 lire toscane, or 123.05 soldi toscane.

Prior to the year 1837 accounts in Leghorn were frequently kept in such gold pezzo (or piasters), but in 1836 a law was enacted requiring, from and after the close of that year, accounts should be kept in Tuscan lire. In consequence of this enactment contracts made in pezzo of gold were reduced to Tu can lire upon the basis of 123.05 Tuscan soldi for 1 pezza; a value which accords with the premium of 7 per cent. above mentioned. Payments continued to be made in rusponi and franceschini (gold) although stipulated in Tuscan lire (silver).

According to the legislation of the year 1826, the Cologne mark of fine silver was divided into 62 Tuscan lire, thereby making the Tuscan lira = $0.1630 = fr. 0.845.

The following table shows the mutual relations of the former moneys of account of Tuscany:—

- 4 denari or piccioli = 1 quattrino.
- 3 quattrini (12 denari) = 1 soldo.
- 1½ soldo (20 denari) = 1 crazia.
- 8 crazie = 1 paolo.
- 1½ paoli (20 soldi) = 1 lira toscana.
- 1½ lira (20 crazie) = 1 fiorino (florin).
- 32⁹/₁₀ fiorini (5½ lire) = 1 pezza, or pezzo di otto reali.
- 1-2⁵/₃ pezze (or 7 lire) = { 1 scudo, or sezzo di corrente, or ducato.

Formerly, in Leghorn, money was of two kinds, moneta buona (good money) and moneta lunga (debased money); the value of the former to that of the latter being as 24 to 23, a difference of about 4 per cent. The latter was an imaginary money adopted probably to simplify computations. For example, a pezza of 5½ lire moneta buona = 6 lire moneta lunga.

Gold Coins in Circulation.

Zecchino (sequin), or ruspo, or zecchino gigliato (lily sequin), standard, an old coin = $2.32.

Ruspone, or piece of three zecchini (triple sequin) of 40 lire, or 24 fiorini, or 60 paoli, standard, old and new = $6.96.

Piece of 80 fiorini (133½ lire), standard, new or since 1826 = $21.68.

Silver Coins in Circulation.

- Dena, or piece of 10 lire = $1.630.
- Mezza dena (or half-dena) = $0.815.
- Francescone = 6½ lire = 10 paoli = 4 fiorini = $1.085.
- Franceschino = 3½ lire = 5 paoli = $0.543.

Since 1826:—

- Fiorino = 1½ lire = 2½ paoli = 100 quattrini = $0.271.
- Half and quarter fiorini in proportion.

Other silver coins in circulation are the paolo (= ½ 1086), the half and the double paolo; the lira, half-lira and quarter-lira.

COPPER. — Formerly there were coined pieces of 1 soldo and of 2 and 3 soldi, also of one piccolo or denario; later, pieces of 1 quattrino, and of 2, 3, and 5 quattrini.

Former Measures of Length.

1 braccio or ell (for cloth) = 20 soldi, each of 3 quattrini or 12 denari = 0.58365 meter = 1.9149 U. S. foot = 0.6382 U. S. yard.

The braccio is also divided into 12 crazie.

- 2 braccia = 1 passeto, or double ell.
- 4 braccia = 1 canna, for certain fabrics.
- 5 braccia = 1 canna, for field measure.

2833½ braccia { = 1 miglio, or Tuscan mile.
= 1653.67 meters.
= 1.0275 U. S. mile.

Measures of Surface.

100 tavole, each of 100 quadrat-braccia (square braccia) = 1 quadrato = 0.840346 hectare = 0.8418 U. S. acre.

Measures of Volume.

DRY MEASURE.

- 2 quartucci = 1 quarto.
- 2 quarti = 1 mina.
- 2 mine = 1 stajo.
- 3 staja = 1 saccho.
- 8 sacchi = 1 moggio.

1 stajo = 24.86236 liters = 0.6911 U. S. bushel = 6.4359 U. S. wine gallons.

1 moggio = 16.59 U. S. bushels = 154.46 U. S. wine gallons.

LIQUID MEASURE.

Wine Measure.

- 2 quartucci = 1 mezzetta.
- 2 mezzette = 1 boccale.
- 2 boccali = 1 fiasco.
- 10 fiaschi = 1 mezzo barile (half barrel).

2 mezzi barili . . . = 1 barile da vino (wine-barrel).
9½ barili da vino . . . = 1 pipa.
1 barile da vino = 45.5840 liters = 12.042 U. S. wine gallons = 1 pipa = 116.41 U. S. wine gallons.

A barile of wine is reckoned as having a net-weight of 133½ Tuscan pounds; one of brandy, rum, and other distilled spirits, 120 Tuscan pounds. Necessarily, the weight of each kind of liquor diminishes with an increase of the proportion of alcohol contained.

Oil Measure.

- 8 fiaschi = 1 mezzo barile.
- 2 mezzi barili = 1 barile da olio.
- 2 barili da olio = 1 somo.

1 barile da olio (oil-barrel) = 33.4289 liters = 8.8909 U. S. gallons = 1 somo = 17.662 U. S. gallons.

The fiasco, for oil, has the same nominal subdivisions as for wine.

The oil barile is reckoned as having a net weight of 88 Tuscan pounds.

Weight.

Commercial Weight.

- 24 grani = 1 denaro.
- 24 denari = 1 oncia.
- 12 once = 1 libbra (pound).
- 100 libbre = 1 cantaro or centinajo.
- 1,000 libbre = 1 miglajo.
- 5,600 libbre = 1 tonnellata.
- 1 libbra (commercial) = 339.542 grammes = 0.7486 U. S. lb. avoirdupois.

The libbra (pound) for gold, silver, and coins, and likewise for pharmacy, is the same as for commerce generally.

For gold, it is divided into 24 carati, each of 8 ottavi; for silver, into 12 once, each of 12 denari; and for pharmacy, into 12 once, each of 8 dramme, each of 3 scrupoli, each of 24 grani. The scrupolo = 1 commercial denaro.

NAPLES AND SICILY; OR, THE TWO SICILIES.

(Principal Commercial Cities, NAPLES, PALERMO, AND MESSINA.)

Money.

The standard coins and moneys of account of the two Sicilies, since 1831, are the same as those of Italy, namely, the Italian lira (lira nuova, or franc), of 100 centesimi, and = $0.1930.

Before the incorporation with the kingdom of Italy, accounts were kept in ducati, or ducati di regno, subdivided—in Naples, into 100 grani, or 10 carlini each of 10 cavalli (instead of 12 cavalli as prior to the year 1818)—and in Sicily into 100 valocchi (instead of grani), each of 10 piccioli (instead of cavalli).

In Sicily, accounts were also frequently kept in oncia, each of 30 tari, each of 20 Sicilian grani; the oncia containing 600 Sicilian grani.

Payments were usually made in Neapolitan scudi (dollars or piasters), each worth 12 carlini, each of 10 grani.

The Sicilian tari, carlini, grani, and piccioli, are in value only one half the Neapolitan moneys of the same name; or 2 Sicilian tari, carlini, grani, and piccioli = 1 Neapolitan taro, carlino, grano, and picciola, respectively.

In Naples, 1 ducato, or ducato del regno = 2 pataccas (pataccas) = 5 tari (or 10 Sicilian tari) = 10 carlini (or 20 Sicilian carlini) = 4 cinquini = 66 $\frac{2}{3}$ publicas = 100 grani (Sicilian baiocchi) = 200 tornesi (Sicilian grani) = 300 quattrini = 600 piccioli (or 1200 Sicilian piccioli) = 1200 cavalli (or 2400 Sicilian cavalli or calli).

In Sicily, 1 oncia = 2 $\frac{1}{2}$ scudi = 3 ducati = 5 fiorini (florins) = 6 pataccas = 30 tari = 60 carlini = 300 baiocchi = 450 ponti = 600 grani = 3600 piccioli = 7200 cavalli or calli.

The pataccas and cavalli or calli of Sicily have been but little used. In quotations of foreign exchange, the Sicilian grano was divided into centesimi (hundredths) di grano; but the quotations are now in Italian lire and centesimi.

It will be seen that 1 grano of Sicily = 1 tornese of Naples, and that 1 grano of Naples (or 2 grani of Sicily) = 1 Sicilian baiocco.

The silver ducato (ducato, or ducato del regno) of standard weight and fineness (assuming as hitherto the value of gold to silver as 15 $\frac{3}{4}$ to 1) = \$0.82647 = fr. 4.3351; but the average value of such ducats is \$0.81763, or fr. 4.2375. The silver ducati is now commonly valued at 4.25 Italian lire (lire nuove, or francs). The standard value of the silver oncia (Sicilian) = \$2.4794 = fr. 13.005; but the coins in circulation are commonly reckoned = 12.75 Italian lire or francs. The standard silver scudo (dollar or piaster) = \$0.992

Gold Coins.

There were no gold coins in circulation when the kingdom became a part of that of Italy, gold having been demonetized in 1854, and since circulating only as merchandise; but gold coins of 1 oncia (or 3 ducati, or ducati di regno), 2 oncia (6 ducati), 5 oncia (15 ducati), and 10 oncia (30 ducati), had been issued under the law of 20 April, 1818, and are still in circulation.

The value of the oncia of standard weight (3.7867 grammes), and fineness (0.996) is $2.5067.

Silver Coins.

Under the law of 1818 were coined the standard ducato—weight 515 acini, and fineness $\frac{5}{6}$; pieces of 12 and 6 carlini, or of 120 and 60 grani; scudo (dollar or piaster) and half scudo; pieces of 2 carlini (20 grani) and 1 carlino (10 grani); all of proportionate weight and of the same degree of fineness.—Since the year 1845, carlini or Sicilian tari; due carlini (piece of 2 carlini), or piece of 2 tari of the Island of Sicily; sei (6) carlini, or Sicilian piece of six tari; dodici (12) carlini, or Sicilian piece of 12 tari. Also of bilion of silver, a piece of 5 grani of debased silver (cinque grani, piccola moneta d'argento).

Copper Coins.

From 1818 to 1845.—Mezzo grano ($\frac{1}{2}$ grano) commonly called "tornese," and known on the Island of Sicily as "grano Siciliano," or "mezzo baiocco"; grano or 2 tornesi, on the Island of Sicily "balocco," or "due (2) grani Sicilliani"; due grani e mezzo (2 $\frac{1}{2}$ grani piece), or 5-tornesi, or cinquina, called on the Island of Sicily cinque (5) grani Sicilliani, or due baiocchi e mezzo (piece of 2 $\frac{1}{2}$ baiocchi); cinque (5) grani (or 10 tornesi), known on the Island of Sicily as dieci (10) grani Sicilliani, or dieci (10) tornesi, or cinque (5) baiocchi.

Measures of Length.

In Naples.

1 palmo = 10 decime, each of 10 centesimi; or, 1 palmo = 12 once, each of 5 minuti = 1 $\frac{1}{2}$ Sicilian palmo = 0.26455 meter = 0.86796 U. S. foot = 10.415 U. S. inches.

The canna (ell) of 10 palmi = 2.6455 meters = 2.89321 U. S. yards = 1.28125 Sicilian canne.

In commerce the old canna of 3 braccia or 8 palmi is yet sometimes used = 0.8 of the new canna = 2.1164 meter = 2.3145 U. S. yards.

7 palmi . . . = 1 passo.

5 passi . . . = 1 catena (chain).

1000 passi, or 200 catene = 1 miglio (mile) = $\frac{1}{80}$ of a degree of meridian = 1851.852 meters = 1.151 U. S. mile.

On the Island of Sicily.

1 palmo = 12 once, each of 12 linee, each of 12 punti = $\frac{40}{41}$ Neapolitan palmo = 0.25810 meter = 10.161 U. S. inches.

2 palmi = 1 passeto.

32 palmi = 1 catena (chain).

128 palmi, or 4 catene = 1 corda.

8 palmi = 1 canna (ell) = $\frac{3}{4}$ Neapolitan canna = 2.258 U. S. yards = 2.0648 meters.

45 corde, or 5730 palmi = 1 miglio = 0.2 German mile = 0.8028 Neapolitan mile = 1.4866 kilometer = 0.9237 U. S. mile.

74.74 Sicilian miglia = 1 average degree of meridian.

Measures of Surface.

In Naples.

1 moggio = 100 square canne, or 10 decime, each of 10 centesime = 6.9987 ares = 0.1729 U. S. acre.

On the Island of Sicily.

1 salma = 4506 square canne, or 4 bisacce, each of 4 tomoli, each of 4 mondelli, each of 4 carozzi, each of 4 quarti, each of 4 quartigli or square canne (quadrat-canne) = 262144 square palmi (quadrat-palmi) = 174.626 ares = 24.951 Neapolitan moggia = 4.315 U. S. acres. There are various old local measures other than these.

Former Measures of Volume.

DRY MEASURE.

In Naples.

1 tomolo = 2 mezzette or half (mezzi) tomoli, each of 2 quarte, each of 6 misure (measures), each of 4 quartarolo

≈ 3 cubic palmi = 55.5451 liters = 3.23067 Sicilian tomoli
 = 1.576 U. S. bushel = 14.673 U. S. wine gallons.
 1 carro of 36 tomoli = 56.75 U. S. bushels.

On the Island of Sicily.

1 salma = 4 bisacce, each of 4 tomoli, each of 4 mondelli each of 4 carozzi, each of 4 quartii, each of 4 quartigli.

The strictly legal tomolo = 1 cubic palmo = 17.193 liters = 0.4879 U. S. wine gallons = 4.4517 U. S. wine gallons.

The salma of 16 legal tomoli = 2.7509 hectoliters = 7.806 U. S. bushels.

In actual practice, however, the standard tomolo is a measure which contains by weight 20 Sicilian rotoli of olive oil at the temperature of 54 degrees of the Fahrenheit or 12²/₃ degrees of the centigrade thermometers. Upon this basis, 1 Sicilian salma of 16 Sicilian tomoli is reckoned as equal to about 5 Neapolitan tomoli. In commercial usage, 1 Sicilian tomolo = 17.353 liters = 0.4923 U. S. bushel = 4.5913 U. S. wine gallons; and 1 Sicilian salma = 2.7773 hectoliters = 7.881 U. S. bushels.

Other Salme used: In Palermo, for wheat = 252 rotoli. In Messina, for hazel nuts = 200 rotoli; for flax seed = 320 rotoli; for chestnuts, Indian corn (maize), barley, almonds, and other nuts = 314 tomoli. — In Trapani, the salmi for salt = 700 kilogrammes, and in Agosto, 712²/₃ kilogrammes.

LIQUID MEASURE.

In Naples.

WINE. — 60 caraffe = 1 barile.
 12 barili = 1 botte.
 2 botti = 1 carro.

1 barile = 1.28369 Sicilian barilli = 43.625 liters = 11.524 gallons.

1 carro = 276.59 U. S. gallons.

OIL. — 16 staja = 1 salma.

The stajo, as weight = 10¹/₂ rotoli = 20.25 U. S. lbs. avoirdupois; as capacity = 10.0984 liters = 2.9016 U. S. gallons.

The salma = 165¹/₂ rotoli = 147.31 kilogrammes = 324.76 U. S. lbs. avoirdupois.

At wholesale, with foreigners, oil is sold by the salma now established as a weight.

At retail, oil is sold by measure, the contents of the standards corresponding to certain weights of oil at the temperature of 20 centigrade or 68 Fahrenheit.

On the Island of Sicily, local.

WINE. — 1 botte = 4 salme, each of 8 barili, each of 2 quartari, each of 20 quartucci, each of 2 caraffe, each of 2 bicchieri.

The strictly legal quartaro (like the tomolo of dry measure) = 1 cubic palmo = 17.193 liters = 4.542 U. S. gallons; so that — the barile . . . = 84.386 liters . . . = 9.084 U. S. gals.

 the salma . . . = 275.09 liters . . . = 72.671 U. S. gals.
 and the botte = 11.0036 hectoliters = 290.69 U. S. gals.

Practically, however, the Sicilian barile = 0.8 of the Neapolitan barile = 34.900 liters = 9.219 U. S. gallons; the quataro = 24 Neapolitan caraffe = 17.450 liters = 4.610 U. S. gallons; the salma = 279.20 liters = 73.75 U. S. gallons; and the botte = 11.168 hectoliters = 295.0 U. S. gallons.

The salma of lemon juice, is reckoned at 101 rotoli.

OIL, in Sicily as in Naples proper, is sold by weight.

Weight.

NAPLES, PROPER.

Commercial Weight.

12 once = 1 libra { = 320.759 grammes.
 { = 0.7071 U. S. lb. avoirdupois.

 118 rotoli { = 1 carico (of sulphur).
 { = 206.4 U. S. lbs. avoirdupois.

The cantajo, for almonds = 102 rotoli.

The libbra, for volatile oils, raw silk, cochineal, and vanilla (and in Messina also for manna) is the same as that for gold, silver, and pharmacy. — 2¹/₂ libbre = 1 rotolo. — 1 libbra = 12 of the above once, each of 4 quarte, each of 4 dramme, each of 3 scrupoli or denari, each of 20 granii cocci, each of 8 ottavi = 317.368 grammes = 0.69967 U. S. lb. avoirdupois = 4897.7 U. S. grains troy.

Local Customs of Trade.

Rum by the U. S. or old English gallon.
 Lemons by boxes, containing from 36 to 42.
 Oranges by boxes, containing from 30 to 36.
 Lemon-juice (raw), by the salma.
 Soft-shell almonds, by the tomolo.
 Shelled almonds, by the cantaro = 102 rotoli.
 Cocons, in Palermo, by the rotolo; in Messina, by the tomolo.

PAPAL STATES.

(Principal Commercial Cities ROME and CIVITA VECCHIA.)

Money.

The Pontifical lire (of 100 centesimi) on the 1st of January 1863, superseded the scudo (of 100 baiocchi) as the legal unit of money.

The legal and invariable proportion between the new and old units, was declared to be 1 scudo = 5¹/₂ lire.

The monetary standard is double — gold and silver.

The gold lira is the exact equivalent of the French gold franc; being ⁹/₁₀ fine, and weighing ¹⁰/₃₁ of a gramme. The silver lira is the exact equivalent of the original or legal tender silver franc of France; being ⁹/₁₀ fine and weighing 5 grammes.

There are issued no coins corresponding in fineness and value to the subsidiary or debased silver coins of France.

The following are the moneys of account hitherto in general use in Rome and the entire Papal States.

5 quattrini = 1 baiocco (or bajocco).
100 baiocchi, or } = 1 scudo Romano (Roman 10 paoli, each of 10 baiocchi } scudo, dollar, or piaster).

In general the following relations obtain in local accounts:—

5 quattrini = 1 baiocco.
5 baiocchi = 1 grosso.
2 grossi = 1 paolo.
2 paoli = 1 papeto.
1½ papeti, or }
3 paoli } = 1 testono.
3½ testoni, or }
10 paoli } = 1 scudo romano (Z).

The scudo romano is indicated in books and accounts by the symbol Z.

From the Cologne mark of fine silver may be coined 9.66 scudi of the legal weight and fineness, or about 9½ average scudi as ascertained by trials. The value of the standard (or legal) scudo consequently is $1.046, and of the average scudo $1.037.

The value of the Roman scudo is about the same of that of the Spanish piaster of 1848.

COINS.

Gold.—Under the coinage law of 11th January, 1835:—

2½ scudi, or half sequin = $2.59
5 scudi or sequin = 5.19
10 scudi, or pistole, or gold doppice = 10.37

The gold coins are $\frac{9}{10}$ fine. The standard piece of 10 scudi weighs 17.336 grammes, and other gold coins in proportion.

Silver.—Under the coinage law of 1835:—

1 scudo romano, legal = $1.046
½ scudo romano of 50 baiocchi = 0.523
1 testone of 30 baiocchi = 0.314;
and pieces of $\frac{1}{5}$, $\frac{1}{10}$, and $\frac{1}{20}$ scudo, or of 20, 10, and 5 baiocchi in proportion.

Billon.—Coins of base silver, of 2, 4, 7½, and 15 baiocchi, are occasionally met with.

Copper.—Under the law of 183 ; $\frac{1}{2}$ baiocco (or quattrino), $\frac{1}{3}$ and 1 baiocco.

BANK-NOTES (CÉDOLE)

For 5, 10, 20, 25, and 100 scudi are used in payments above 5 scudi.

Weights and Measures.

MEASURES OF LENGTH.

1 piede (foot) = 0.297587 meter = 0.9763 U. S. foot.
5 piedi . . . = 1 passo . . . = 4.8317 U. S. feet.

The canna is of three different sorts:—

(1.) 1 canna mercantile of 8 palmi mercantile, each of 3 parti (parts) = 1.99263 meters = 2.179 U. S. yards = 73.45 U. S. inches.

(2.) 1 canna architettonica (builders-canna) of 10 palmi architettonica, each of 12 once (inches), each of 5 minuti, each of 2 decimi = 7½ piedi = 2.23190 meters = 2.441 U. S. yards = 87.866 U. S. inches.

(3.) 1 canna d'ara (altar-canna) of 9 palmi d'ara or palmi sacri (holy-palmi) = 1½ meters = 1.2303 U. S. yards = 44.292 U. S. inches.

1 braccio da mercante (commercial ell) = 0.670 meter = 26.4 U. S. inches.

1 braccio per le tele (ell for linen) = 0.635 meter = 25.00 U. S. inches.

1 braccio d'ara (altar ell) = 6 palmi sacri = $\frac{3}{8}$ canna d'ara = $\frac{3}{8}$ meter = 29.528 U. S. inches.

1 catena (measuring chain) of 10 stajole = 5½ builders' canna = 14.036 U. S. yards = 605.2 U. S. inches.

1 miglio of 1000 passi = 1487.934 meters = about $\frac{1}{2}$ of a German geographical mile = 0.9245 U. S. miles. 2 miglia = 1 post.

MEASURES OF SURFACE.

1 rubbio = 4 quarte, each of 4 scorzi, each of 2 quartucci, each of 7 quadrat-catene (or square catene) = 184.46 French ares = 4.558 U. S. acres. It is also divided into 7 pezzi.

MEASURES OF VOLUME.

Grain.

4 decine = 1 stajo.
3 staja, or }
4 starelli } = 1 quarta.

1 rubbio = 2 rubbiatelle, each of 2 quarte, each of 2 quartucelle; the rubbio, also = 22 scorzi, each of 4 quartucci = 294.46 liters = 8.356 U. S. bushels = 77.787 U. S. wine gallons.

Salt.

The same rubbio divided into 2 quarte, each of 6 scorzi, each of 4 quartucci.

Lime.

Is sold by the decina of grain measure.

Wine and Distilled Spirits.

1 barile of 32 boccali, each of 4 fogliette, each of 4 quartucci = 58.3416 liters = 15.412 U. S. gallons.

Oil.

1 barile of 28 boccali, each of 4 fogliette, each of 4 quartucci = 57.4806 liters = 15.185 U. S. gallons.

At wholesale, the soma (for oil) of 80 oil-boccali, or of 2 pelli or mastelli, each of 10 cugnattelle, each of 4 boccali = $2\frac{1}{2}$ oil barili = 164.23 liters = 43.38 U. S. gallons.

WEIGHT.

Commercial, Gold, and Silver Weight.

24 grani . . . = 1 denaro.
24 denari . . . = 1 oncia.
12 once . . . = 1 libbra (pound).
10 libbre . . . = 1 decina.
100 libbre = { 1 centinajo (centner) or cantaro piccolo
(small cantaro).
1000 libbre = { 1 miglajo, or cantaro grosso (large cantaro).

There are also two special cantari, of 160 and of 250 libbre.

1 libbra = 339.073 grammes = 0.74753 U. S. pound avoirdupois = 0.90845 U. S. pound troy.

1 centinajo of 100 libbre = 33.9073 kilogrammes = 74.753 U. S. pounds avoirdupois.

Coin Weight.

Formerly, the same as for gold and silver; since 1835, the gramme.

For working, gold is divided into 24 carati (carats); and silver into 12 once, each of 24 denari.

Apothecaries' Weight.

For pharmacy, the unit of weight is the commercial libbra divided into 12 once, each of 8 dramme, each of 3 scrupoli, each of 24 grani, each of 24 parti (parts). The grano (grain) is the same as the commercial or gold grano.

Shipping Weight.

For ship's freight the rubbio is the unit; which for grain is reckoned as a weight of 640 libbre (pounds), for salt at 600, and for peas, beans, &c., at 720 libbre.

JAPAN.

(Principal Commercial Cities, NAGASAKI, YEDDO (or TOKAI), OSAKA, and HAKODADI.)

Money.

10 mon	= 1 rin	= $0.001
10 rin	= 1 pun	= 0.007
10 pun	= 1 monmé	= 0.0675

By the Portuguese the monme is called mas (Dutch maas, English mace), and the pun candarin (Dutch condrijen). They also reckon

10 mas, mace, or monme	{ = 1 rice or tael
	{ = $0.6752

Monme is likewise the name of the Japanese unit of weight, and as such = 1½ grammes.

As a coin, the quantity of silver contained of the fineness of 892½ thousandths, is such that 149.744 (about 149½) monme may be coined from the Cologne mark of fine silver; — consequently the tael of 10 monme = $0.6752.

At Osaka, 1 kobang or rio = 4 boos = 64 tempos = 128 monme.

According to the statements of the Portuguese and Dutch, until about the year 1780, the local taels had the legal value of 3½ Dutch guildens, hence, taking the value of the gulden of that period, 7½ or 7.05714 taels were coined from the Cologne mark of fine silver. The value of such tael was therefore $1.432.

Gold Coins.

Cobang, old, assay U. S. mint	= $4.44
Cobang, new, assay U. S. mint	= 3.553
Cobang, new, average, by Dutch assay in 1834	= 4.446
Cobang, new, average, by Dutch assay in 1833	= 4.863
Cobang, new, average, by French and English assay	= 5.793
Cobang, new, average, by earlier Dutch assay	= 5.632
Cobang, old (uncurrent), French and English assay	= 10.044

The obo-ban is a large gold coin or medallion, designed for show, and worth from 20 (or, with premium, 24) to 26 kobang.

There are also of gold moneys, the itagone, or money slip, and the kodama (or little pearls) of various weights stamped in proof of purity.

Silver Coins.

The silver pieces in most general circulation are the itzebu (itsi-boo, or ichibu), its half (ni-shiu), and its quarter (is-shiu)—coins of rectangular shape. Some of the coins are below the standard fineness.

The itzebu (of 1600 sen, zen, or cash), according to trials at the U. S. mint = the old, $0.3763; the new, $0.3380.

The value of the itakane, itaganne, rjoo, or rjoo-gin (called by the Dutch, schui), according to Siebold = $2.928.

Japan has also mixed gold and silver coinage in circulation.

Copper and Iron Coins.

The coins of copper and of iron are the sen or zheni (Chinese tsien, Dutch pijtes, English cash). Sometimes 96 and sometimes 100 cash or sen are reckoned to the silver monme, more generally 100; so that from 960 to 1000 cash are contained in the Japanese tael. The copper cash are in more extensive use than those of iron.

Weights and Measures.

MEASURES OF LENGTH.

10 rin	= 1 bun.
10 bun	= 1 sun.
10 sun	= 1 sasi (Chinese, sjak').

Sasi are of different kinds, but the one most used is the foot measure or kane sasi (Chinese kjok' sjak') = 0.303 meter = 0.994 U. S. foot.

The ken (Chinese, kian) as a unit: ikken (that is, 1 ken, Dutch ikje) = 6³/₁₀ sasi.

60 ken	= 1 tsjoo (Chinese ting) or masti.
36 tsjoo	= 1 ri (Chinese li), the Japanese mile = 4123 ² / ₃ meters = 2.5620 U. S. miles = 13527.6 U. S. feet.

The ell measure is the tsune sasi (Chinese zjoo sjak') or kupira sasi = 0.379 meter = 14.9 U. S. inches.

A great ell measure is the zjoo (Chinese jang) which = 2 ken = 3.818 meters = 125.26 U. S. feet.

SQUARE MEASURE.

The pu, or square ken = 3.6439 square meters = 4.358 U. S. square yards. The tsjoo = 10 tan, each of 10 sen, each of 30 pu = 3000 pu = 109.3 French ares = 2.701 U. S. acres.

MEASURES OF VOLUME.

Dry and Fluid Measure.

10 sasi (Chinese sjak') = 1 goo.
10 goo = 1 sjoo (Chinese, shing) or masu (Dutch, gantang) = 16 cubic kane sasi = 1.7886 liter = 0.4593 U. S. wine gallon = 1.837 wine quart.
10 sjoo = 1 to (tibo = 1 to; as a vessel, tomasu). — 10 to, or 100 sjoo = 1 kok' or koku = 4.933 U. S. bushels.

WEIGHTS.

Commercial. Gold and Silver.

10 moo (Dutch, fokje) = 1 rin (Dutch, mokje).
10 rin	{ = 1 pun (Dutch, condrijen).
	{ = 1 monme (Dutch, maas).
10 pun	{ = 1½ grammes.
	{ = 27.01 U. S. grains.
160 monme = 1 kin or pound = 0.617 U. S. lb. avdp.
Payments in silver and copper are made in decimal multiples of the monme; as, sju monme = 10 monme, kjak'-me = 100 monme.

Apothearies' Weight.

The unit is the weight of the silver coin rjoo (rjoo gin, Dutch schuit) = 4¹/₉ monme = 7.525 grammes = 116½ U. S. grains Troy.

10 rjoo or 43 monme = 1 ma' = 75½ grammes = 1161½ U. S. grains.

THE NETHERLANDS AND COLONIES.

(Chief Commercial City of the Netherlands, AMSTERDAM.)

Money.

Moneys of Account.

Since 1816. 5 cents = 1 stuiver. 100 cents = 1 Netherland or Holland guilder, gulden, or florin.

Prior to 1816, the Holland gulden was divided into 20 stuiver, each of 16 pennige.

Since March 22, 1839. 24½ gulden are coined from the Cologne mark of fine silver; therefore (assuming, as hitherto, the value of gold to be 15½ times that of silver),

1 Netherlands or Holland gulden { = $0.4084 U. S.
{ = £0.0839 sterling
{ = frs. 2 117
Since June 23, 1850, silver is the only legal tender.

Gold Coins.

Double Willem d'or	= $3.050
Willem d'or (gouden or golden Willem).	= 4.025
Half Willem d'or	= 2.0125
Disappearing { double ducat	= 4.565
from use, { ducat	= 2.282

Silver Coins.

Rijksdaaler of 2½ gulden	= $1.0210
Gulden (or florin)	= 0.4084
½ gulden	= 0.2042

Billon.

Pieces of 25, 10, and 5 cents each.

Pure Copper Coins.

Pieces of 1 cent and ½ cent, being of the legal weight, respectively, of 3.845 and 1.922 grammes or wigtjes.

Weights and Measures.

Since 1816, the weights and measures in use are those of the metric system, with old Dutch names.

MEASURES OF LENGTH.

In force since 1821 : —

1 streep (millimeter).	= 1 duim (centimeter).
10 streepen	= 1 palm (decimeter).
10 duimen	= 1 el (meter).
10 palmen	= 1.45389 old Amsterdam ell.
	= 3.53191 old Amsterdam foot.
	= 39.37040 U. S. inches.
10 ellen	= 1 roede (decameter).
10 roeden	= 1 mijl (kilometer).
	= 0.62137 U. S. mile.

MEASURES OF SURFACE.

Since 1821 : —

100 square ellen	= 1 vierkaute (square are) roede.
	= 1 bunder (hectare).
100 square roeden	= 1.2302 old Amsterdam morgen.
	= 2.471 U. S. acres.

MEASURES OF VOLUME.

Cubic Measure.

1 kubieke el	= 1 cubic meter.
	= 1.308 U. S. cubic yard.
	= 35.31 U. S. cubic feet.

Wood for Fuel.

1 wisse (stère)	= 1 cubic meter.
---------------------------	------------------

Grain Measure.

Since 1823, used for all dry products, lime, coal, etc.

10 maatjes	= 1 kop (liter).
10 kop	= 1 schepel (decaliter).
	= 1 mud or zak (hectoliter).
	= 2.838 U. S. bushels.
10 schepels	= 0.898828 old Amsterdam mud.
	= 1.198437 old Amsterdam zak.
	= 3.595311 old Amsterdam schepels.

2 mud or zak (sack)	= 1 ton.
	= 5.676 U. S. bushels.
	= 7.062 U. S. cubic feet.
30 mud	= 1 last
	= 85.14 U. S. bushels.

Sometimes they divide the last, like the old, into 27 mud or 36 zak.

A last of wheat is reckoned as a weight of 2310 new pond (kilogrammes), and of barley, 2075 new pond.

Salt is sold by weight.

Liquid Measure.

Since 1830 : —

10 vingerhoeden	= 1 maat (decliter).
10 maatjes	= 1 kan (liter).
	= 0.824615 old Amsterdam mengelen.
	= 1 vat (hectoliter).
100 kannen	= 2.6417 U. S. gallons.
	= 0.64423 old Amsterdam aamen.

WEIGHTS.

Commercial : Since 1821 : —

1 hundredtel-korrel (milligramme.)	= 1 zehntel-korrel (centigramme.)
10 hundredtel-korrels	= 1 wigtje (gramme).
10 wigtjes	= 1 lood (decagramme).
10 lood	= 1 ons (hectogramme).
	= 1 pond (kilogramme).
	= 2.2046 U. S. lbs. avoirdupois.
10 ons	= 2.6792 U. S. lbs. troy.
	= 2.03183 Holland troy-ponds.
	= 2.02392 old Amsterdam commercial ponds.
3 pond	= 1 steen (stone).
1 wigtje	= 20.8059 Holland-as troy weight.

Gold, silver, precious stones, and pearls, are sold by the wigtje (gramme), or by the old jewel-karat of 4 greinen = 20.5894 centigrammes or new zehntel-korrels = 3.177 U. S. grains troy.

Apothecaries' Weight.

Since 1821. The medicinal pond of 12 ons, each of 8 drachmas, each of 3 scruples, each of 20 greinen = 5760 greinen = $\frac{1}{10}$ of the new commercial pond = 375 wigtjes (grammes) 1.01591 old Amsterdam medicinal pond = 5787.13 U. S. grains troy.

COLONIES OF THE NETHERLANDS.

IN THE EAST INDIES, WEST INDIES, AND WEST COAST OF AFRICA.

JAVA.

(Chief City of the Netherland East Indies, BATAVIA.)

Money.

Moneys of Account.

The same as in the Netherlands.
100 cents, or 100 duiten, formerly 20 stuiver = 1 gulden or silver rupee = $0.408.

Weights and Measures.

MEASURES OF LENGTH.

The old Amsterdam-Rhenish voet (foot)	= 0.313946 meter.
The old Amsterdam ell	= 0.68781 meter = 2.2566 U. S. feet.
The old Rhenish voet (foot.)	= 12 Rhenish voet (feet.)
The old Rhenish roede	= 3.76735 meters.

MEASURES OF VOLUME.

Dry Measure.

Rice, Grain, and Salt. — The koyang as a weight = 27 pikols = 3662.04 U. S. lbs. avoirdupois = 1661.07 kilogrammes.

In Samarang the koyang	= 28 Batavia pikols.
In Surabaya the koyang	= 30 Batavia pikols.
In Bantam, the koyang	= 64 Batavia pikola.
In Cheribon, the tiayang, used	= 24 pikols.
as a measure for rice
1 timbang of 10 sack weighs 5 piculs.
1 amat weighs 2 piculs.
1 kulack weighs 7¼ catjes.

Liquid Measure.

1 kan = 91 U. S. cubic inches = 1.49 liter or New Netherland kan = 0.394 U. S. gallon.
 33 kans = 13 U. S. gallons.
 388 kans = 1 legger (for arrack, etc.)
 Liquids are often sold by weight.

WEIGHTS.

Commercial Weight.

16 taels = 1 catje or catty.
 4½ piculs = 1 picul (originally Chinese).
 100 catjes = 135.63 U. S. lbs. avoirdupois.
 = 61.52 kilogramme.
 8 piculs = 1 small bahar.
 4½ piculs = 1 large bahar . = 1½ small bahar.
 10 catjes = 1 gantang (for coffee, etc.)
 In practice a picul (round) is reckoned equal to 136 U. S. lbs. avoirdupois.
 The old Holland troy pound is also used = 1.3186 U. S. troy pound = 1.075 U. S. lb. avoirdupois.

Gold and Silver.

9 reals = 1 mark, old Holland troy weight = 246.0839 grammes = 3797.6 U. S. grains troy.

THE MOLUCCAS OR SPICE ISLANDS.

(POSSESSIONS OF THE NETHERLANDS IN FARTHER INDIA.)

In three groups:—

1. The Tormata or Molucca proper, embracing the largest of these islands; Gilolo, the more distant; Ternate Tidor, etc.
2. The Amboina, and among them the chief island of the whole Archipelago, Amboina (on which is the principal city of the same name).
3. The Banda Islands.

Money.

Moneys of Account (since 1839).

20 stuivers, or now more properly 100 cents = 1 Netherland gulden or florin (of which by law 24½ are coined from the Cologne mark of fine silver); and therefore = $0.408.

Foreign Coins

By the tariff of 1826 are worth:—

Onzas or doubloons = 30 florins or gulden, each.
 Spanish silver piasters (or dollars) = 2½ florins, each.
 Indian sicca-rupees = 1½ florins, each.
 Holland ducats = 3½ florins, each.
 Holland shillings or resthalfs = 5 Netherland stuivers, each.
 Holland dübbeltjes = 2 Netherland stuivers, each.

Formerly, and until a very late period, they reckoned in most of the Netherland East Indian Dependencies in ryksdaalers of 48 Indian stuivers; 12.85 Indian ryksdaalers being coined from the Cologne mark of fine silver. Therefore 1 Indian ryksdaaler = $0.787.

Weights and Measures.

MEASURES OF LENGTH.

1 covid = 18½ U. S. inches . = 0.46056 meter.

LIQUID MEASURE.

The kan of Batavia.
 33 kans = 13 U. S. gallons.

WEIGHTS.

Commercial.

The systems of weights in use are the old Amsterdam or Dutch weights (generally preferred), the Chinese, and the English.

In Amboina (for spices), the baar or bahar of 60 barotti = 270.692 kilogrammes = 596½ U. S. lbs. avoirdupois.

In Banda, the baar or picul of 100 catjes or catties = 276.8 kilogrammes = 610½ U. S. lbs. avoirdupois; and the sockel (for mace) of 28 catjes = 170.86 U. S. lbs. avoirdupois.

In Ternate is used the picul of Batavia of 100 catjes, and the barotti of Amboina.

Rice and salt by weight, as follows:—

In Amboina, the rice-koyang of 25 piculs each of 100 catjes of silver weight = 3000 Holland troy pounds = 1476½ kilogrammes = 3255 U. S. lbs. avoirdupois.

In Banda, the same koyang (for rice and salt) is divided into 40 maaten.

In Ternate, the bamboe (for rice and salt) = 1½ Holland troy pound = 788½ grammes = 1627.5 U. S. lbs. avoirdupois.

Gold and Silver.

In Amboina, the catje of 20 taels, each of 16 maas (or mace), each of 4 coubang = 590.60 grammes = 9114.3 U. S. grains troy.

In Ternate there are used all the measures and weights of Batavia.

SUMATRA.

(ONE OF THE FOUR LARGE ISLANDS OF SUNDA.)

The Netherland possessions here embrace the Palembang, with the commercial city of that name; Benkulen, with the city of the same name; and Pedang, with Pedang the chief city of the Netherland possessions and chief commercial mart on the island; Natal, etc. Acheen, with a fortified city of that name, in the northwest, is under a native Principality.

Money.

In Padang and Palembang they reckon in rijksdaalers of 48 Indian stuivers; 1½ rijksdaalers exchanging for 1 Spanish silver piaster or dollar. The prices of merchandise are now commonly fixed in dollars or Spanish piasters.

In Benkulen (called by the English Fort Marlborough) until 1824, they reckoned in dollars, sometimes called rials, each of 4 sookoes, each of 2 satallies, the dollar or real being reckoned at 5 shillings sterling (= $1.21½); since 1824, and especially since 1827, the same as Batavia.

Weights and Measures.

IN BENCOOLEN.

Measures of Length.

1 esto, cubit, or covid = ½ U. S. yard.
 2 estos or cubits = 1 hehloh . . = 1 U. S. yard.
 4 estos or cubits = 1 dipoh . . = 1 U. S. fathom

Grain Measure.

4 chupahs = 1 koolah.
 = 1 coyan.
 800 koolahs = 201600 U. S. cubic inches.
 = 93.73 U. S. bushels.

Liquids.

Sold partly by weight, partly by measure. Chinese measures also used.

Commercial Weight

Is the Chinese, but for pepper the English.

Gold and Silver Weight.

The catty of 16 taels each of $1\frac{1}{2}$ ringits, or 12 kepings = 10208 U. S. troy grains.

IN NATAL.

Dry and Fluid Measure.

80 tubs = 1 coyan = 149.9 U. S. bushels. — 1 tub = 17.44 U. S. wine gallons.

Gold Weight.

That of the Chinese.

Commercial Weight.

That of the Chinese. 1 catty uhtan (for camphor) = 3 Chinese catties. — 1 tompong (for benzoin) = 60 Chinese catties.

IN PADANG.

Rice Measure.

The bambu as weight = $7\frac{1}{2}$ Holland troy pond = 3.691 kilogrammes = 8.11 lbs. avoirdupois.

Salt Measure.

The coyang of 50 maaten or maass = 3750 Holland troy pounds = 1845.63 kilogrammes = 4068.9 U. S. lbs. avoirdupois.

Commercial Weight.

100 catties = 1 picul.
 The Malay catty $\left\{ \begin{array}{l} = 1\frac{1}{4} \text{ Holland troy pound.} \\ = 0.92281 \text{ kilogramme} \\ = 2.034 \text{ U. S. lbs. avdp.} \end{array} \right.$
 The Batavia or so-called Chinese catty $\left\{ \begin{array}{l} = 1.3563 \text{ U. S. lbs. avdp.} \\ = \frac{2}{3} \text{ of a Malay catty.} \end{array} \right.$
 The bahar = 220 Malay or 330 Batavia catties.

Gold Weight.

The tael of 16 maass, or 108 candareens, or 700 racheems = $1\frac{1}{2}$ Batavia rials = $\frac{1}{6}$ Holland troy mark = 41.014 grammes = 632.88 U. S. troy grains.

IN PALEMBANG.

Weight the same as the Chinese. The gulack of pepper = $1\frac{1}{2}$ catty.

Gold and Silver Weight.

The catty of 10 taels each $2\frac{1}{2}$ rials or Spanish piasters (or dollars); the same as in Batavia.

IN ACHEEN.

Long Measure.

1 cubit = 18 U. S. inches.

Grain and Liquid Measure.

1 bambu = about $1\frac{1}{2}$ liter = about 0.440 U. S. gallon.
 8 bambus = 1 nelli.
 10 nellies = 1 guncha.
 10 gunchas = 1 coyang.
 25 bambus or punies = 1 parah, for salt.

Commercial Weight.

20 buncals $\left\{ \begin{array}{l} = 1 \text{ so-called Malay catty.} \\ = 0.9603 \text{ kilogramme.} \\ = 14820 \text{ U. S. grains troy.} \end{array} \right.$

200 of these Malay catties = 1 bahar = 423 4 U. S. lbs avoirdupois.

In practice, 1 local or Malay catty = $1\frac{1}{2}$ Chinese catties. 21 bambu = 1 rice maund = 75 U. S. lbs. avdp. = 34.02 kilogrammes.

Gold Weight.

The above-mentioned catty divided into 20 buncals, each of 5 taels, each of 16 maass, each of 4 copangs. 5 maass = 1 mayam.

CURAÇAO or CURASSAO.

THE MOST IMPORTANT OF THE NETHERLAND WEST INDIAN POSSESSIONS.

(Chief town, WILLEMSTADT.)

Money.

Since 1827, as in the Netherlands. 100 cents = 1 gulden of the standard, $24\frac{3}{4}$ from the Cologne mark of fine silver = \$0.408. The price prescribed by official tariff for the Spanish and Mexican onza or doubloon is 40, and for the silver piaster or dollar, $2\frac{1}{2}$ Netherland gulden.

Prior to 1827, accounts were kept in current piasters, each divided into 48 stuivers, or 8 reals each of 6 stuivers; (also in large transactions into 100 cents); 13.40625 current piasters may be coined from the Cologne mark of fine silver. Therefore 1 current piaster = $0.754.

 11 such reals = 1 Spanish piaster.

In the Island of St. Martin they often reckon 6 stuivers or 16 Netherland cents = 1 real or bit. 12 reals or bits = 1 daaler = $0.783.

Weights and Measures of the Netherland West Indies.

Chiefly the old Amsterdam, but frequently the old English, or United States.

In Curaçao they sell also by the Spanish vara = $33\frac{3}{8}$ U. S. inches = 0.8477 meter = 1.015 true Castilian vara. Here they reckon, 81 varas = 100 Amsterdam ells.

In Curaçao, 1 pound = 571.280 grammes = 1.171 U. S. lb. avoirdupois.

SURINAM.

(Chief town, PARAMARIBO.)

Guiana, on the northern coast of South America, is divided into three districts: the British colony of Demarara, the French colony of Cayenne, and the Netherlands colony of Surinam.

Money.

Money of account in Surinam, since 1827: — 1 gulden = 100 cents (Netherlands) = $0.408. Frequently also, 1 gulden = 20 stuiver, each of 8 duiten, each of 2 pennige.

Weights and Measures.

The same as the old Amsterdam.

NIGRITIA or SOODAN (Africa).

(Chief Commercial Ports — TIMBUCTOO, MAJO, BAL-LEO, and CABARA.)

Commerce is mostly exchange of products and foreign coins, as Spanish dollars, Maria Theresa thalers, Egyptian and Turkish piasters, etc.

PERSIA (Iran).

(Commercial Cities — ISPAHAN, TAURIS, TEHERAN, MESHEH, RESHD, and SHIRAZ.)

Money.

Moneys of Account.

50 dinars = 1 shahi	= $0.0013
10 shahi = 1 panabat, or papabat	= 0.013
20 shahi = { 1 sahib-keran, or saab-kran, } { or sometimes keran or } { kran. }	= 0.223
10 saabkrans = 1 toman	= 2.278

According to the new valuation, 1 toman = $\frac{1}{4}$ of a Russian half-Imperial = \$2.278.

Gold Coins.

According to trials in Philadelphia: —

Toman under Mohammed Shah, 1839 (1255 Hegira)	} = $2.244
Half-toman, under the same, 1837 (1253 Hegira)

New Persian rupee (very nearly the saabkran of 1808)

Copper Coins.

Shahi; half-shahi; pool, or pool-Teheran = $\frac{1}{3}$ shahi; and kasbegi = $\frac{1}{10}$ shahi.

Weights and Measures.

MEASURES OF LENGTH.

7 barley-corns	= 1 finger.
24 fingers	= 1 foot.
2 feet	= 1 guz, gers, or arshine.

The guz shah (or royal guz)—for woolen fabrics — = 4 U. S. inches = 1.0160 meter.

The guz Mokasar (especially for Persian manufacture and for retail trade) = 39.8 U. S. inches = 0.9847 meter.

The guz Tauris = 40.4 U. S. inches = 1.0262 meter.

There is also a larger guz or arshine of 44 U. S. inches = 1.1176 meter which is the base of itinerary and field measure.

The Teheran guz, called the zer of Teheran = 42 U. S. inches = 1.0668 meters.

6000 guz or arshine	{ = 1 farsang.
	{ = 4 $\frac{1}{2}$ U. S. miles.

Field Measure.

The karwar = 100 batman, each of 125 square arshine = 168055 $\frac{2}{3}$ U. S. square feet = 156.123 French ares.

Grain Measure.

4 sextarios	= 1 chenica.
2 chenicas	= 1 capicha or hemina.
25 capichas or 8 collothun {	= 1 artaba.
	= 65.238 liters.
	= 1.851 U. S. bushel.
15 capichas	= 1 legana.
22 sextarios	= sabbitha.

Besides, grain and all dry merchandise are sold by weight.

Liquids

Are sold by weight.

WEIGHTS.

Weights differ greatly in different places; only the small weight miscal (miskal) is everywhere the same. Among the larger weights is the maund or batman.

(1.) In Tauris or Tabrez, Mesheh, Herat, etc., the maund of 40 seers or 640 miscals = 3 098 kilogrammes = 6.83 U. S. lbs. avdp. This Tauris maund is the one in most common use, and is always understood to be meant when not otherwise specified.

(2.) In Ispahan the so-called maund shah (or royal maund) = 1280 miscals = 6 196 kilogrammes = 13.66 U. S. lbs. avoirdupois.

(3.) In Reshd the maund = 2560 miscals = 12.392 kilogrammes = 27.32 U. S. lbs. avoirdupois.

(4.) In Shiraz or Chiraz, Bushire, and Gamroon = 720 miscals = 3 485 kilogrammes = 7.682 U. S. lbs. avoirdupois.

In Teheran, the rih = 1600 miscals = 7.745 kilogrammes = 17.0746 U. S. lbs. avdp. This is called d, in Ispahan, the larger rih, and is used for silk; its half is called the smaller rih, and is used for indigo.—The silk maund has 6 oki. The ferdeh or kuleh (sack), by which in Reshd raw silk is sold, has from 26 to 30 oki.

The tehanak or tesherek has 160 miscals; sometimes 150.—The ratel has 100 miscals.

The karwar, halwar or last = 100 Tauris maunds = 5 Ispahan (or royal) maunds = 25 Reshd maunds.

Gold and Silver Weight.

4 carats	= 1 dong.
6 dong	= 1 miscal.
2 miscals	= 1 derhem (or drachme).
The miscal	{ = 4.840 grammes.
	{ = 74.7 U. S. grains.

Pearl Weight.

1 abas	{ = 0.1458 gramme.
	{ = 2 $\frac{1}{2}$ U. S. grains.

PORTUGAL.

(Chief Commercial Cities — LISBON (LISBOA) and OPORTO.)

Money.

The rei is the unit of account.

1000 reis	{ = 18000 reis.
	{ = $1.0804 U. S. gold.

1000 milreis =	{ 1 conto (con- to de reis) }	= 1.000$000 reis.
1000 contos =	{ 1 conto de conto . . . }	= 1.000.000$000 reis.

The symbol ($) is one of several different symbols used to indicate the place of thousands; a colon (:) indicates the place of millions; and a full point (.) the place of thousands of millions. For example, 44,372,536,748 reis is commonly written in accounts 44 372:536$748.

Milhao (denoting million), standing by itself or unqualified, denotes a million of reis. — Milhão de cruzados denotes a million of cruzados, etc.

Under the new law of 1st August, 1854, the milreis (gold) = $1.08047 U. S. gold = 0.1625708 new German crown.

Gold is the standard, being legal tender as payment in all amounts; silver is subsidiary, and is not required to be received in payment for any greater amount than 5000 reis, about $5 U. S. gold.

The new gold coins have a fineness, as hitherto, of 916 $\frac{2}{3}$ thousandths, or 22 carats ($\frac{1}{12}$); the fineness of the new silver coins is also 916 $\frac{2}{3}$ thousandths.

The new gold coins are the crown (corôa) of 10,000 reis, the $\frac{1}{2}$ -crown of 5000 reis, the $\frac{1}{3}$ -crown of 2000 reis, and the $\frac{1}{10}$ -crown of 1000 reis. The crown weighs 17.735 grammes, and is worth \$10.8047 U. S. gold. The weight and value of other gold coins are in proportion.

The new silver coins are pieces of 5 tostões or 500 reis, of 2 tostões or 200 reis, of 1 tostão or 100 reis, and of $\frac{1}{2}$ tostão or 50 reis; the piece of 5 tostões weighing 12 $\frac{1}{2}$ grammes, and the weight of the other silver coins in proportion. The 5-tostão piece (intrinsic value) = \$0.4953.

In the new coinage, copper money has undergone no change.

The former golden peças and half peças are to be taken as legal coins of the value of 8000 and 4000 reis respectively, and of English sovereigns and half sovereigns of full weight, as of the legal value of 4500 and 2250 reis respectively.

Former Money of Account and Coins.

6 ceitis	= 1 rei.
20 reis	= 1 vintem.
2 vintems	= 1 real.
2 $\frac{1}{2}$ reais	= 1 testão or tostão.
4 testões or tostões	= 1 old crusado.
12 old crusados	= 1 new crusado.
2 $\frac{1}{2}$ old crusados, or 2 $\frac{1}{2}$ new crusados }	= 1 milreis.

9000 reis or 9 mil-reis can be coined from the Cologne mark of fine silver. Such silver mil-reis is therefore—assuming, as hitherto, the value of gold to be 15 $\frac{3}{8}$ times that of silver—equal to \$1.123 U. S. gold.

The earlier coinage-systems of Portugal are very complicated.

Weights and Measures.

NEW OR METRIC SYSTEM.

The metric system of weights and measures exists legally in Portugal, having been established by the law of 20 July, 1864.

FORMER SYSTEM OF WEIGHTS AND MEASURES.

MEASURES OF LENGTH.

12 pontos	= 1 linha.
12 linhas	= 1 pollegada.
8 pollegadas {	= 1 palmo de Craveiro (standard palmo).
	= 0.22 meters.
	= 8.661 U. S. inches.

The palmo de Craveiro avantejado or good measure = 8 $\frac{1}{2}$ pollegadas.

The palmo da Junta is divided into 10 pollegadas, and is smaller by 9 per cent. than the palmo de Craveiro, 91 of the latter being equal to 100 of the former.

12 pollegadas = 1 pé (foot)	{ = 0.33 meter.
5 palmos de Craveiro	{ = 1.0827 U. S. f. ot.
1 varo Covado = 3 palmos	{ = 1.1 meters.
	{ = 1.203 U. S. yard.
	{ = 0.66 meter.
	{ = 25.984 U. S. inches.
In retail trade, 1 large Covado	{ = 3 palmos avantejados.
	{ = 0.68625 meter.
	{ = 26.7968 U. S. inches.

English manufactures are sold by the English yard; 6 yards in practice commonly being reckoned = 5 varas, 20 yards = 27 covados.

2 varas	= 1 braça.
1 $\frac{1}{3}$ varas or 5 pés	= 1 passo geometrico (for land measure).
117 $\frac{1}{3}$ braças	= 1 estadio = 0.1604 U. S. mile.
8 estadios	{ = 1 milha (small mile).
	{ = 2065.653 meters.
	{ = 1.2835 U. S. mile.
3 milhas	{ = 1 legoa (large mile).
	{ = 3.8504 U. S. miles.

MEASURES OF SURFACE.

1 square vara	= 1.21 square meter.
4 square varas	= 1 square braça.
4840 square varas {	= 1 geira.
	= 58.562 French ares.
	= 1.447 U. S. acre.

GRAIN MEASURE.

Also for salt and most other dry measures.

2 salamins or meio (half) oitava	= 1 oitava.
2 oitavas	= 1 quarte.
2 quartas	= 1 meio alqueire.
2 meios alqueires	= 1 alqueire.
4 alqueires	= 1 fanga.
15 fangas	= 1 moio.

Grain measures are very different in different localities. In Lisbon, the alqueire = 13.841 liters = 0.39277 U. S. bushel; the fanga = 55.363 liters = 1.5711 U. S. bushel and the moio = 890.45 liters = 23.565 U. S. bushels.

100 of these Lisbon measures = 79 $\frac{1}{4}$ like measures of Oporto.

The alqueire for shell-almonds = 14 Lisbon pounds.

LIQUID MEASURES.

2 meios quartilhos	= 1 quartilho.
2 quartilhos	= 1 meia (half) canada.
2 meias canadas	= 1 canada.
6 canadas	= 1 pote.
2 potes	= 1 almude.

These measures vary in different places.

In Lisbon the almude = 16.74 liters = 4.422 U. S. gallons.

The wine tonelada contains 2 Lisbon wine pipes, each of 30 almudes; and occasionally 32 almudes.

18 almudes	= 1 barril.
100 almudes of Lisbon	= 66 almudes of Porto.
100 almudes of Faro	= 47 $\frac{1}{2}$ almudes of Lisbon.

The Lisbon oel-pipa contains 30 almudes, each containing by weight from 33 to 34 Portuguese arratels (pounds). In practice generally it is reckoned at 34 arratels, but for Balsam of Copaiva 33 $\frac{1}{2}$.

WEIGHTS.

Commercial.

24 grões (singular grão)	= 1 escrupulo.
3 escrupulos	= 1 oitava (eighth).
8 oitavas	= 1 onças.

4 onças	=	1 quarto.
2 quartos	=	1 meio (half) arratel.
2 meios arrateis	{	1 arratel or libra (a pound).
		459 grammes.
		7088 U. S. grains troy.
123 arrateis	{	1.012 U. S. lb. avdp.
		1 quintal or 4 arrobas.

Since 1853, the unit of weight for customs is 100 arrateis [1 custom house arroba].

Gold and Silver.

The marco = $\frac{1}{2}$ commercial arratel = 229 $\frac{1}{2}$ grammes = 0.61489 U. S. troy pound.

Apothecaries' Weight.

The apothecaries' arratel = $\frac{3}{4}$ commercial arratel = 1 $\frac{1}{2}$ gold-marco = 12 onças each of 8 oitavas, each of 3 escrupulos, each of 24 grões (grains) = 344 $\frac{1}{2}$ grammes = 0.759 U. S. lb. avoirdupois.

RUSSIA.

(Principal Commercial Cities—St. PETERSBURG, MOSCOW, RIGA, and ODESSA.)

Money.

The money of account is the rouble (rubel or rubl) of 100 copecks (kopyeyki).

2 dienuska (or dienushecka, small money, diminutive of dienga)	{	= 1 dienga.
2 diengas (diengi)
5 copecks (kopyeyki)	{	= 1 copeck (kopyeyka).
10 copecks
20 copecks
50 copecks
100 copecks

The legal standard for money is double—both gold and silver. There is also a forced paper currency consisting of government notes (Imperial-credit-notes).

Prior to January $\frac{1}{3}$, 1840, all accounts were kept in bank-assignats (government bank notes). In August, 1839, an Imperial ukase fixed the relative legal values of the paper, silver, and gold money, by declaring 350 assignat roubles equal to 100 silver roubles; and 103 silver roubles equal to 100 gold roubles. The same ukase also decreed that from the commencement of the year 1840, all accounts should be kept in silver roubles.

By an Imperial ukase of July $\frac{1}{13}$, 1843, the assignat roubles (or bank-assignats) were to be withdrawn from circulation, and other paper money, to wit, silver-rouble Imperial-credit-notes, issued in their place, in denominations of 50, 25, 5, 3 and 1 silver roubles, and the circulation of these notes as the equivalent of coin, was made compulsory. These notes now constitute the current money of the empire, and are the moneys referred to as "silver roubles" in market and exchange quotations. In commercial transactions, however, these silver-rouble credit-notes are at discount as against silver coin. In April, 1854, they were at 12 per cent. discount against silver coin; in February, 1855, they were at 21 per cent. discount against silver coin, and 24 per cent. against gold coin. In June, 1858, these notes were at from 15 to 16 per cent. discount against silver coin. The re-importation of these silver-rouble Imperial-credit-notes is forbidden.

COINS.

Coins are of copper, silver, platinum, and gold. The copper coins in general circulation are of 5 and 2 copecks, of 1 copeck, and of $\frac{1}{2}$ and $\frac{1}{4}$ of a copeck.—Silver coins are the one-rouble piece, and pieces of 50, 25, 20, 15, 10 and 5 copecks each.—The platinum coins are pieces of the legal value of 3, 6, and 12 silver roubles, and were issued under Nicholas I. The coinage of these pieces, since February, 1846, has been wholly discontinued, their value being found to fluctuate greatly. These coins were never received with favor by the people. By a ukase of February, 1845, their export and import was forbidden.—The gold coins at present issued are the half-imperial (pol-imperial) or pistole, and the imperial ducat; the former legally of the value of 5 gold roubles, or 5 $\frac{15}{100}$ silver roubles; the latter, by law, equaling 3 silver roubles.

Intrinsic values.

The standard silver-coin rouble	{	= $0.77792.

The dessiatina (originally denoting tithe) is usually of the form of a parallelogram 60 sazhen long by 40 wide.

MEASURES OF VOLUME.

For Wood for Fuel.

The legal cubic sazhen {	=	343 U. S. cubic feet.
	=	9.71215 cubic meters.

In Petersburg the 3-brand sazhen = $\frac{3}{4}$ of a cubic sazhen, and the 1-brand sazhen = $\frac{1}{4}$ of a cubic sazhen; in Moscow, the 3-brand sazhen = $\frac{5}{6}$ of a cubic sazhen, and the 1-brand sazhen = $\frac{5}{8}$ of a cubic sazhen.

Grain Measure.

30 chasts	=	1 gōrnietz.

2 chetveriki (chetvereek) or chetveriks
2 paiki (paikee) or paiöks	}	= 1 paiök (soldiers' ration). = 1 osmina. = 1 chetviert.
2 osmini (osmeence) or osminas	}	= 128.09.6948 Russ. or U. S. cubic inches. = 2.0990 hectoliters. = 5.9560 U. S. bushels.

A chetverik is the volume occupied by 64 funts (foonts) of distilled water at 16 $\frac{2}{3}$ centigrade (or 62 $\frac{2}{3}$ Fahr.) weighed in vacuo.

A kul (cool) or sack, which properly will hold a chetviert, is by law accepted as a weight; the kul of barley weighing 260 funts, and the kul of oats, 220 funts.

The last of grain and seeds contains 20 chetvierts; the last of oats contains 20 kuls (or kuli) or 440 funts.

Liquid Measure.

1 charka (gill)	= 0.2599 U. S. pint.
10 charki or charkas	= 1 kruzka (kroojka, a jug). = 750.568 Russ. or U. S. cubic inches.

96 zolötniki or zolotniks	}
40 funti, or pounds Russ.	}
10 pudi or puds	= 1 berkovetz.

The funt or pound Russ. is a weight equal to that of 25.019 cubic inches of distilled water in vacuo at the temperature of 16 $\frac{2}{3}$ degrees of the centigrade or 62 of the Fahrenheit thermometers.

Gold, Silver, and Coin.

The unit of weight is the commercial pound (funt) or pound Russ. of 96 zolotniki, each of 96 doli = 1.751131 Prussian Cologne Mark. — Gold for manufacture or wrought gold has in Russia a fineness of 72 zolotniki or 18 carats.

Apothecaries' Weight.

The medicinal pound (of 12 ounces, each of 8 drams, each of 3 scruples, each of 20 grains) contains 8064 doli or $\frac{1}{2}$ of the commercial pound = 358.3226 grammes = 5529.76 U. S. grains troy.

ODESSA.

(Principal commercial city upon the Black Sea.)

In Odessa the weights used are, in general, those of the Russian Empire, but in trade with neighboring countries, especially with Bessarabia and the Levant, grain is measured by kila.

1 kilo { = 554.54 liters.
= 15.708 U. S. bushels.

In Bessarabia 2 $\frac{1}{2}$ Russian chetviert = 1 kilo = 524 $\frac{1}{2}$ liter = 14.891 U. S. bushels.

In Odessa wool is sold by the last (or ton) of 21 pud (pood).

RIGA.

(Capitol of Livonia, and the second commercial port of European Russia.)

In Riga (a city of large commercial importance, and the chief town of the Russian province of Livonia on the Baltic), although the Russian standards are legally required, yet the following local measures are still extensively in use. The language spoken in Riga is chiefly the German.

Money.

For wholesale trade, the Albertus or Alberts thaler, or Holland thaler, or Mushtini of 90 groschen = $1.053; for retail trade the kurant-thaler of 90 groschen = $0.790.

1 Alberts thaler	}	= 1 $\frac{1}{2}$ thaler-kurant.
		= 3 gulden Alberts.
		= 4 ort Alberts (Albertine).
		= 15 mark rigaisch (or mark of Riga).
		= 40 mark ferding.
		= 80 ferding.
		= 90 groschen Alberts. = 120 groschen-kurant.

Livonian Weights and Measures.

Legally the Russian, but sometimes the old are used.

MEASURES OF LENGTH.

The Rhenish fuss = 0.31385 meter = 1.0297 U. S. foot.
The old Holland palm, here = 3.717 Russ. or U. S. inches = 0.09441 meter.

The elle of Riga of { = 21.166 Russ. or U. S. inches.
4 quartier { = 0.75593 Russ. arsheen.
= 0.53761 meter.

The land-measure elle = 2 Russ. or U. S. feet = 0.60959 meter.

MEASURES OF SURFACE.

The tonnstelle of 35 kappen, each of 400 square ellen for land-measure = 56000 Russ. or U. S. square feet = 0.47620 Russ. dessiatini = 52.024 French ares.

The loofstelle of 25 kappen = $\frac{5}{7}$ tonnstellen.

MEASURES OF VOLUME.

Grain Measure.

The tonne of Riga of 2 loof (löf), each of 6 külmät, each of 9 (huud) stoof = 8405 Russ. or U. S. cubic inches = 0.65614 Russ. chetvierts = 137.726 liters = 3.908 U. S. bushel.

Salt Measure.

18 tonnen = 1 last. — The salztonne (salt ton) = 106 $\frac{1}{2}$ stoof = 8254.2 Russ. or U. S. cubic inches = 135.255 liters = 3.338 U. S. bushels.

Fluid Measure.

The new stoof of Riga (nene rigaer stoof) = 77.824 Russ. or U. S. cubic inches = 1.0369 Russ. kruzki = 1.2752 liters = 0.33687 U. S. gallon.

The new pegelstoof = 1 $\frac{1}{2}$ new rigaer stoof (or stoof of Riga.)

The oxhoft = 1½ ohm, each of 4 ankern, each of 5 velten, each of 6 new stoof of Riga (neue rigaer stoof), each of 4 quartier.

2 neue rigaer stoof = 1 kanne.
 120 neue rigaer stoof = 1 fass branntwine (cask of brandy).
 105 neue rigaer stoof = 1 brautonne (brewers' ton).

 There is in use in Riga a large variety of commercial-lasts, and shipping-lasts — different for different commodities.

POLAND.

(Chief commercial city — WARSAW.)

Money.

Since 1841, the legal money of account in the Kingdom of Poland consists of silver roubles, each of 100 copecks, according to the Russian standard already described.

In trade, however, prices are yet frequently fixed in Polish złote (or gulden) and gröshe.

30 gröshe { = 1 zloty (florin).
 = 15 copecks.
 = $0.11661.

By a ukase issued in 1834, the standard value of the Russian-Polish imperial-ducat of 3 silver roubles = 20 Polish złote. This ducat is sometimes known as the cheryony-zloty, and its intrinsic value, when of standard weight and fineness, is $2.392.

The legal proportion of silver to gold in Russian (including Polish) coins of like denomination, is fixed at 15 to 1.

Former Weights and Measures.

The former measures of length, volume, and weight, of Poland are metrical, based upon the meter, the liter, and the gramme; but their multiples and sub-multiples do not, in general, bear to each other decimal relations. The land measure is not metrical.

MEASURES OF LENGTH.

SPAIN.

(Chief Commercial Cities, MADRID, CADIZ, AND VALENCIA.)

Money.

10 centimos . . . = 1 decimo . . = $0.005 U. S. gold.
 10 decimos . . . = 1 real . . . = $0.050 U. S. gold.
 10 reals (2½ peseta) = 1 escudo . . = $0.500 U. S. gold.
 2 escudos { = 1 duro (peso duro, peso fuerte — hard silver piaster or Spanish dollar of 8 reales plata Mexicana) } = $0.997 U. S. gold.
 10 escudos, or 5 duros } = 1 doblon de Isabel = $4.936 U. S. gold.

The centimo is not coined, but is used merely as a money of account. Accounts are legally kept in escudos, reals, and centimos. By a late decree, the escudo is made the highest unit of account; formerly only reals and centimos were used in accounts. — In practice, however, the real is also sometimes divided into 34 maravedis, or into 8½ cuartas, each of 4 maravedis, each of 10 dinaros castilianos.

COINS.

Of Copper.

Medio real (½ real), cuartillo (¼ real), double decima (1/20 real), decima (1/10 real), and media decima (1/20 real).

Of Silver.

Duro (20 reals), escudo (10 reals), peseta de columnas (5 reals), peseta (4 reals), 2½ real piece, 2 real piece, and 1 real piece.

Of Gold.

Doblon of 10 escudos (or crowns), of 4 escudos and of 2 escudos.

By the law of June 26, 1864 (later than the above), the doblon of 10 escudos contains 8.387 grammes of standard gold $\frac{9}{10}$ fine; and the escudo of silver contains 12.980 grammes of standard silver, $\frac{9}{10}$ fine; the value of the former consequently being \$5.0135 U. S. gold, and that of the latter (assuming as hitherto the value of gold to silver to be as $15\frac{2}{3}$ to 1) \$0.505 U. S. gold. The standard is double, gold and silver, the ratio of value of gold to silver adopted being 15.476 to 1.

FORMER AND LOCAL MONEY OF ACCOUNT.

The various standards for reckoning and accounts in the Provinces of Spain from a very early period to the year 1848, and continued in part to the present time, may be reduced to nine; to wit:—

The first and most important, that of Castile—Madrid. Second, That of Aragon—Zaragoza. Third, That of Catalonia—Barcelona. Fourth, That of Valencia—Alicant. Fifth, That of Navarre—Pamplona. Sixth, That of Majorca and Minorca. Seventh, That of the Balearic Islands. Eighth, That of the Canary Islands. Ninth, That of Mexico and Cuba.

The following relations exist between the principal units of the systems of money of accounts above mentioned:—

7 Catalonian libras =	4 libras of Aragon.
7 Catalonian libras =	5 libras of Valencia.
21 Catalonian libras =	17 libras of Majorca.
7 Catalonian libras =	24 libras of Navarre.
7 Catalonian libras =	100 libras of Iviza.
7 Catalonian libras =	40 reales de plata antiguos	} Castilian.
119 Catalonian libras =	1280 reales de vellon
119 Catalonian libras =	512 reales of Mexico.
119 Catalonian libras =	64 pesos duros, or silver piasters.

In Madrid (Castile).

1 real de plata antiguo of 16 cuartos, or 32 ochavos = 34 maravedis de plata antiguos = 64 maravedis de vellon = 1.922 new real = $0.0958.

1 real de vellon of $8\frac{1}{2}$ cuartos, each of 34 maravedis de vellon = 1.021 new real = \$0.0509 U. S.

1 doblon de or (ideal) = $1\frac{1}{2}$ doblon de cambio, or doblon de plata antiguo, or old pistole of exchange = 5 pesos de cambio, or pesos de plata antiguos, or old piasters of exchange = 40 reales de plata antiguos, or old silver reals = $75\frac{5}{7}$ reales de vellon = 640 cuartos = 1360 maravedis de plata antiguos = 2560 maravedis de vellon = 76.88 new reals = \$3.833 U. S.

1 doblon de cambio, or doblon de plata antiguo, or old pistole of exchange = $\frac{2}{3}$ doblon de oro = 61.50 new reals = \$3.266 U. S.

The new duro, or Spanish piaster of 20 reals, is of less value by about $2\frac{1}{10}$ per cent. than the old.

The duro (peso duro, peso fuerte—hard silver piaster—of 8 reales plata Mexicana or 4 “peseta Mexicana”), especially the duro or piaster stamped with the Pillars of Hercules (columnati) or with two globes—called in England, North America, and the East and West Indies, the Spanish “dollar”—is, up to the present time, the actual world-coin.

Weights and Measures.

The metric standard was adopted 19th July, 1849.

The names receive Spanish inflections, as follows:—

Metro : área : litro : kilogramo, gramo.

Decámetro, hectómetro, kilómetro, miriámetro; hectárea; decálitro, hectólitro; decagramo, hectógramo.

Decímetro, centímetro, milímetro; centiárea; decílitro, centílitro; decígramo, centígramo, milígramo.

The United States equivalents of the metric measures and weights, have already been given.

FORMER AND LOCAL WEIGHTS AND MEASURES.

The measures and weights hitherto employed in all the Spanish provinces are more or less irregular and complicated. The most important are those of Castile. These are used in Cuba, and, in general, in those parts of America which were under the dominion of Spain, with, in some places, small differences; even in Madrid some peculiar measures are used, and in different parts of Castile are found different field measures.

CASTILE.

LEGAL CASTILIAN WEIGHTS AND MEASURES.

Measures of Length.

1 pié (foot) of 12 pulgadas (inches)	} = 0.2786 meter.
or 16 dedos (fingers)
1 vara (vara da Burgos) of 4	} = 0.8359 meter.
palmas or 3 pies . . .
1 braza de estado (fathom)	= 2 varas.

Field Measure.

1 fanega or fanegada = 576 square estadales or 9216 square varas = 64.3956 French ares = 1.5913 U. S. acre.

Grain Measure.

12 fanegas of 12 celemines = 1 cahiz	} = 55.501 liters.

Wine and Spirits.

8 cuartillos = 1 cuartilla.
4 cuartillas = 1 cantara, or arroba mayor (larger arroba), or arroba de vino = 13.133 liters = 4.2618 U. S. gallons.
16 cantaras = 1 moyo.

Oil Measure.

4 onzas	= 1 panilla or quarterone.
4 panillas	= 1 libra (pound).
25 libras	} = 1 arroba menor (smaller arroba), or arroba de aceite (oil arroba).
35 oil arrobas	} = 3.319 U. S. gallons.

WEIGHTS.

Commercial Weight.

8 ochavas	= 1 onza.
4 onzas	= 1 quarterone.
4 quarterones	} = 1 libra (pound).
25 libras	} = 1 arroba.
4 arrobas	} = 1 quintal or centner.
6 arrobas	} = 1 quintal macho (large centner).
20 quintals	} = 1 tonelada (ship-load).

Gold, Silver, and Coin Weight.

12 granos	= 1 tomino.
3 tomines	= 1 adarme.
2 adarmes	= 1 ochava.
8 ochavas	= 1 onza.
8 onzas	} = 1 marco of 4608 granos.

Earlier, the marco for gold was divided into 4800 granos, or 50 castellanos, each of 8 tomines, each of 12 granos, a division still in use in parts of the former Spanish America.

For assay of gold, the marco is divided into 24 quilates (carats) each of 4 granos, each of 8 parts; for silver, into 12 dineros, each of 24 granos.

Wrought gold is legally 20 quilates fine, but for small articles 18 quilates. Gold in Spain is seldom wrought 22 quilates fine. Wrought silver for use, as furniture, is legally 11 dineros, and for ornament, 9 dineros fine.

The onza of jevei weight contains 140 quilates, each of 4 granos silver weight = 27.9570 grammes;—the jewel-quat = 0.199693 gramme = 3.0817 U. S. grains troy.

Medicinal and Apothecary.

- 4 granos = 1 siliqua or caractere.
- 3 siliquas = 1 obolo.
- 2 obolos = 1 escrúpulo.
- 3 escrúpulos = 1 dracma.
- 8 dracmas = 1 onza.

- 12 onzas, or 1½ silver-marco { = 1 libra . = 6912 granos.
- { = 3 commercial libra.
- { = 845.06975 gramme.
- { = 5325.24 U. S. troy grains.

ARAGON — SARAGOSSA.

Since 1856, the metric measures are legal and used for customs, but for trade the following measures are still used.

Length.

Vara = 0.772 meter = 0.92355 Castilian vara = 30.3937 U. S. inches.

Field Measure.

1 cuartel de 4 almudes = 400 Aragonia square varas = 2.3339 French ares = 0.05890 acre = 0.0370 Castilian fanega.

Grain Measure.

- 4 celemines or almudes = 1 cuartales.
- { = 1 fanega.
- { = 22.42 liters.
- 3 cuartales { = 0.404 Castilian fanega.
- { = 0.6362 U. S. bushel.
- 8 fanegas { = 1 cahiz.
- { = 5.0897 U. S. bushels.

Wine Measure.

- 1 cántaro { = 9.91 liters.
- { = 2.65 U. S. gallons.
- 16 cántaras = 0.6143 Castilian cantaro.
- = 1 metro or carga.

Distilled Spirits.

- 36 libra { = 1 arroba . . . = 13.33 liters.
- { = 3.522 U. S. gallons.
- { = 0.82626 Castilian wine cantaro.

Oil Measure.

1 arroba de 1½ arrobeta or 36 libras = 13.93 liters = 1.1088 Castilian oil arroba = 3.680 U. S. gallons.

The Aragon oil arroba as weight = 36 Aragon libras = 27.386 Castilian libras = 12.60 kilogrammes = 27.78.

WEIGHTS.

Gold, Silver, and Medicinal.

8 onzas = 1 marco.

- 1½ marcos { = 1 libra (pound).
- { = 350 grammes.
- { = 0.7716 U. S. lb. avoirdupois.
- { = 0.7607 Castilian libra.
- 36 libras = 1 arroba.
- 4 arrobas = 1 quintal = 144 libras.
- 3 quintals = 1 carga.

CATALONIA — BARCELONA.

The new Spanish (or metric) standards are rapidly superseding the old weights and measures.

OLD CATALONIAN MEASURES.

Length.

- 4 cuartos = 1 palmo.
- 8 palmos = 1 cana (ell) . { = 1.85868 Castilian varas.
- { = 1.52 meter.
- { = 1.6973 U. S. yard.

Land Measure.

- 3464 Castilian square varas = 1 cuartera.
- 2 cuarteras = 1 majada { = 48.3 French ares.
- { = 1.19 U. S. acre.
- In Lerida, 6552 Castilian square-varas = 1 jornal (day's work) of 12 porcas.—In Tarragona, 3346 Castilian square-varas = 1 jornal.

Grain Measure.

- 4 picotins = 1 cortane or cuartan.
- 12 cortanes or cuartans = 1 cuartera.
- 4 cuarteras = 1 salma or tonelada.
- 2½ cuarteras = 1 carga.
- The cuartera = 71 liters = 1.2956 Castilian fanega = 2.015 U. S. bushels.

Wine and Distilled Spirits.

The carga of 4 barilons = 120.56 liters = 33.04 U. S. gallons = 7.4710 Castilian cantaras.
The tonelada = 2 pipes, or 6 bariles, or 8 cargas.
In some Catalonian markets spirits are sold by weight.

Oil.

- 4 cuarteras = 1 cuart.
- 4 cuarts = 1 cortan = 4.12 liters = 1.088 U. S. gallon.
- As weight the cortan = from 9 to 9½ Catalonian libras.
- 7½ cortanes = 1 barralon.
- 2 barralons = 1 barral.
- 2 barrals = 1 carga.

Commercial Weight.

- 576 granos = 1 onza.
- 8 onzas = 1 marco.
- 1½ marcos = 1 libra . . . { = 0.87148 Castilian libra.
- { = 401.00 grammes.
- { = 0.8841 U. S. lb. avdp.

The sack of cocoa contains 100, the sack of meal 200, and the box of sugar from 16 to 18 libras.

NAVARRRE — PAMPLONA.

Besides the legal metric standard, the following weights and measures are in use:—

Length.

The vara = 0.785 meter = 0.939 Castilian vara = 30.9 U. S. inches.

Square Measure.

1 robada = 1458 local square varas = 8.98 ares = 0.1395 Castilian fanegada = 0.222 U. S. acre.

Grain.

1 robo = 16 almudas = 0.5068 Castilian fanega = 28.13 liters = 0.7983 U. S. bushel.

Liquids.

1 cántaro = 16 pintas each of 4 cuartillos = 0.72956 Castilian cántara = 11.77 liters = 3.109 U. S. gallons.

Oil.

1 libra de aceite (oil pound) = 4 cuarterones = 0.41 litre = 0.816 Castilian libra = 0.108 U. S. gallon.

Weight.

Divided like the Castilian. The libra (pound) = 372 grammes = 0.8201 U. S. lb. avdp. = 0.8085 Castil. libra.

VALENCIA — VALENCIA AND ALICANT.

MEASURES.

Length.

1 vara (or ell) = 3 piés (feet) or 4 palmos = 0.906 meter = 1.0838 Castilian vara = 0.9008 U. S. yard.
The pie of 4 palmos menores (small palmos) = 0.302 meter = 0.9008 U. S. foot.
9 (large) palmos or 2½ varas = 1 braza, or braza real.
20 brazas = 1 cuerda.
1 legua municipal = 7000 varas = 6342 meter = 3.9407 U. S. miles.

Land Measure.

36450 local square varas, or 200 square brazas = 1 (field) fanega or fanegada.
6 (field) fanegas or fanegadas = 1 cahizada.
6 cahizadas = 1 yagada = 2.992 hectares = 7.393 U. S. acres.
The fanegada = 0.12906 Castilian field-fanega.

Grain Measure.

1 cáhiz of 12 barchillas = 201 liters = 5.70 U. S. bushels = 3.6216 Castilian fanegas.
In practice, they reckon 20 cahices of Valencia = 75 cuarteras of Barcelona.

Wine, and Spirits, and Vinegar.

1 cántaro of 16 mitjetas = 10.77 liters = 0.66758 Castilian cántaro = 2.845 U. S. gallons. — 7 cántaros = 1 Indian barrel. — 42 cantaros = 1 pipe.

Oil Measure.

Oil is sold by weight — by the light arroba of 30 libras.
As volume, this arroba { = 11.93 liters.
 { = 3.152 U. S. gallons.

WEIGHTS.

Commercial Weight.

12 onzas = 1 marco.
1½ marco = 1 libreta (libra sutil, libra menor, or small pound) = 355 grammes = 0.78264 U. S. lb. avdp. = 0.771583 Castilian libra (pound).
In practice 31 Valencia libras = 24 Castilian libras.
The arroba and quintal differ according to the war; but 4 arrobas always = 1 quintal.
Commonly, the heavy arroba (arroba grossa) = 36 libretas; the light arroba (arroba or arroba sutil) = 30 libretas; and the arroba of meal = 32 libretas.

360 libretas, or 10 heavy arrobas . . . = 1 carga.
The libra, for small fresh fish . . . = 1½ libreta.
The heavy libra, for leather, skins, and salt fish } = 1½ libreta.
The libra for meat = 3 libretas.

Gold and Silver

Are sold by the above-mentioned marco of 236⅔ grammes = 1.02878 Castilian marco. = In practice 31 Valencian marcos = 32 Castilian marcos.

Apothecaries' Weight.

As in Madrid.

BALEARIC ISLANDS.

BELONGING TO SPAIN — MAJORCA, MINORCA, IVIÇA (IVIZA), AND FORMENTERA.

MAJORCA — PALMA.

Measures of Length.

1 cana = 3 palmos = 32 cuartillos = 1.871 Castilian vara = 1.564 meter = 61.57 U. S. inches.
1 cana destre Mallorquin (Majoréa) = 15.124 Castilian piés = 4.214 meter = 4.606 U. S. yards.
1 legua (mile) = 8.282 Castilian varas.

Field Measure.

1 destre superficial = 25.411 Castilian square varas.
1 cuarterada = 400 square destres = 1.10804 Castilian fanegada = 71.0812 ares = 1.755 U. S. acre.

Grain Measure.

1 cuartera = 6 barcellas = 36 almudes = 70.84 liters = 1.2674 Castilian fanega = 1.996 U. S. bushel.

Salt.

In this province sold by —
The modin = 1 mondino of Genoa = 9.8248 hectoliters = 26.461 U. S. bushels.
1½ modin = 1 last of salt.

Liquid Measure.

1 cuartin or cortin = 6½ cuartes or cuarteras = 27 cuartas = 20.28 liters = 5.357 U. S. gallons.
1 cuarta = 0.04885 Castilian cuartera = 0.78 liter.
1 carga = 4 cuartines.

Brandy and other distilled Spirits.

By weight: —
1 libra = 0.41 litre = 0.0254 Castilian cantara = 0.108 U. S. gallon.

Oil.

4 cuartanes or cortanes = 16.58 liters = 1.319756 Castilian oil arroba = 4.380 U. S. gallons.
1 odre = 12 cuartanes = 3 mesuras.
1 pipa = 108 cuartanes or 972 libras of Majorca.

Weight.

1 libra (or pound of Palma) of 12 onzas = 0.8846 Castilian libras = 407 grammes = 6280.9 U. S. troy grains.
25 libras = 1 arroba.
4 arrobas = 1 quintal.

MINORCA — MAHON.

Measures of Length.

The canna (ell) of Mahon (of 8 palmos each of 4 cuartillos) = 1.604 meter = 1.919 Castilian vara = 63.15 U. S. inches.

Grain Measure.

The cuartera of 6 barrillas, each of 6 almudes = 74.406 liters = 1.3406 Castilian fanega = 2.111 U. S. bushels.

Liquid Measure.

The gerra or jarra (pitcher) of 2 cuarteras = 12.063 liters = 0.7477 Castilian cántara = 3.187 U. S. gallons.

Commercial Weight,

The same as in Barcelona; but in Minorca they also have a larger pound, the libra major which = 3 common libras.

VIÇA (IVIZA) AND FORMENTERA.

Weights and Measures the same as in Majorca.

CANARY ISLANDS.

(Principal Commercial City—SANTA CRUZ DE TENERIFFE).

The weights and measures, originally the same as the Spanish-Castilian, have in progress of time in the Canary Islands deviated somewhat from these standards.

Measures of Length.

1 vara of 3 pies (feet) = 0.842 meter = 33.15 U. S. inches = 1.00729 true Castilian vara. In practice 11 local varas = 10 U. S. yards.

Measures of Surface.

1600 brazas = 1 fanegado = 7511 $\frac{1}{2}$ Castilian square-varas = 0.8150 Castilian field-fanega = 52.4829 French ares = 1.297 U. S. acre.

Grain Measure.

4 quartillos = 1 almude.
12 almudes = 1 fanega.

The fanega of Santa Cruz de Tenerife = 62.66 liters = 1.129 Castilian fanega = 1.777 U. S. bushel.

Wheat is sold by stricken measure; all other grains and salt by heaped. In practice 4 $\frac{1}{2}$ stricken fanegas (fanegas rayas) of Santa Cruz = 8 U. S. bushels—that is, 1 stricken fanega = 1 $\frac{1}{2}$ U. S. bushel—also 1 heaped fanega = 2 $\frac{1}{2}$ U. S. bushels = 88 liters.

The fanega of Ciudad Real de las Palmas = 66 liters = 18 $\frac{3}{4}$ U. S. bushels.

The fanega for customs = 4.975 liters = 1.412 U. S. bushel.

Weight

Is the Spanish-Castilian.—Some commodities are sold by the libra doble (double pound) of 32 onzas.

CUBA.

(Principal Commercial City—HAVANA.)

Measures of Length.

The measures of length here—as also in Mexico, Peru, Chili, Montevideo, Curaçoa—are about 1 $\frac{1}{2}$ per cent. greater than the Spanish-Castilian; the divisions are the same as the Castilian. Accordingly—

1 vara Cubana (of 3 pies) = 33 $\frac{3}{4}$ U. S. inches = 0.8477 meter.

In practice, 108 varas = 100 U. S. yards = 160 Hamburg ells; and 81 varas = 100 Brabant ells.

2 $\frac{1}{2}$ varas (ells) or 72 pies (feet) = 1 cordel.

Measures of Surface.

In Cuba, as also in the former Spanish-American Colonies, the Spanish-Castilian measures, based on the greater units of length, are used.

1 cavalleria of 324 square cordeles (18 cordeles long and 18 broad) = 186624 square varas = 20 $\frac{1}{2}$ land-fanegas = 13.41 hectares = 33.13 U. S. acres.

Grain Measure.

1 fanega = 2 fanegas of Cadiz = 110.66 liters = 3.110 U. S. bushels. As weight, the fanega is taken = 200 old Spanish libras.

Liquid Measure.

Same as the Castilian; but 1 cántara or arroba = about 4.01 U. S. gallons.

For wholesale in original packages, 12 arrobas (weight) = 1 bocoya.

Weight.

Same as the Castilian; but in practice, 1 quintal (of 4 arrobas or 100 libras) = 101 $\frac{1}{2}$ U. S. lbs. avdp. = 46 kilogrammes. (The same in Mexico.)

Sugar is commonly sold by the English (or U. S.) hundredweight (of 112 pounds avoirdupois), free on board; stone-coal by the English (U. S.) ton.

PHILIPPINE or MANILA ISLANDS.

(Principal Commercial City—MANILA.)

Weights and measures legally the same as the Spanish-Castilian; but in use are, the U. S. yard, the U. S. wine gallon, and for weight the (originally Chinese) picol or pecul of 100 catties each of 16 taels. This pecul = 5 $\frac{1}{2}$ Spanish arrobas or 187 $\frac{1}{2}$ Spanish libras = 63.2685 kilogrammes = 139.48 U. S. lbs. avdp.

The quintal for wax (the U. S. hundredweight of 112 lbs. avdp.) = 110 Spanish libras.

The tonelada is the U. S. ton of 2240 U. S. lbs. avdp. For small weights they use the Mexican piaster of 0.9395 Spanish onza, but which is considered = 1 Spanish onza; so that 16 piasters = 1 Spanish libra (pound).

- 8 such piasters or onzas = 1 marco.
- 9 such piasters or onzas { = 1 punto (gold and silver thread).
- 10 such piasters or onzas = 1 gold-weight tael.
- 11 such piasters or onzas = 1 silk tael.
- 22 such piasters or onzas { = 1 commercial-weight caty.

Rice and Grain.—25 gantas = caban or cavan = 5998 U. S. cubic inches = 93.28 liters = 1.7935 Castilian fanega.

The caban of rice weighs from 96 to 135 U. S. lbs. avdp. A caban of common cargo-rice for China weighs from 126 to 128 Castilian libra (pounds).

The corgo (for manufactures) = 20 pieces.

SWEDEN and NORWAY.

1. SWEDEN.

(Chief Commercial City—STOCKHOLM.)

Money.

100 öre { = 1 riksdaler riksd-mynt (royal coin).
= $0.2756 U. S. gold.

Since January 1, 1856, the riksdaler riksd-mynt (customary abbreviation R dr. R mt.) is the legal unit of account, and since January 1, 1858, it is also the standard of exchange. From 1845 to 1855 this unit was legally known simply as riks-daler, and from 1830 to 1845, as riks-daler riksgald (royal-debt). Prior to 1830, it was paper-money, riks-daler riksgald-sedlar (royal-debt-notes), current at one fourth of the value of the riks-daler silfver.

The chief money in circulation in Sweden prior to 1858 was a state-paper-money known as banco-sedlar (bank-notes) or banco, being notes of the Royal Bank of Stockholm.

1 riks-daler silfver = $\frac{1}{2}$ riks-daler banco = $\frac{1}{4}$ riks-daler riksgald, or (the existing standard) riks-daler riksmynt = \$1.1023 U. S. gold.

Since the 1st of January, 1856, the riks-daler riksmynt is divided into 100 öre: prior to this date, the riks-daler of every kind was divided into 48 skillingar (shillings). By the law of 1845 the skilling was divided into 4 styfver; prior to that time into 12 runestycken (round pieces).

COINS.

Gold, according to the law of 9th May, 1835:—

Ducat of standard weight and fineness	=	$2.2601
Double ducat of standard weight and fineness	=	$4.5202
Quadruple ducat of standard weight and fineness	=	$9.0405
Ducat of the years 1838 and 1839, according to trials—average	=	$2.2564

Silver, according to the law of 3d February, 1855:—

Pieces of 0.1, $\frac{1}{2}$, $\frac{1}{4}$, 1, 2, and 4 riks-daler riksmynt, of 10, 25, 50, 100, 200, and 400 öre respectively.

Copper, according to the law of 3d February, 1855:—

Pieces of $\frac{1}{2}$, 1, 2, and 5 öre.

Weights and Measures.

By the law of 31st January, 1855, a new and decimal system of weights and measures was adopted, based on the standard units of the hitherto established system. The new system was to be compulsory from and after the 1st of January, 1863—permissive until that date (a period of 8 years). In this system the former Swedish nomenclature was preserved, so far as possible. For land measure and for the collection of taxes, the new square and grain measures have been in force from January 1, 1859.

MEASURES OF LENGTH.

New System.

10 linie	= 1 tum (inch)	= 1.169 U. S. inch.
10 tum	= 1 fot (foot)	{ = 0.9741 U. S. foot.
		{ = 0.29690 meter.
10 fot	= 1 stång (rod)	= 9.741 U. S. feet.
10 stång	= 1 ref (chain)	= 97.41 U. S. feet.
360 ref, or }	= 1 mil (mile)	{ = 10.6884 kilometers.
36000 fot }		{ = 6.642 U. S. miles.

The fot and mil under the new system are the same as under the old.

Former System.

12 verktrum (working inches)	= 1 fot.
2 fot	= 1 alm (ell).
6 fot, or 3 alnar	= 1 famn (fathom).

SQUARE MEASURE.

New.

The new measures of surface are the squares of the new measures of length.

100 square linie	= 1 square tum.
100 square tum	= 1 square fot.

100 square fot	= 1 square stång.
	{ = 1 square ref (quadratref), or square chain.
100 square stång	{ = 8.81502 French ares.
	{ = 0.2178 U. S. acre.
	{ = $\frac{1}{4}$ former kappland.

Former.

1000 square fot	= 1 kannland.
28 kannland, or	} = 1 spannland.
16 kappland
	} = 1 geometrical tunnland.
2 spannland, or
56000 square fot	{ = 49.3641 French ares.
	{ = 1.2405 U. S. acre.

MEASURES OF VOLUME.

New System: Dry and Liquid.

The cubes of the new measures of length.

1000 cubic linie	= 1 cubic tum.
	{ = 1 cubic fot.
	{ = 28.17188 liters.
1000 cubic tum, or	} = 0.74268 U. S. bushel.
10 kannor
	} = 6.9139 U. S. gallons.
	{ = $\frac{1}{6}$ former kappar.
	{ = $\frac{1}{6}$ former liquid åm.

The new kanna of 0.1 cubic fot is the same as the former.

Former System.

For Grain, Malt, Salt, Stone, Coal, and Lime

1 $\frac{1}{2}$ kannor (of liquid measure)	= 1 kappä.
4 kappar	= 1 fjerdingar.
4 fjerdingar	= 1 spann.
	{ = 1 tonna = 5.03 cubic fot
2 spann	{ = 146.5625 liters.
	{ = 4.1592 U. S. bushels.

Some commodities are sold by struck measure, others by heaped. The former measure is called löst mäl (loose measure), the latter fast mäl (firm measure).—In trade, by tonna is understood a tonna fast-mäl.

A tonna fast-mäl of wheat, rye, barley, oats, peas, or coal = 36 kappar; of malt = 38 kappar; and of salt and burned lime = 34 kappar.

The grain tonna fast-mäl of 36 kappar = 6.3 cubic fot = 1.6488 hectoliter = 4.6785 U. S. bushels.

The last of stone-coal holds 12 tonnar fast-mäl or 432 kappar.

For Flour, Meal, Edible Roots, Salt-Meat, Fish (except fresh herrings), Fish Oil, Tar, Pitch, Rosin, Ochre, etc.

	{ = 1 tonna.
48 kannor	{ = 4.8 cubic feet.
	{ = 125.625 liters.
	{ = 3.5646 U. S. bushels.

For Tar and Pitch.

The tonna is 1 stop or $\frac{1}{2}$ kanna less than the above.

For Fresh Herring.

80 kannor = 1 tonna.

For Charcoal.

12 grain-tonna heaped measure (fast-mäl) } = 1 korb. or 756 kannor }

For Wood for Fuel.

The famn is 4 alnar (ells) high and 3 alnar broad; and the length of the wood $1\frac{1}{2}$ or $1\frac{1}{4}$ alnar.

For Liquids.

4 jungfrur (young woman)	= 1 quart.
4 quarter	= 1 stop.
2 stop	= 1 kanna = 0.1 cubic fot.
	= 2.617188 liters.
15 kannor	= 0.69139 U. S. gallon.
	= 1 ankare.
4 ankare or 60 kannor	= 1 åm or fot.
	= 157.0318 liters.
6 åm	= 41.483 U. S. gallons.
	= 1 foder.

WEIGHTS.

New System.

100 korn (grains)	= 1 ort.
	= 1 pund.
	= 0.42501 kilogramme.
100 ort	= 6558.8 U. S. grains troy.
	= 0.93697 U. S. lb. avdp.
	= 1.1387 U. S. lb. troy.
100 pund	= 1 centner.
	= 1 nyläst.
100 centner	= 4.183 U. S. long tons of 2240 lbs. avdp. each.

The pund is the former skalpund (balance-pound) of the Swedish victualie-vigt (produce-weight); and is equal to $\frac{1}{51.522}$ of the weight of a cubic foot of distilled water at the temperature of 50 degrees centigrade or $59\frac{7}{9}$ Fahrenheit.

Medicinal Weight,

(Only for prescriptions), remains for the present unchanged.

FORMER SYSTEM OF WEIGHTS.

I. Produce Weight (Victualie-vigt).

For commerce generally, and likewise for gold, silver, and coins.

The skålpund or mark (victualie-vigt) of 32 lod, each of 4 quintin, or 8348 Swedish ass = 425.010 grammes = 6558.8 U. S. grains troy = 0.93697 U. S. lb. avoirdupois.

The skeppund = 20 lispund, each of 20 skålpund, or 400 skålpund.

The centner = 100 skålpund, but for wool 120.

II. Coarse-Metal Weight.

1. Stapelstads vigt (staple or market-town weight):—
 - 1 mark = $\frac{4}{5}$ skålpund victualie-vigt.
 - 1 skeppund = 320 skålpund victualie-vigt.
 - 1 skeppläst = 18 skeppund.
2. Uppstads-vigt (provincial-town weight):—
 - 1 mark = 0.842 skålpund victualie-vigt.
 - 1 skeppund = 421 marks stapelstads vigt.
3. Bergs-vigt (miner's-weight):—
 - 1 mark = 0.834 skålpund victualie-vigt.
 - 1 skeppund = 442 marks stapel-stads-vigt.
4. Tackjerns-vigt (iron-ore weight):—
 - 1 mark = 0.8955 skålpund victualie-vigt.
 - 1 skeppund = 520 marks bergs-vigt.
5. Råkoppars-vigt (copper-ore weight).
 - 1 mark = 7853 Swedish ass = 0.887545 skålpund victualie-vigt.

III. Medicinal Weights.

Divided as in Germany:—

The libra or skålpund {	= 7416 Swedish ass.
	= 0.887545 skålpund victualie-vigt .
	= 0.954407 U. S. lb. troy.
	= 356.2245 grammes.

2. NORWAY.

(Chief Commercial Cities — CHRISTIANIA AND DRAMMEN.)

Money.

24 skillinger	= 1 ort or mark.
5 ort or 120 skillinger {	= 1 specie or specie-daler (spd).
	= $1.0929 U. S. gold.

The standard is silver, and $9\frac{1}{2}$ specie-daler may be coined from the Cologne mark of fine silver.

COINS.

Copper: $\frac{1}{2}$, 1, and 2 skilling pieces.
 Silver: 4, 12, 24, 60, and 120 skilling-pieces, or $\frac{1}{15}$, $\frac{1}{10}$, $\frac{1}{5}$, $\frac{1}{2}$, and 1 specie-daler pieces.
 No gold coined.

Weights and Measures.

The weights and measures are those of the system formerly in force in Denmark. The late modifications adopted by Denmark have not been followed by Norway.

MEASURES OF LENGTH.

12 linier	= 1 tomme or tom (inch).
	= 1 fod (foot).
12 tommer	= 0.31376 meter.
	= 12.853 U. S. inches.
2 foder (feet)	= 1 aln (ell), the unit of the system.
3 alen	= 1 favn (fathom).
5 alen	= 1 rode (perch).
18000 alen, or	} = 1 mil (mile).
36000 foder
15000 alen, or	} = 1 grennül (boundary mile).
30000 foder

GRAIN MEASURE.

The tönde of 4 fierding (fourths) each of 2 skepper, each of 4 fierdingkar, each of 2 ottingkar = 144 potter (of liquid measure) = 139 liters = $4\frac{1}{2}$ cubic foder (feet) = 3.94 U. S. bushels.

LIQUID MEASURE.

4 poegel {	= 1 pot, or potte = $\frac{1}{3}$ of a cubic fod (foot).
	= 54 cubic tommer (inches).
	= 0.2550 U. S. gallon.
	= 0.96529 liter.
2 potter	= 1 kande = 0.5100 U. S. gallon.
40 potter	= 1 anker = 10.200 U. S. gallons.
4 anker	= 1 åm = 40.800 U. S. gallons.
3 anker	= 1 { fisk-tönde } = 30.600 U. S. gallons.
	{ or tar-tönde }
2 fisk-tönde = 1 oxhoved	= 61.200 U. S. gallons.

WEIGHTS.

16 gran (grains)	= 1 es.
16 es	= 1 ort.
4 ort	= 1 quintin.
4 quintin	= 1 lod.
16 lod	= 1 mark.

2 mark	{	= 1 pund.
		= 498.110 grammes.
		= 7686.9 U. S. grains troy.
		= 1.08813 U. S. lb. avdp.
12 pund	{	= 1 bismerspund (steelyard
		pund).
16 pund	{	= 1 lispund (stone).
36 pund or 3 bismerspund	=	1 vog.
320 pund or 20 lispund .	=	1 skippund.

The pund of commerce is the weight in vacuo of $\frac{1}{62}$ of a Norwegian cubic foot (fod) of distilled water, at 4° centigrade or 39 $\frac{1}{5}$ ° Fahrenheit.

Apothecaries' Weight.

The pund of 12 unzer, each of 8 drachmes, each of 3 scrupels, each of 20 gran = 357.85 grammes = 5522.5 U. S. grains troy. The law of the 12th of May, 1866, prescribes the adoption in medical regulations of the French metrical decimal.

SWITZERLAND.

(Principal Commercial Cities—GENEVA, BERNE, AND ZURICH.)

Money.

100 rappen or centimes = 1 franc = $0.193 U. S. gold.

Geneva adopted the French silver standard for money in 1839, and the same standard was in full force throughout Switzerland from the 1st September, 1852, until the quadripartite monetary convention of the 23d of December, 1865.

Since the commencement of the year 1866, in accordance with the terms of this convention, the entire double standard system of the French has been legally in force.

Switzerland has not yet established a gold coinage of her own, but, by virtue of the Monetary Convention of 1865, the gold coins of France, Belgium, and Italy are in general circulation at their full standard values.

Prior to the introduction, in 1850-52, of the French silver standard, the old Swiss francs (schweizer franken, or livres de Suisse) of 100 rappen each (or 10 batzen each of 10 rappen), had been the chief money of circulation and account in Switzerland.

147.00 of the French silver francs were equivalent in intrinsic value to 100 of the old Swiss franc or livre. By the monetary law of the 13th of December, 1850, the latter were made redeemable in the former, at the rate of 145.97 of the new for 100 of the old.

Weights and Measures.

Since the 31st of December, 1856, and in accordance with the law of the 23d of March, 1851, the following system of weights and measures is in force in all the Cantons of Switzerland, superseding the former multiplicity of systems.

MEASURES OF LENGTH.

New System.

10 traits or striche	=	1 ligne or linie.
10 lignes or linien	=	1 ponce or zoll.
	{	= 1 pied or fuss.
		= 0.3 meter.
10 ponces or zoll	{	= 11.8112 U. S. inches.
		= 1 aune or stab.
2 peds or fuss	=	1 brache, demi-aune, or elle.
2 braches or ellen	=	1 aune or stab.
6 peds or fuss	=	1 toise or klafter.
10 peds or fuss	=	1 perche or rnth.
	{	= 1 lieue thiersaire or wegstunde.
16000 peds or fuss	=	4800 meters.
	=	2.9826 U. S. miles.

23.148148 lieue or wegstunden = 1 average degree of the earth's meridian.

MEASURES OF SURFACE.

40000 square peds or fuss	{	= 1 arpent or juchart
		= 36 French ares.
		= 0.8896 U. S. acre.

GRAIN MEASURE.

4 vierling (each of 4 mäslein = 1 emine or immi.	{	= 1 quateron (or boisseau) or viertel
		(or sester).
		= 1 sester of Baden.
10 'emines or immi	{	= $\frac{5}{8}$ cubic pied or fuss.
		= 15 liters.
		= 0.4257 U. S. bushel.

The quateron or viertel equals the volume of 30 livres or pfund of distilled water weighed in vacuo at 4° centigrade (39° 2 Fahrenheit).

10 quaterons (vierteln) = 1 sack or malter.

LIQUID MEASURE.

	{	= 1 pot or maass.
		= 1 maass of Baden.
4 schoppen	{	= $\frac{1}{8}$ cubic pied or fuss.
		= $\frac{1}{4}$ liter.
		= 0.39626 U. S. wine gallon.
25 pots or maass	{	= 1 setier, brente or eimer.
100 pots or maass	{	= 1 muid, saum, or ohm.
or		= 1 ohm of Baden.
4 setiers or eimer	{	= 150 liters.
		= 39.626 U. S. wine gallons.

WEIGHTS.

2 loth	=	1 once or unze.
	{	= 1 livre or pfund.
		= $\frac{1}{2}$ kilogramme.
16 onces or unzen	{	= 1.10231 U. S. lb. avdp.
		= 7716.174 U. S. grains troy.
100 livres or pfunds	=	1 quintal or centner.

For scientific purposes, and for the weighing of gold, silver, and coins, the livre or pund is divided into 500 grammes.

Medicinal Weight.

The former medicinal livre or pfund is used solely for the prescription and sale of medicines.

The new medicinal	{	= $\frac{3}{4}$ of the new commercial livre or livre or pfund		pfund.
	=	375 grammes.
	=	1 Netherlands medicinal pond.
	=	5787.181 U. S. grains troy.

Like the former medicinal livre or pfund, it is divided into 12 onces or unzen, each of 8 drachmes or drachmen, each of 3 scrupules or scrupel, each of 20 grains or gran, or into 5760 gran.

TURKEY.

(Chief Commercial Cities—CONSTANTINOPLE AND SMYRNA.)

Money.

3 aspers	=	{ 1 parâ, also called actshe, or
		(in Egypt) fadda.
40 parâ, or	=	1 Turkish piaster (Pr.).
120 aspers }	=	1 Turkish piaster (Pr.).
100 piasters	=	1 medjidie, or lira Turca (£).

In accounts, the piaster is sometimes divided into 100 parts, also called aspers or minas.

The Turkish piaster is called in Arabic, gersh (pl. grush). The silver piece of one piaster, bir-grush; the ten-piaster piece, onlik; and the five-piaster piece, beshlik.

The value of the piaster of gold of the Turkish legal standard is \$0.04393 U. S. gold. The value of the silver piaster, legal standard, assuming as hitherto the ratio of value of gold to silver, to be 15 $\frac{3}{4}$ to 1, is \$0.04312. Therefore \$1 U. S. gold = 22.76 legal Turkish piasters of gold coin = 23.19 Turkish silver piasters of the legal standard.

The following are sometimes used:—

A purse of silver (kis or keser) denotes 500 piasters.

A purse of gold (kitzè or chisè)—only for awards or presents made by the Sultan himself—is reckoned as 30,000 Turkish piasters.

By a juk, juik, or jux, is commonly understood 100,000 aspers, or 833 $\frac{1}{3}$ piasters; although sometimes denoting the sum of 12 purses of silver, or 6000 piasters.

COINS (since 1844 and 1845).

In Gold.

- (1.) Jüsilik (piece of 100) or lira Turca (₤); also called sarrejüsilik (yellow-piece of 100) to distinguish it from vejas-jüsilik (white-piece of 100, a silver coin of 100 paras or 2 $\frac{1}{2}$ piasters); also called medjidie = 100 piasters = \$4.393 U. S. gold.
- (2.) Ellilik (piece of 50) = 50 piasters = $2.196 U. S. gold.
- (3.) Jirmibechlik (piece of 25) = 25 piasters = $1.098 U. S. gold.

In Silver.

- (4.) Jirmilik (piece of 20) also called vejas-jirmilik (white piece of 20), also guimuh = 20 piasters = $0.8624 U. S. gold.
- (5.) Onlik (piece of 10), also called vejas-onlik = 10 piasters = $0.4312.
- (6.) Beshlik (piece of 5), also called vejas-beshlik = 5 piasters = $0.2156.
- (7.) İkilik (piece of 2), = 2 piasters = $0.08624.
- (8.) Hirk-parà (40-parà), or bir-gersh (1-piaster) = $0.04312.
- (9.) Jirmilik (piece of 20): the same name as under No. (4), here denoting a 20-parà piece, there a 20-piaster piece; also called jirmi-parà (20 parà); also jarimlik (half-piece) = $\frac{1}{2}$ piaster = \$0.02156.

In Copper or Bronze.

Pieces of 1 parà, and 5, 10, 20, and 40 paràs. The piece of 40 paràs (1 piaster) is not received by the government, and by business men only at a discount of from 20 to 25 per cent.

These new coins were all called, by their originator, "medjidie;" but this name is now given only to the gold piece of 100 piasters.

PAPER MONEY.

In European Turkey, paper money, called kaimeh (caimès), and consisting of notes of the "Ottoman Bank," an institution endowed by the government, is in general use. This paper-money was, in July, 1868, at a discount against silver of about 16 per cent.

SMYRNA

The chief seaport on the Levant, has the right to coin money. In November, 1852, it was here ordered that sales of merchandise should be concluded only in Turkish "beshlik" coins. Since 1850, bills of exchange are made payable only in beshlik coins, or in Imperial-Royal-thalers, that is, in the convention-specie-thalers of Austria, according to the daily prices-current. Payment in beshliks (5-piaster pieces) is said to be in "good money," while if made in specie-thaler according to the course of exchange, as well as in any other coins than beshlik, it is said to be in "inferior (abusive) money."

Weights and Measures.

MEASURES OF LENGTH.

There are three ell-measures:—

1. Pik (picco or draà) for foreign trade in general, and for domestic trade in woolen fabrics = 27 U. S. inches (or $\frac{3}{4}$ yard) = 0.6858 meter. In practice, they reckon the pik = 1 Brabant ell.
2. Endasè (for other tissues) = 25.7 U. S. inches = 0.6928 meter.
3. Halebi or arsheen = 29.8 U. S. inches = 0.7577 meter. The English or U. S. yard is also used for cotton goods. Many fabrics are also sold by the piece (as, for instance, American linen by the piece of 20 or 22 yards).

Itinerary.

The agash or farsang (parasang) of 3 berri = 5000 meters = 3.107 U. S. mile.
 22 $\frac{2}{3}$ agash = 1 average degree of the earth's meridian.
 84 $\frac{1}{2}$ Turkish sea-mile, or 25 Armenian farsang = 1 equatorial degree.

GRAIN MEASURE.

The legal kilò or killow { = 36.103 liters.
 { = 1.0245 U. S. bushel.

This kilò, known as the kilò of Constantinople, has been since the 17th of November, 1841, the legal unit for the measurement of grain, throughout the entire Turkish dominions.

The legal kilò of rye weighs from 21 to 22 oki.
 The legal kilò of wheat weighs 24 oki.
 The legal kilò of barley weighs 16 oki.
 The legal kilò of sesame weighs 17 oki.
 The legal kilò of flax and hemp seed weighs 20 oki.

This standard kilò has the following relations to the different provincial units:—

1 $\frac{1}{2}$ kilò (legal)	{ = 1 kilò of Smyrna (chief seaport of the Levant).
2 kilò (legal)	= 1 kilò of Burgos.
3 $\frac{3}{4}$ kilò (legal)	= 1 kilò of Salonica.
4 kilò (legal)	= 1 kilò of Varna.
6 kilò (legal)	= 1 kilò of Rushechuk.
8 kilò (legal)	{ = 1 kilò of Shumla, Silistria, and Tultcha.

Some authorities give 4 of these kilò = 1 kilo of Salonica. The kilo of Salonica (Macedonia) contains of wheat and maize from 85 to 90 oki-weight.

In Varna they also sell by the new kilò; in Cavala (Macedonia) by the new kilo; in Serres (Macedonia) both by the new and by a kilò equal to 2 of the new kilò.

In Albania grain is sold by the tagari of 20 oki-weight. Grain is also here sold by the kiasse; which—

In Duresso	= 25 oki-weight.
In Berat	= 35 oki-weight.
In Aviona	= 44 oki-weight.

In Prevesa (Albania) they use the raaj of 3 $\frac{1}{2}$ new kilò, reckoned = 1 $\frac{1}{2}$ staja of Venice or Trieste.

In Küstendül (Macedonia), the kutti of wheat contains by weight from 24 to 25 oki, and of oats from 17 to 18 oki weight.

In Sofia (Bulgaria) the tehenac, which for wheat contains by weight from 14 to 18 oki (according to quality), and for maize an average of 15 oki = $\frac{1}{6}$ of the kilo of Salonica. For oats, the banita of 20 oki is used.

In Thessaly for grain they use the lugek of 20 oki-weight; but flax-seed is sold by the eka of Constantinople or new oka.—In the Thessalian harbor of Volo, grain is also commonly sold by the new kilò.

LIQUID MEASURE.

Liquids are commonly sold by weight, and especially by the oka. In retail they use a measure corresponding to the weight oka.

In Constantinople, rum and other distilled spirits are disposed of at wholesale by the old English (or U. S.) wine gallon.

As a measure of volume the oka contains 1.2817 liter = 0.3386 U. S. gallon.

In Prevesa (in Albania), wine is sold by the Venetian barila; in Smyrna rum is sold by the old English (or U. S.) wine gallon, reckoned to contain 2½ oki.

Oils.

The alma, almond, or meter . . . = { 5.205 liters.
1⅓ U. S. gallon.

The alma will contain 8 oki-weight of oil or 12 oki weight of wine. The alma is also used for certain other liquids.

At wholesale, in Albania (i. e. in Prevesa and Janina), oil is sold by the 1000 heavy Venetian pounds; also by the canada of 10 litre each of 2½ oki; also in Prevesa, by the zaccale, reckoned to contain 6 heavy pounds of Venice; and in Avlona, by the stajo or star of Gallipoli, reckoned to contain by weight 13½ oki.

The zaccale above mentioned, is the old oil measure of the Ionian Island Santa Maura = 2/1 of the barile of Santa Maura, Corfu, and Paxo = 6/7 old English (or U. S.) wine gallon = 3.2445 liters.

The stajo of Gallipoli (above mentioned) = 1/10 of the old Neapolitan salma = 16.157 liters = 14.731 kilogrammes of oil by weight or 32.475 U. S. lbs. avoirdupois.

In Macedonia they sometimes also use the barile, which commonly passes for 50 oki by weight.

WEIGHTS.

64 grains . . . = 1 drachma or dram.
 { = 1 oka, or occa.
 { = 1280.9 grammes.
 400 drachmas { = 2.8239 U. S. lbs. avoirdupois.

 1898 to 1846 = $8.97
 Meias dobra of 6,400 reis, from 1822 to 1831, . . . = 8.74
 Meias dobra of 6,400 reis, from 1833 to 1838, . . . = 8.72
 Moêda d'ouro of 4,000 reis, of 1823 = 4.88
 João of 6,400 reis, of 1823 = 8.69

Old Issue of the former Portuguese-Brazilian Standard of Coin.

Dobra of 12,800 reis = $17.47
 Meia dobra, or Johannes (João) of 6400 reis = 8.73
 Moêda d'ouro of 4000 reis = 4.91

A compulsory paper currency is in circulation, of variable value. It is now (1868) depreciated about 83 per cent. below the specie standard. Gold is no longer coined.

Weights and Measures.

The use of the Weights and Measures of the Metric System has been rendered obligatory by a law which will be put in execution from the first of January, 1873. The old system is still in force, and is essentially the same as that of Portugal. The following as to Brazil may be specially noted.

MEASURES OF LENGTH.

10 pontos (points) = 1 linha (line).

For products of manufacture there are used the covado avantejado (good measure), and the vara (or 1.1 meter) of Portugal; as also the U. S. yard, the French meter, and the Parisian ell.

Practically, they reckon —

100 Parisian ells = 128 yards = 106 varas = 172 covados = 53 braça.

Or 8 covados = 5 varas = 6 yards.
 Or 20 yards = 27 covados.

For the purposes of revenue, they reckon —
 100 ells = 106 varas; or, 110 meters = 100 varas; or, 40 yards = 83½ varas.

GRAIN (AND SALT) MEASURE.

4 alqueires = 1 fanga = about 4½ U. S. bushels.
 15 fangas = 1 moio = about 67½ U. S. bushels.

The alqueire of Rio de Janeiro { = about 40 liters.
 { = 1½ U. S. bushel.

In practice, 1 alqueire of Rio de Janeiro is reckoned equal to 3 alqueires of Lisbon.

LIQUID MEASURE.

4 quartilhos = 1 medida { = 0.733 U. S. gallon.
 = 2.7-9 liters.
 180 medidas = 1 pipa { = 132 U. S. gallons.
 = 500 liters.

WEIGHTS.

Commercial.

1 grão (grain).
 24 grãos = 1 scrupule.
 3 scrupulos = 1 outava.
 8 outavas = 1 onça.
 4 onças = quarto.
 4 quartos { = 1 arratel (or pound) = 9216 grãos.
 = 459 grammes.
 = 70.83 U. S. troy grains = 1.0192 U.S. pound.
 32 arratels = 1 arroba.
 4 arrobas = 1 quintal.
 54 arrobas = 1 tonelada.

Mineral coal is sold by the tonelada of 70 arrobas (equivalent nearly to the United States ton of 2240 pounds avoirdupois).

Medicinal.

The medicinal arratel = $\frac{3}{4}$ of the commercial arratel.

Precious Stones.

Diamonds, emeralds, rubies, sapphires, and pearls are sold by the quilate (carat); topazes, by the outava.

1 onça = 8 outavas = 24 scrupulos = 72 quilates = 328 grãos
 8 onças = 1 marco { = $\frac{1}{2}$ commercial arratel.
 = 3541 $\frac{1}{2}$ U. S. troy grains.
 = 0.61489 U. S. troy pound.
 = 229 $\frac{1}{2}$ grammes.

MEXICO.

(Chief Commercial Cities—MEXICO, VERA CRUZ, and TAMPICO.)

Money.

According to a decree of the 27th of November, 1867, the weight, diameter, and fineness of the coins was fixed according to a metrico-decimal system, the intrinsic value of the former legal standards not being appreciably changed.

The monetary unit of the Mexican Republic is as heretofore the silver dollar, peso, or piaster.

100 cents { = 1 dollar or peso.
 = $1.056

On the assumption, as hitherto, that the value of gold is 15 $\frac{3}{4}$ times that of silver.

The peso or dollar was formerly divided into 8 reales, each of 4 cuartillos or 12 granos.

The new silver coins are pieces of 1 dollar, of 50 cents, of 25 cents, of 10 cents, and of 5 cents. The new gold coins are pieces of 20, 10, 5, and 2 $\frac{1}{2}$ pesos or dollars, and of 1 peso or dollar.

The legal fineness of the silver coins is 902 $\frac{1}{2}$ thousandths (or 10 dineros, 20 granos) of pure silver to 97 $\frac{3}{4}$ thousandths (or 1 dinero, 4 granos) of alloy. The legal fineness of the gold coins is 875 thousandths (or 21 quilates or carats) of pure gold to 125 thousandths (or 3 quilates or carats) of alloy.

The weight of the silver peso or dollar is 27.073 grammes, and that of the other silver coins is in proportion; the value of the peso or dollar in standard silver coins consequently being $1.056 in U. S. standard gold coins.

The legal weight of the gold coin of 20 pesos or dollars is 33.841 grammes, and that of other gold coins is in proportion, the value of the gold coin of 20 pesos or dollars consequently being $19.680 U. S. gold.

The diameter of the dollar of silver is fixed at 37 millimeters, that of the piece of 5 cents at 14 millimeters. The diameters of the gold pieces of 20 dollars, 10 dollars, 5 dollars, and 2 $\frac{1}{2}$ dollars, are respectively 34, 27, 22, and 18 millimeters. The diameter of the cent, if of copper, is 25 millimeters, if of a special alloy, 18 millimeters.

The terms "dineros," "quilates," and "granos," heretofore used to designate the purity of the coins, are abolished, and the fineness is expressed in thousandths or tenths of thousandths.

The fineness of each piece of money, when of silver or gold, is to be clearly stamped upon it.

FORMER COINS.

Gold.—The ounce of gold (onza de oro) or doublon (doublon) of 8 escudos (crowns) of gold or 16 pesos; and its half, quarter, eighth, and sixteenth. The doublon when of the legal standard = $15.74 U. S. gold; according to trials at the U. S. mint at Philadelphia it = $15.53 U. S. gold.

Silver.—The silver coins are the peso or dollar, the $\frac{1}{2}$ peso, the $\frac{1}{4}$ peso or peseta de columnas, the $\frac{1}{8}$ peso or real of Mexican plate, and the $\frac{1}{16}$ real. The peso when of standard weight and fineness = \$1.056 U. S. gold (assuming the value of gold to be 15 $\frac{3}{4}$ times that of silver); and the other silver coins are in proportion.

The average value of the peso or dollar from the year 1843 to 1851, according to trials at the mint at Philadelphia, = $1.0488.

Copper.—The coins of copper are the cuartillo (or $\frac{1}{4}$ real) and the ochave or clavo (or $\frac{1}{8}$ real).

By the decree of the 28th of November, 1867, the circulation of the above-mentioned "former coins" are prohibited from and after the 15th day of September, 1868.

Weights and Measures.

The weights and measures are the same as the Spanish-Castilian prior to the adoption of the metric system in 1859, with the following modifications.

MEASURES OF LENGTH.

The vara is $\frac{1}{3}$ of one per cent. greater than the true Spanish-Castilian vara, and = 0.83695 meter = 0.9153 U. S. yard. In practice 100 U. S. yards = 109 $\frac{1}{2}$ Mexican varas. The road measure is the Spanish legua juridica of 3 millas or 5000 varas.

FIELD MEASURE.

50 square varas . . . = 1 estajo or almud.
 = 1 morgen.
 5000 square varas . . . { = 35.025 French ares.
 = 0.8654 U. S. acre.

The cavalleria is 1104 varas long, and 552 varas broad, and = 609.408 square varas = 42.688 French hectares = 105.48 acres.

The labor is 1000 varas long and as many broad, and = 1000000 square varas = 70.0487 hectares.

The sitio (sitio de Ganado-mayor) = 1 square league = 25000000 square varas = 25 labores = 1751.22 hectares = 6.762 U. S. square miles.

GRAIN MEASURE.

3 almueres, or almuerzas, or almudes = 1 cuartilla.
 4 cuartillas = faneга.
 = 1 carga.
 12 faneгas { = 18.900 U. S. bushels.

The United States (or old Winchester) bushel is also used.

Flour is sold by the baril of 196 pounds, net weight.

LIQUID MEASURE.

Wine and spirits are sold in general by the baril (or cask) of 19 or 20 U. S. (or old wine) gallons.

The fasco = 5 U. S. pints.

Weight.

Commercial weight the same as in Cuba.

25 libras (pounds) = 1 arroba.

4 arrobas or 100 libras . $\left\{ \begin{array}{l} = 1 \text{ quintal.} \\ = 46 \text{ kilogrammes.} \\ = 101\frac{1}{2} \text{ U. S. lbs. avdp.} \end{array} \right.$

The tercio (for indigo and tobacco) = 150 libras.

The carga for tobacco is commonly 300 libras; for freight, from 300 to 425 libras.

The monton of ore, in the vicinity of the city of Mexico = 3200 libras; in Zacatecas, Fresnillo, etc., only 2000 libras.

TABLE

SHOWING, IN TERMS OF THE STANDARD GOLD COINAGE OF THE UNITED STATES
 (1), THE INTRINSIC VALUES OF THE PRINCIPAL GOLD AND SILVER COINS OF DIFFERENT FOREIGN COUNTRIES DUE TO THEIR LEGAL WEIGHT AND FINENESS;
 (2), THE INTRINSIC VALUES DUE TO THEIR ACTUAL AVERAGE WEIGHT AND FINENESS AS ASCERTAINED BY TRIAL AT MINTS OF THE UNITED STATES AND OF OTHER COUNTRIES; AND
 (3), THE RATES FIXED BY UNITED STATES LAW AT WHICH CERTAIN FOREIGN COINS OR CURRENCY SHALL BE RECEIVED IN PAYMENT OF CUSTOMS DUES.

PREPARED FOR THE UNITED STATES TREASURY DEPARTMENT BY

E. B. ELLIOTT.

In reducing the value of silver coins to the gold standard of the United States, the value of gold has been considered to be $15\frac{3}{4}$ times that of silver of the same weight and fineness — this rate being the average of those obtaining in the London market for the fourteen years, 1853-1866.

The values of silver coins derived from trials at the U. S. mint, as here given, are less by about 1.220 per cent. than the corresponding values published in the Official Tables; the latter values having been reduced to a gold basis on the assumption that the market price of gold is 15.1875 times that of silver, instead of $15\frac{3}{4}$ times, as here employed.

GERMANY.

Zollverein (Customs' Union), an important Commercial Union originating in 1828; embracing in 1833 all the German States, except Austria, Liechtenstein, Holstein, the two Duchies of Meeklenburg, and the three free cities of Hamburg, Lübeck, and Bremen; dissolved with the close of the year 1865, and held together only by temporary agreements until Nov. 1st, 1867, when a new Commercial Treaty was concluded between the North German Confederation and the South German States.

The unit of weight is the zollpfund (customs' pound) of 500 grammes.

Zollpfund of 30 zoll-loth = 7716.1744 U. S. grains = ½ kilogramme.

Zollcentner of 100 zoll-pfund = 110.23106 lbs. avoirdupois = 50 kilogrammes.

Zollstein of 20 zoll-pfund = 22.03621 lbs. avoirdupois = 100 kilogrammes.

Münzpfund of 10000 ass = 7716.1744 U. S. grains = 500 grammes.

NORTH GERMAN CONFEDERATION.

(Established since the war with Austria, in 1866.)

(New System.)

By a decree of the 17th of August, 1868, the metrical (French) system of weights and measures has been adopted, commencing with the 1st of January, 1870, and will be compulsory from the 1st of January, 1872.

The base of the new system is the meter or stab; the same as the French metre.

The unit of length is also the meter or stab.

0.01 meter = 1 centimeter or neu-zoll.

0.001 meter = 1 millimeter or strich.

The unit of surface is the quadrat-meter (square meter), or quadrat-stab.

0.01 of a quadrat-meter = 1 ar.

0.001 of a quadrat-meter = 1 hektar.

The unit of volume is the 0.001 of a kubik-meter or kubik-stab, and is called a liter or kanne.

½ liter = 1 schoppen.

100 liter = 0.1 kubik-meter = 1 hectoliter or fass.

50 liter = 1 scheffel.

The unit of weight is the kilogramme (equal to 2 pfund).
 10 grammes = 1 dekagramme or neu-loth.
 0.1 gramme = 1 dezigramme.
 0.01 gramme = 1 zentigramme.
 0.001 gramme = 1 milligramme.
 $\frac{1}{2}$ kilogramme $\left\{ \begin{array}{l} = 1 \text{ pfund} \\ = 50 \text{ neu-loth} \end{array} \right\} = 1.1023106 \text{ lb. avdp.}$
 50 kilogramme, or 100 pfund = 1 zentner.
 1000 kilogramme, or 2000 pfund = 1 tonne.

The unit of money-weight continues to be the münzpfund (of 500 grammes) divided into 10000 ass.

The unit of weight for purposes of assay, or for trying gold and silver, is the 0.001 part of the münzpfund ($=\frac{1}{1000}$ gramme or 500 milligrammes); which unit is again divided into 1000 parts.

TABLE

GIVING THE

CURRENCY, RATE OF INTEREST, PENALTY FOR USURY, AND LAWS IN REGARD TO COLLECTION OF DEBTS, ETC., IN THE UNITED STATES AND CANADA.

THE information contained in the ensuing pages will, it is believed, be found exceedingly convenient for business men. It has been collected with much care, and, for the most part, by reference to original and trustworthy sources. Yet, as the legislation in regard to some of these matters is changing, and what is true this year, in a given State, may not be entirely so the next, the consulter is cautioned not to continue to rely too implicitly upon present statements, especially in regard to the Southern and the younger States. The Table will serve, however, as a general guide, and is as valuable as any thing of the sort, from the nature of the case, can well be.

Although the Federal currency is that established by law for the whole of the United States, and is in common use throughout the Union, yet, as previously to its adoption the different States had different monetary systems, based on the English currency of pounds, shillings, and pence, it has happened that the two latter of these denominations have been retained in popular use, although there are no longer coins in circulation of the values assigned to them.

ALABAMA.

Currency. — Federal money.

Interest. — Eight per cent.

Usury. — Forfeits all interest.

Collection of Debts, &c. — Specified articles and homestead to value of $500 and not to exceed forty acres (if not within the corporate limits of any town or city), exempt from execution and sale. Mechanics' lien law. Actions on liquidated demands must be brought within six years; on open account, in three years. Mortgages of real and personal property must be recorded. Sale of goods over $200 must be evidenced by transfer of some portion of the goods, or payment of some portion of purchase-money, or written contract. Attachment lies for debts, whether now due or not, in case of fraud in the debtor and non-residence. Arrest of person allowed if about to abscond or in case of fraud or concealment. Husband acquires no right to wife's property by marriage, so as to make it liable for his debts, but is entitled to its management and control during coverture; and husband and wife are jointly liable for family supplies.

ARKANSAS.

Currency. — Federal money.

Interest. — Six per cent.; but parties may contract for any rate not exceeding ten per cent.

Usury. — Usurious contracts are void.

Collection of Debts, &c. — Imprisonment for debt does not exist. Arrest of debtor allowed on affidavit by plaintiff, supported by affidavit of some credible and disinterested person to the effect that fraud has been committed, and a statement of facts justifying such allegation. An attachment may issue against the property of a debtor, provided plaintiff shall, at the time of filing the declaration, also file an affidavit to the effect that defendant is justly indebted to plaintiff in a sum exceeding $100, and also that defendant is not a resident of the State, or that he is about to remove out of the State, or that he is about to remove his goods and effects out of the State, or that he so secretes himself that process cannot be served on him. A bond in double the amount claimed must be given, conditioned for payment of such damages as may be awarded against the plaintiff. — Mechanics' lien law, and household exemption law.

Collection of Debts, &c. — Mechanics' lien law. Specified property exempt from attachment; other property may be attached. Mortgages of personal property must be recorded in town clerk's office. Imprisonment for debt allowed, but the jail limits extend to the county. Here, as in most of the States, notes and ordinary book accounts cannot be sued for after six years, unless a formal judgment of court shall have been had, or unless the debtor shall have remained out of the State during any part of the six years, leaving no attachable property, in which case the six years will begin to run from the time of his return, if the claim is in favor of a resident.

SOUTH CAROLINA.

Currency. — Federal money. [See Georgia.]
Interest. — Seven per cent.
Usury. — The principal sum only may be recovered in a usurious contract, without costs.
Collection of Debts, &c. — Attachment holds against the property of a non-resident or absconding debtor, and the person of a debtor about to abscond. Actions for debt must be brought within four years; to recover possession of land, within ten years. Deeds of marriage settlement must be recorded. Mechanics have lien on building. Chattel mortgages void as against subsequent purchasers, unless recorded.

TENNESSEE.

Currency. — Federal money. [See Massachusetts.]
Interest. — Six per cent.
Usury. — An indictable offense, but the note or security is void only for the excess.
Collection of Debts, &c. — Specified property exempt from levy by attachment or execution. A mechanics' lien law, provided suit is brought within one year after lien is acquired. No imprisonment for debt. Mortgages of personal property must be recorded. Property of concealing or absconding debtor liable to attachment. Actions for debt on account must be brought within six years. Widow's dower one third of husband's real estate at the time of his death. Of the personality she is entitled to a child's part, after payment of debts. If no children, she is entitled to the whole. The wife's real estate not subject to the husband's debts during the marriage. If she dies, leaving the husband tenant by the courtesy, his life interest is leviable by execution. A homestead exemption law. Husband by marriage acquiring title to all wife's personal property reduced by him into possession. Marriage settlements must be recorded before marriage. Chancery will make an equitable settlement out of any property accruing to the wife after the marriage and before the husband reduces it into possession. The marriage relation is, with one or two exceptions, governed by the rules of the common law.

TEXAS.

Currency. — Federal money.
Interest. — Legal rate, eight per cent. Conventional rate, as high as twelve per cent.
Usury. — Forfeits all interest.
Collection of Debts, &c. — Mortgages of real and personal property should be recorded in the county where the property is situated. Actions of debt on account must be brought within two years from maturity, and on notes, within four years. A homestead exemption, and certain household furniture and personal property, also exempt from forced sale. A mechanics' lien law, and lien law for rent. No imprisonment for debt. Property of non-resident debtor may be attached. Attachments may be sued out also for concealment, fraud, &c., under the statute. All property of the husband, owned before marriage, and that acquired afterwards by gift, devise, or descent, continues to be his separate property. Same rule as to property of the wife; but the husband has the sole management of such property. Property acquired by either husband or wife, during marriage, except that acquired as above, is their common property, and upon the death of either passes to the survivor, if there be no children. If there be children, one half of such community property goes to the survivor, and the other half to the children.

UTAH.

Currency. — Federal money.
Interest. — Seven per cent.; but parties may agree in writing on a rate not exceeding ten per cent.

* Parties may contract up to eight per cent. after Oct. 1863.

CURRENCY, INTEREST, USURY, DEBTS, ETC.

Collection of Debts, &c. — Attachments may issue within the limits of this Territory, when any person or persons shall file an affidavit in any of the courts of this Territory, that some person or persons are about to leave the country or territory, removing their effects with the intention, as is believed, of defrauding his, her, or their creditors, and that such person or persons are indebted to him, her, or them, either by note or book account, and are about to leave without paying the same. The court shall issue a writ of attachment upon the goods, chattels, and effects of such person or persons, and such goods, chattels, and effects shall be held to pay the debt and costs, if upon a trial, judgment shall be rendered against the defendant.

VERMONT.

Currency. — Federal money. [See Massachusetts.]
Interest. — Six per cent.

Usury. — Excess not collectable, and when paid may be recovered back and costs.

Collection of Debts, &c. — Real and personal property may be attached on mesne process, and persons residing in the State owing debtor exceeding $10 may be trustee. No imprisonment on contract, except on affidavit that debtor is about to remove from the State and has money or property secreted. Mechanics have a lien for a limited time. Homestead exemption, $500. Household furniture, clothing, and tools, exempt from attachment.

VIRGINIA.

Currency. — Federal money. [See Massachusetts.]
Interest. — Six per cent.

Usury. — Renders contract void, and in criminal action forfeits double the value of money lent.

Collection of Debts, &c. — Mechanics have lien on land upon which they erect buildings, provided they build by contract in writing and recorded. Growing crops, not severed, not liable to distress or levy, except Indian corn, which may be taken after 15th October. Specified articles also exempted. Deeds of trust on exempted articles void. Mechanics' tools exempt to value of twenty-five dollars. Actions on unsealed instruments barred generally in five years; on sealed instruments in ten and twenty years. Imprisonment for debt abolished. In certain cases, debtor, when sued, may be held to bail; and in default of giving bail may be imprisoned. Married women may hold property separate from their husbands. Widow's dower, one third of real estate for life, and one third of personal estate absolutely after payment of debts. A notary public in any other State may take the acknowledgment of a deed to be recorded in Virginia. Judgments give lien on real estate from first day of the term of the court at which they are rendered. Executions bind all the personality which the debtor possesses, or to which he is entitled, from the moment they are in the hands of an officer who can by law levy them; and judgment debtor may be compelled, by interrogatories filed before a commissioner in chancery, to disclose upon oath all his effects, real, personal, and mixed, in his possession or under his control. If he answer said interrogatories fraudulently, or evasively, the commissioner may commit him. Any one indebted to a judgment debtor may be garnished by the judgment creditor, and made to pay such creditor. Elegits extend to all debtor's real estate. Judgment creditors may sue, at law or in equity, at their own costs, in name of sheriff or other officer, to recover any property of their debtors, on which they obtain a lien.

WASHINGTON TERRITORY.

Currency. — Federal money.

Interest. — Ten per cent.; or any rate agreed upon, if specified in writing.

Collection of Debts, &c. — Attachment may issue against a debtor when he does not reside within the limits of this Territory; when he secretes himself in order to avoid process; when he has removed his property, or a material part thereof, or is about to do so; when he is about to sell, convey, or otherwise dispose of his property, with the intention of hindering, defrauding, or delaying his creditors. All actions upon a contract in writing, or liability, express or implied, arising out of a written agreement, must be brought within six years; upon all contracts, express or implied, which are not in writing, and do not arise out of any written instrument, within three years. There is a mechanics' lien law, and a household and homestead exemption law.

WEST VIRGINIA.

Currency. — Federal money. [See Massachusetts.]

Interest. — Six per cent.

Usury. — Renders contract void, and in criminal action double value of money lent is forfeited; but corporations are not allowed to plead usury.

Collection of Debts, &c. — Mechanics have lien for work and materials on any structure erected or repaired by them, provided account recorded within ninety days. Growing crops, not severed, not liable to distress or levy, except Indian corn, after the 15th of October. Any husband or parent may hold personal property, to the amount of two hundred dollars, and real estate to the amount of five hundred dollars, exempt from execution or other process. Actions for land barred in fifteen years; actions on bond of fiduciary or public officer, in ten years; on contracts under seal, in twenty years; on store accounts, two years; on all other contracts, in five years. Persons under disability to sue, allowed a certain time further after removal of disability. No imprisonment for debt; but debtors leaving the State may be held to bail, or compelled to give up all their property, and in default thereof, may be imprisoned. And property of debtors non-resident, or removing property, so that judgment will be ineffectual, may be attached. Married women in certain cases may have separate estate, and property may be held by trustee for benefit of married woman, free from control of husband. Widow has life-estate in one third of deceased husband's real estate, and has one third of his personal property, after payment of debts, absolutely. Judgments give lien on real estate from first day of the term of the court at which they are rendered, if recorded on lien docket. Executions bind all the personality which the debtor possesses, or to which he is entitled, from the moment they are in the hands of an officer who can by law levy them; and judgment debtor may be compelled, by interrogatories filed before a commissioner in chancery, to disclose upon oath all his effects, real, personal, and mixed, in his possession or under his control. If he answer said interrogatories fraudulently, or evasively, the commissioner may attach and commit him. Any one indebted to a judgment debtor may be garnished by the judgment creditor, and made to pay such creditor. Elegits now extend to all debtor's real estate. Judgment creditors may sue, at law or in equity, at their own costs, in name of sheriff or other officer, to recover any property of their debtors, on which they obtain a lien.

WISCONSIN.

Currency. — Federal money.

Interest. — Seven per cent.; as high as ten by agreement expressed in writing.

Usury. — If interest has been paid, treble the amount of excess may be recovered, provided an action be commenced within one year after such payment. If interest has not been paid, forfeiture of the entire interest.

Collection of Debts, &c. — A mechanics' lien law. A homestead exemption. Mortgages of personal property must be filed or recorded. The sale of mortgaged personal property by mortgagee is a misdemeanor which is punished by fine of treble the value of mortgage, or by imprisonment in the county jail. Actions for recovery of ordinary debts must be commenced within six years. No imprisonment for debt, but property of debtor attachable under certain circumstances. Real and personal estate of feme sole not liable for husband's debts.

RATES OF POSTAGE AND CONDITIONS OF TRANSMISSION, APPLYING TO DOMESTIC MAIL MATTER, DIVIDED INTO FOUR CLASSES.

FIRST CLASS. WRITTEN MATTER.

Mailable matter of the first class includes letters, postal cards, sealed packages, or matter so wrapped and inclosed that the contents cannot be readily withdrawn without damage to the wrapper, and all matter wholly or partly in writing (except as permitted with matter of other classes); manuscript copy for any purpose whatever unaccompanied by proof sheets, and matter prepared by the manifold process and the type writer.

RATES OF POSTAGE.—On letters mailed at a post office for transmission to and delivery by another post office: TWO CENTS FOR EACH HALF OUNCE AND FRACTIONAL PART THEREOF.

On drop letters or letters for local delivery when mailed at a post office employing letter carriers: TWO CENTS FOR EACH HALF OUNCE OR FRACTIONAL PART THEREOF.

On drop letters for local delivery when mailed at a post office not employing letter carriers: ONE CENT FOR EACH HALF OUNCE OR FRACTIONAL PART THEREOF.

Postage is required to be fully prepaid, but letters mailed short-paid will be forwarded, the deficiency to be collected at the office of delivery, provided one full rate be prepaid thereon, otherwise they will be sent to the Dead Letter Office, or if reaching their destination by inadvertence, double the regular rates, deducting the value of the stamp or stamps affixed, will be collected on delivery.

Postmasters should invariably be notified of changes in address when letter matter directed to the old address will be forwarded to the new without additional charge.

Letters received at a number and street to which directed—the post office thereby accomplishing and completing the transaction of a delivery—and afterwards re-directed and re-mailed will not be forwarded without the postage thereon being prepaid anew.

Requests to return, written or printed on the envelopes of letters, will secure their return to the writer free in the event of non-delivery; also in cases of misdirection, when evident, and failure to prepay sufficient postage.

Failure to perfect the address of a letter by omitting therefrom the State or Territory often results in the non-delivery of the same, and, in any event, involves delay and risk. Business men and others should exercise unusual care in addressing fully and correctly all matter designed for the mails.

POSTAL CARDS.—The price of postal cards is ONE CENT EACH, without regard to the quantity purchased. This price includes the cost of material of which the cards are manufactured and the privilege of their transmission through the mails anywhere within the United States, under the conditions applying to letters, except that they will not be advertised, and if not delivered or called for in sixty days, they will be hurnd. No card is a "postal card" unless issued by the Post Office Department. Cards issued as postal cards by private parties, and containing any writing other than the address, are subject to letter postage. Postal cards spotted in directing or printing, or otherwise rendered unserviceable, cannot be redeemed.

The directions only may be placed on the stamped or address side of a postal card. A printed label, bearing the address, can, however, be pasted on the address side of the card, but all other writing or printing must be confined to the opposite side. If mutilated in any manner by cutting, trimming, punching or embossing with seal press, or anything except the address-label be pasted on or any article attached thereto, they become unmailable as postal cards and are subject to postage at double the letter rate, deducting the value of the stamp impressed. Postal cards containing obscene matter are required by law to be detained and hurnd. A postal card having once passed through the mails, can only be remailed upon payment of letter rate of postage.

SECOND CLASS. PERIODICAL PUBLICATIONS.

The rates on matter of the second class apply only to periodical publications admitted under the following conditions:—

First. It must regularly be issued at stated intervals, as frequently as four times a year, and bear a date of issue, and be numbered consecutively.

Second. It must be issued from a known office of publication.

Third. It must be formed of printed paper sheets, without board, cloth, leather, or other substantial binding, such as distinguish printed books for preservation from periodical publications.

Fourth. It must be originated and published for the dissemination of information of a public character, or devoted to literature, the sciences, arts, or some special industry, and having a legitimate list of subscribers: Provided, however, that nothing herein contained shall be so construed as to admit to the second-class rate regular publications designed primarily for advertising purposes, or for free circulation, or for circulation at nominal rates.

The law permits sample copies to be mailed when the primary design of the publisher is to increase the subscription list and advertising patronage of his publication. On all such, however, the words "Sample Copy" must be printed, written, or impressed.

Publishers of matter of the second class may fold within their regular issues a supplement, but in all cases the matter added in this manner must be germane to the publication and necessary to its completion.

An advertising sheet as a prospectus with the word "supplement" printed at the head cannot be accepted as a genuine supplement.

Bills and receipts for subscriptions and orders to be filled out by those desiring to subscribe may also be folded within issues of matter of the second class, provided such words only are used as may be necessary to complete their sense; and necessary words or marks conveying information as to the expiration of subscriptions, may be printed or written on such matter or on the wrapper thereof without subjecting the same to a higher rate of postage.

Advertisements are also permitted to be included within the body of periodical publications, provided they are attached permanently thereto by being folded, stitched, and pagged therewith, and not inserted for convenience and for the purpose of being removed and put to separate use.

Advertisements in the form of separate sheets in the body of periodical publications which are inserted for convenience and are for the purpose of being removed and put to separate use, are not "attached permanently" to such periodical within the meaning of the preceding section, and when so inserted will subject the periodicals in which they are found to the rate of one cent for each two ounces or fraction thereof; but this must not be held to apply to bills, receipts, and orders for subscription to such periodicals.

The pagging of such advertising sheets may be included under a series separate from that of the body of the publication, but should be consecutive throughout the successive issues.

Matter of the second class is not limited as to weight. Publications of the second class when sent by the publisher thereof and from the office of publication, including sample copies; or when sent from a news agency to actual subscribers thereto, or to news agents, are entitled to transmission through the mails at TWO CENTS A POUND OR FRACTION THEREOF, except that one copy may be sent free to each actual subscriber residing in the county where the periodical is printed and published, unless the same is for delivery at a letter carrier office within the county, when the postage is two cents per pound, except in the case of periodical publications other than weekly when mailed at a free delivery office for delivery by LETTER CARRIER. The rate of postage is then ONE CENT EACH if the matter does not exceed two ounces in weight, and TWO CENTS FOR ANY WEIGHT IN EXCESS OF TWO OUNCES.

THIRD CLASS. MISCELLANEOUS PRINTED MATTER.

The rate of postage on this class of matter is: ONE CENT FOR EACH TWO OUNCES OR FRACTION THEREOF.

Packages of this class must be fully prepaid or they will not be forwarded.

Mailable matter of the third class includes printed books, transient newspapers and periodicals, regular publications designed primarily for advertising purposes, circulars and other matter wholly in print, (not of the second class), proof sheets and corrected proof sheets and manuscript copy accompanying the same, and commercial papers partly printed.

The weight of a single book is not limited, but all other packages of this class must not exceed the weight of four pounds.

RATES OF POSTAGE AND CONDITIONS OF TRANSMISSION.

Regular publications designed primarily for advertising purposes are:—

First. Those owned and controlled by one, or several business concerns, and conducted for the advancement of the business or trade of those who own them.

Second. Those which may not have genuine paid up subscriptions, insert advertisements free on the condition that the advertiser will pay full price for any number of papers which are sent to persons whose names are given to the publisher.

Third. Those who do advertising only, and whose columns are filled with long editorial puff of firms or individuals who buy a certain number of copies for distribution.

Fourth. Pamphlets containing marked quotations, and the business cards of various business houses opposite the page containing the quotation.

Fifth. Publications largely devoted to a particular trade or profession, whose editorial correspondence and the burden of whose information relate to that trade or profession, and designed to subserve the business interests of those proprietors who may be engaged in such trade or profession by advertising or calling attention to the nature of such business.

When circulars, handbills, advertising sheets, transient newspapers, or any other printed matter of the third class, are sent in bulk from one post office to another with the intention of having them distributed throughout the boxes, or general delivery at the office to which they are addressed, or by letter carriers, the bulk package must not exceed four pounds in weight and must be fully prepaid at the rate of one cent for each two ounces or fraction thereof, and the proper drop rate at the office of destination be affixed by the sender to each separate circular or postage.

All packages of matter of the third class must be so wrapped or enveloped, with open sides or ends, that the contents may be easily withdrawn for examination and restored without destruction to or mutilation of the same.

Third class printed matter must be either placed under band, upon a roller, between boards, in a case open at one side or at both ends, or in an unenclosed envelope, or simply closed in such a manner as not to conceal the nature of the packet, or, lastly, tied by a string easy to unfasten.

A package of third class matter may contain any number of articles of that class. All legitimate binding, mounting, or covering of a book, etc., or of a portion thereof, is permissible whether such binding, etc., be loose or attached; as also rollers in the case of prints or maps, markers (whether of paper or otherwise) in the case of books, pens or pencils in the case of pocket-books, etc., and, in short, whatever is necessary for the safe transmission of such articles, or usually appertains thereto; but the binding, rollers, pens or pencils, etc., must not be sent as a separate package at third class rates.

Packages will not be forwarded or returned in consequence of misdirection by persons mailing, or removal of the person to whom directed, without stamps for the full repayment of the postage be furnished to the postmaster.

Matter of the third or fourth class inclosed in sealed envelopes notched at the ends or having the corners cut off cannot readily be withdrawn for examination without endangering the envelope, and is, therefore, subject to postage at the letter rate.

Upon matter of the third class, or upon the wrapper inclosing the same, the sender may write his own name or address thereon with the word "from" above or preceding the same, and in either case may make simple marks intended to designate a word or passage of the text to which it is desired to call attention. There may be placed upon the cover or blank leaves of any book or of any printed matter of the third class a simple manuscript dedication or inscription that does not partake of the nature of personal correspondence.

PRINTED MATTER is defined to be the reproduction upon paper, by any process, including matter prepared by the electric pen and papyrograph process, except that of handwriting, of any words, letters, characters, figures, or images, or of any combination thereof, not having the character of an actual and personal correspondence. This cannot be ascribed to the following, viz: 1st. To the signature of the sender or to the designation of his name, of his profession, of his rank, of the place of origin, and of the date of despatch. 2d. To a dedication or mark of respect offered by the author. 3d. To the figures or signs merely intended to mark the passages of a text in order to call attention to them. 4th. To the prices added upon the quotations or price current of exchange on markets and in a book. 5th. To all commercial papers partly printed, such as papers of legal procedure, deeds of all kinds, way bills or bills of lading, invoices, and the various documents of insurance companies, circulars, handbills, etc., provided the writing on the same is not in the nature of personal correspondence, or of such character as to render the document the representative of a monetary value. Signed and completed Insurance Policies, Insurance "Daily Reports," "Transfers" and "Applications," and signed receipts, and receipted bills, notes, bonds, deeds, etc., are held to be of this character, and are chargeable with postage as mail matter of the first class. 6th. To instructions or requests to postmasters to notify the sender in case of the non-delivery of matter, so that he may send postage for its return. Lastly, to annotations or corrections made upon proofs of printing and necessary to the completion of the typographical appearance, but they should not extend beyond it and embrace matter such as the quality of the paper on which the publication is to be printed, or the binding in which it is to be bound, or other matters of like character.

A CIRCULAR is defined to be a printed letter, which, according to internal evidence, is being sent in identical terms to several persons. A circular shall not lose its character as such, when the date and name of the address and of the sender shall be therein written, nor by the correction of mere typographical errors in writing.

FOURTH CLASS. MERCHANDISE SAMPLES, ETC.

Mail matter of the fourth class includes all that is not embraced in the first, second, or third class, and many which under the old law were rated with letter postage, as matter to which no special rate of postage was attached, belong now to the fourth class, and are subject to a postal charge of one cent per ounce; such are, for instance, drawings, plans, designs, original paintings in oil or water colors, etc.—articles which are not in form or nature liable to destroy, deface, or otherwise damage the contents of the mail bag or harm the person of any one engaged in the postal service.

Packages will not be forwarded or returned in consequence of misdirection by persons mailing or the removal of persons to whom directed, without stamps for the full repayment of postage be furnished to the postmaster.

The rate of postage on this class of matter is: ONE CENT FOR EACH OUNCE OR FRACTION THEREOF.

All matter of the fourth class must be so wrapped or enveloped, with open sides or ends, that the contents may be easily withdrawn for examination and restored without destruction to or mutilation of the same.

The weight of a single book is not limited, but all other packages of this class must not exceed the weight of four pounds.

Upon any package of matter of the fourth class the sender may write or print his own name or address, preceded by the word "from," and there may also be written or printed the number and names of the articles inclosed; and the sender thereof may write or print upon or attach to any such article by tag or label, a mark, number, name, or letter for the purpose of identification, but the price may not be thus marked.

Articles of the fourth class, which, are in their form or nature such as to destroy, deface, or otherwise damage the contents of the mail bag, or harm the person of any one engaged in the postal service, may be transmitted in the mails when they conform to the following conditions:—

1st. They must be placed in a bag, box, or removable envelope made of paper, cloth, or parchment.

2d. Such bag, box, or envelope must again be placed in a box or tub made of metal or some hard wood with sliding, clamp, or screw lid, of a form submitted to and approved by the Post Office Department.

3d. In case of articles liable to break, the inside box, bag, or envelope must be surrounded by sawdust, cotton, or spungy substance.

4th. In case of sharp-pointed instruments, the points must be capped or encased so that they may not by any means be liable to cut through their inclosure, and where they have blades, such blades must be bound with wire, so that they shall remain firmly attached to each other.

5th. The whole must be capable of easy inspection; no liquids, poisons, explosive or inflammable articles, fatty substances easily liquefiable, live animals, insects, or reptiles, nor substances exhaling a bad odor, shall be admitted to the mails in any case.

Packages containing liquids, poisons, explosive and inflammable articles, fatty substances easily liquefiable, live or dead animals, (not stuffed), insects and reptiles, fruits or vegetable matter, confectionery pastes or confections, and substances exhaling a bad odor, are regarded as in themselves, either from their form or nature, not admissible under any circumstances to the mails.

REGISTRATION.

All mailable matter, except that of the second class, may be registered upon the payment of a registration fee of 10 cents per package. All such matter is subject to the conditions applying to its class the same as if sent in the ordinary manner.

Each package offered for registration must bear the full name and address of the person sending it, and a receipt will be returned from the person to whom the package is directed.

POSTAGE STAMPS.

Postage stamps must be used in payment of postages on all matter of the first, third, and fourth classes.

Stamps cut from stamped envelopes cannot be received in payment of postage.

The value of the stamps impressed on wrappers spoiled in directing, if preserved in a whole condition and taken to a postmaster, will be refunded in ordinary postage stamps.

MONEY ORDERS.

DOMESTIC RATES.

At certain post-offices, designated as Money Order Offices, lists of which, revised from time to time, may be found in the issues of the United States Postal Guide, money orders are issued payable at any other Money Order Office upon which they may be drawn at the following rates:

On orders not exceeding $10	8 cents.
On orders over $10, and not exceeding $15	10 cents.
On orders over $15, and not exceeding $30	15 cents.
On orders over $30, and not exceeding $40	20 cents.
On orders over $40, and not exceeding $50	25 cents.
On orders over $50, and not exceeding $60	30 cents.
On orders over $60, and not exceeding $70	35 cents.
On orders over $70, and not exceeding $80	40 cents.
On orders over $80, and not exceeding $100	45 cents.

Never send the order in the same letter with the information required on payment thereof. Be careful on taking out a money order to state correctly the given name as well as the surname of the person in whose favor it is to be drawn. Neglect of these instructions will risk the loss of money, besides leading to delay and trouble in obtaining payment.

MORE THAN ONE INDORSEMENT IS PROHIBITED BY LAW, AND WILL RENDER AN ORDER INVALID AND NOT PAYABLE. The signature to the receipt on the face of the order should be that of the person who presents and receives payment of the same.

If a money order is lost, a certificate should be obtained from both the Paying and Issuing Postmasters that it has not been paid, and the Department at Washington will issue a duplicate of the order on application of the Postmaster who issues or pays it.

If a money order is not collected within one year from date it is invalid, and can only be paid by the Department at Washington on application through the Postmaster who issues or pays it.

No more than three orders will be issued in one day to the same remitter, and in favor of the same payee payable at the same post office.

FOREIGN INTERNATIONAL RATES.

Certain Money Order Offices are also designated as Foreign or International Money Order Offices, either for one or for more than one of the various foreign countries.

Postal Conventions for the exchange of money orders have been concluded with Switzerland, Great Britain and Ireland, Germany, Italy, and Canada.

The exchange of money orders between the United States and each of the countries mentioned is effected through the agency of "International Exchange Offices," of which New York is the office on the part of the United States. Hence, an international money order cannot be drawn by a postmaster in either country directly upon a postmaster in the other, but must be drawn upon the International Exchange Office.

FOREIGN INTERNATIONAL MONEY ORDER RATES.

RATES TO GREAT BRITAIN AND IRELAND.

$4.86 to the Pound Sterling.

On orders over $40, and not exceeding $50	75 cents.

Orders can be obtained via Switzerland, on the following countries (subject, however, to the ratios of the Swiss Department to those countries): Austria, Belgium, Denmark, France, and Holland.

RATES TO THE DOMINION OF CANADA.

A Money Order must not be drawn for a larger sum than Fifty Dollars, and must not contain a fractional part of a cent. The fees for the issue of Canadian Money Orders are as follows:

On orders not exceeding $10	15 cents.
On orders over $10, and not exceeding $20	30 cents.
On orders over $20, and not exceeding $30	45 cents.
On orders over $30, and not exceeding $40	60 cents.
On orders over $40, and not exceeding $50	75 cents.

Persons sending Money Orders to Canada must give the full name and address of the remitter, inasmuch as payment thereof cannot be obtained unless the payee is able to furnish that information to the paying postmaster.

POSTAL NOTES.

All postmasters at money-order offices are authorized to issue postal notes for sums less than five dollars, payable to bearer at any time within three months from the last day of the month of issue. The fee for a postal note is three cents.

The person who presents a postal note for payment will be required to receipt it.

(If a postal note be presented which is already receipted upon its face, if receipted by another than the holder, the postmaster must require the holder to sign his name in the space on the back of the note, at the lower margin, and, whether the holder be the person who first signed it on the face or not, he must sign it again on the back if he be unknown to the post- master, but if the note be already receipted by the person who presents it and the latter is known to the postmaster, no further signature will be required.)

A postal note may also be repaid at the office of issue to the bearer at any time within three months from the last day of the month of issue.

Persons procuring postal notes should carefully examine them to see that they have been correctly filled up and stamped. This caution will appear the more important when it is understood that any defect in this respect will throw difficulties in the way of payment.

FOREIGN MAILS.

RATES OF POSTAGE AND CONDITIONS AND REGULATIONS GOVERNING THE TRANSMISSION OF MAIL MATTER TO FOREIGN COUNTRIES.

The exchange of correspondence between the United States and Foreign Countries is regulated by postal treaties establishing the rates and conditions of exchange, or by and in pursuance of legislation by Congress. Postal Conventions are in force with countries named below.

UNIVERSAL POSTAL UNION.

Since April 1, 1879, the General Postal Union Treaty, concluded at Berne, October 9, 1874, has been replaced by the "Universal Postal Union Convention" concluded at Paris, June 1, 1878, which modified in certain particulars the Postal Union rates and regulations established by the Treaty of Berne.

The territory of the Postal Union has been enlarged, and comprises, since the 1st of July, 1879, the following countries and colonies:—

ARGENTINE REPUBLIC.

* 1 cent per 2 ounces, and in addition 1 cent per ounce.

NOTE 1. — However light may be the weight of a packet of commercial papers or samples for the Postal Union, the postage thereon cannot be less in any case than 5 cents per packet of commercial papers, and 2 cents per packet of samples.

NOTE 2. — Correspondence for the Chinese cities of Peking, Tien-Tsin, Kalgan, and Ourga, sent in the mails to Russia via Germany, is assimilated in all respects to correspondence addressed to Russia. Such correspondence should be marked "Via Russia."

NOTE 3. — Correspondence for other parts of Chinese Empire (including Formosa) where foreigners reside, sent via Hong Kong, is assimilated in all respects to that for Hong Kong, except that prepayment is obligatory and registration only effective as far as the Hong Kong Postal Agency nearest the place of destination.

NOTE 4. — Postal Union rates and conditions apply to British Indian offices in various Native States within the limits of Hindostan, To Kashmir, Ladakh (Little Tibet), and Cabul (Afghanistan), in Italian mail, the same rates apply, but prepayment is compulsory, and only to the British Indian frontier.

NOTE 5. — The Egyptian postal service has been extended to the following newly made offices in Soodan: Facher, Fachouda, Fazonon, Gadaref, Karkough, Mousllemieh, Obeld, and Sennaar. To the following offices in Soodan only ordinary (unregistered) correspondence may be sent: Abou-Hamed and Matamme (principal agency Barbar); Amedib and Gallabat (principal agency Kassa); Chaka and Fodja (principal agency Obeld); Dara, Kobkabe, Kone, and Kolkol (principal agency Facher); Debba (principal agency Dongola); Halfaie, Kana, and Om Dorman (principal agency Khartoum); and Senehit (principal agency Massoua). The names of the principal agencies should be incorporated with the address on correspondence for the above offices.

GENERAL REGULATIONS AND INFORMATION.

Address matter in a legible and careful manner. If intended for delivery in a city, include the street and number of the house at which it is to be delivered. The German postal authorities have notified this Office that a full compliance with this rule is necessary to insure delivery of matter within their territory.

Attention is called to the fact that, in many cases, as stated in the table of Foreign Postage, other correspondence besides letters may be registered. The postage chargeable is that applying to the same class of correspondence sent in ordinary mail. Where no fee is given there can be no registration.

TRANSMISSION OF MAIL MATTER TO FOREIGN COUNTRIES.

Letters conveyed in vessels not regularly employed in carrying the mails (commonly called "ship letters") are subject to double rates of domestic postage on delivery.

Letters for countries to which payment of postage is compulsory, when unpaid or insufficiently prepaid, are sent to the dead-letter office, to be opened and returned to the writer.

In order to avoid the delay consequent upon the return through the dead-letter office, of short paid letters addressed to countries to which prepayment of postage is compulsory, care should be exercised in the weighing and stamping of such letters. In case of doubt it is safer to prepay at the higher rate. Delay may also be avoided by writing the name and address of the sender on the cover of the letters.

Prepayment of postage on correspondence sent from the United States to foreign countries must be made in United States postage stamps. On correspondence from foreign countries to the United States, prepayment must be made in postage stamps of the country of mailing.

The Postmaster General is by law authorized to collect unpaid postages due on correspondence from foreign countries, in gold or its equivalent in currency, in order to secure the Department from loss on balances due foreign offices.

The amount of postage due on unpaid or insufficiently paid correspondence, received from foreign countries, is plainly marked in the cover by the United States Exchange office through which the correspondence passes, and only the amount so marked as due should be collected.

The exchange of postal cards is limited to the countries opposite which, in the Table of Foreign Postage, postal card rates are given. They can only be sent to, or received from, other countries and places at letter rates of postage.

All liquids, poisons, gases, explosive materials, and obscene books and pictures, as well as all articles which, from their nature or form, are liable to destroy, deface, or otherwise injure the contents of the mail bags, or the person of any one engaged in the postal service, are excluded from the mails to foreign countries.

Patterns or samples of merchandise, sent as such in the mails to foreign countries, must not be of intrinsic value, and this includes articles of a salable nature, or whatever may have a market value of its own, apart from its mere use as a pattern or sample, or where the quantity of any material sent as a pattern or sample is so great that it could be fairly considered as having on this ground an intrinsic value.

Papers-current and trade circulars (unsealed) may be sent to Guatemala at newspaper rate of postage, but to all other countries at the rate of postage for "other printed matter."

The public should bear in mind that all matter received in the mails from foreign countries and subject to custom duties, such as watches, jewelry, lace, silk, etc., is liable to seizure by the officers of the customs. Of such seizure, however, the addressee will be duly notified, and requested to pay charges. Such matter, moreover, is subject to letter rates of postage, unless bona fide samples from one mercantile house or manufacturer to another.

Letters for Russia should have the name of the place of destination added in either English, French, or German, and if for the smaller towns in Russia, they should bear, as a part of their address, the name of the province or government in which the towns are situated.

To avoid possible errors, the route by which the correspondence is desired to be forwarded should be plainly marked on the face of the correspondence, near the address.

Where the correspondence is marked for transmission by a route requiring prepayment, and the amount prepaid is insufficient for that route, the correspondence will be sent by some other route by which prepayment of postage is optional; but if there is no such route, the correspondence will be sent to the dead-letter office.

Where no special regulation is made relative to the transmission of correspondence, the domestic regulations will govern. For instance, no printed matter, patterns, or samples can be sent to any foreign country with any communication in writing thereon, except as stated above, or closed against inspection, without being subject to letter rate of postage.

See that every letter, newspaper, or other packet sent by mail is securely folded and fastened. In affixing the postage stamp to the covers of printed matter, see that they do not overlap the covers and adhere in part to the contents, thus, in effect, sealing the packet against inspection. Avoid using cheap envelopes, made of thin paper, especially when more than one sheet of paper or any other article than paper is inclosed. Being often handled, and subject to pressure in the mail bags, such envelopes not infrequently split open, often giving cause of complaint against officials who are entirely innocent in the matter.

A frequent error is to assume that the Department has any control relative to charges made on letters from abroad. Such charges on unpaid or insufficiently prepaid letters are made by the foreign offices, and the Department has no alternative but to collect them.

POSTAL CARDS.—Postal Cards must be forwarded without cover. One of the sides must be reserved for the address alone, and the communication written on the other side. It is forbidden to join or to attach to postal cards any article whatever.

PRINTED MATTER OF ALL KINDS.—The following are considered as printed matter, viz: Newspapers and periodical works, books stitched or bound, pamphlets, sheets of music, visiting cards, address cards, proofs of printing with or without the manuscripts relating thereto, engravings, photographs, drawings, plans, geographical maps, catalogues, prospectuses, announcements and notices of various kinds, whether printed, engraved, or lithographed, and in general all impressions or copies obtained upon paper, parchment, or card-board, by means of printing, lithographing, or any other mechanical process easy to recognize, except the copying press.

The following are excluded from the reduced postage, viz.: Stamps, or forms of prepayment, whether obliterated or not, as well as all printed articles constituting the representative sign of a monetary value.

The character of actual and personal correspondence cannot be ascribed to the following, viz.:—

1st. To the signature of the sender or to the designation of his name, of his profession, of his rank, of the place of origin, and of the date of despatch.

2d. To a dedication or mark of respect offered by the author.

3d. To the figures or signs merely intended to mark the passages of a text, in order to call attention to them.

4th. To the prices added upon the quotations or prices current of exchange or markets.

5th and lastly. To annotations or corrections made upon proofs of printing or musical compositions, and relating to the text or to the execution of the work.

Printed matter must be either placed under band, upon a roller, between boards, in a case open at one side or at both ends, or in an enclosed envelope or simply folded in such a manner as not to conceal the nature of the packet; or, lastly, tied by a string easy to unfasten.

Address cards and all printed matter presenting the form and consistency of an unfolded card may be forwarded without band, envelope, fastening, or fold.

The maximum weight of printed matter is fixed at 2 kilograms (4 lbs. 6 ozs.).

COMMERCIAL PAPERS.—The following are considered as commercial papers, viz.: All instruments, or documents, written or drawn wholly or partly by hand, which have not the character of an actual and personal correspondence, such as papers of legal procedure, deeds of all kinds drawn up by public functionaries, way-bills or bills of lading, invoices, the various documents of insurance companies, copies or extracts of deeds under private seal, written on stamped or unstamped papers, scores or sheets of manuscript music, manuscripts of works forwarded separately, etc.

Commercial papers must be forwarded under band or in an open envelope.

The maximum weight of commercial papers is fixed at 2 kilograms (4 lbs. 6 ozs.).

SAMPLES.—Samples of merchandise must conform to the following conditions:

They must be placed in bags, boxes, or removable envelopes in such a manner as to admit of easy inspection.

They must not have any salable value, nor bear any manuscript other than the name or profession of the sender, the address of the addressee, a manufacturer's or trade mark, numbers, and prices.

They must not exceed 250 grams in weight (8 3/4 ounces), or the following dimensions: 20 centimeters (8 inches) in length, 10 centimeters (4 inches) in breadth, and 6 centimeters (2 inches) in depth.

REGISTERED ARTICLES.—Any article of mail matter may be registered, subject to the ordinary prepaid rate of postage upon the article, according to its nature, in addition to the registration fee of 10 cents.

No fee will be charged for returned receipts of registered articles in cases where such receipts are requested.

Uniform rates of postage, without regard to distance or routes of conveyance, will be levied and collected in the United States on and after April 1, 1879, on the correspondence exchanged with all countries and colonies of the Universal Postal Union, except Canada.

The prepayment of the Union postage on ordinary letters is optional, but the postage on all other articles must be at least partly prepaid.

Payment of postage on every description of correspondence can be effected only by means of postage stamps valid in the country of origin, for the correspondence of private individuals. Official correspondence relative to the postal service, exchanged directly between the respective Postal Administrations of the Union, is alone exempted from this requirement and admitted free of postage.

ARTICLES GROUPED TOGETHER.—It is permitted to inclose in the same packet samples of merchandise, printed matter, and commercial papers, but subject to the following conditions:—

1. That each article taken singly shall not exceed the limits which are applicable to it as regards weight and size.

2. That the total weight must not exceed 2 kilograms (4 lbs. 6 ozs.) per package.

3. That the minimum charge shall be 5 cents when the packet contains commercial papers, and 2 cents when it consists of printed matter and samples.

ARTICLES EXCLUDED FROM THE MAILS.—It is forbidden to send by mail:—

1. Letters or packets containing gold or silver substances, pieces of money, jewelry, or precious articles.

2. Any packet whatever containing articles liable to customs duty.

3. Articles other than letters which are not prepaid at least partly, or which do not fulfill the conditions required in order to enjoy the reduced rate.

FOREIGN POSTAGE TABLE.

4. Articles of a nature likely to soil or injure the correspondence.

5. Packets of samples of merchandise which have a salable value, or which exceed 250 grains (8 3/4 ozs.) in weight, or measure more than 20 centimeters (8 inches) in length, 10 centimeters (4 inches) in breadth, and 5 centimeters (2 inches) in depth.

6. Packets of commercial papers and printed matter of all kinds, the weight of which exceeds 2 kilograms.

There is, moreover, reserved to the Government of every country of the Union the right to refuse to convey over its territory, or to deliver as well, articles liable to the reduced rate in regard to which the laws, ordinances, or decrees which regulate the conditions of their publication or of their circulation in that country have not been complied with, as correspondence of every kind which evidently bears inscriptions forbidden by the legal enactments or regulations in force in the same country.

GUATEMALA.

Letters, newspapers, unsealed circulars at newspaper rates, pamphlets, periodicals, books, and other kinds of printed matter may be exchanged in the mails with Guatemala.

All printed matter must be sent in narrow bands, open at the sides or ends, and is subject to the laws and regulations of each country, respectively, in regard to its liability to be rated with letter postage when containing written matter, or for any other cause specified in said laws and regulations.

Bound or unbound books weighing over two pounds cannot be sent, except at letter rates of postage.

Correspondence of all kinds received from Guatemala is liable, on delivery in the United States, to the rates of postage given in the table for matter sent to Guatemala.

Registration is not permissible, and samples cannot be sent.

ECUADOR.

Letters, and manuscript subject by the laws of either country to letter rate of postage, newspapers, and prints of all kinds in sheets, in pamphlets, and in books, sheets of music, engravings, lithographs, photographs, drawings, maps and plans, comprise the correspondence exchangeable with Ecuador.

All correspondence, except letters, and manuscript subject to letter postage, is transmissible under the same regulations and restrictions as are stated above for Guatemala (the limit of books excepted), and is also subject to the laws of each country in regard to its liability to customs duty, if containing dutiable goods.

Correspondence other than letters received from Ecuador is liable, on delivery in the United States, to the rates of postage given in the table for matter sent to Ecuador.

VENEZUELA.

The correspondence exchangeable with Venezuela is the same as that described under Ecuador.

Mail-matter other than letters must be inclosed in narrow bands, or covers, open at the sides or ends, so as to be easily examined, subject to the laws and regulations of each country, respectively.

Domestic rates of postage are chargeable on all correspondence received from Venezuela.

THE HAWAIIAN KINGDOM (SANDWICH ISLANDS).

Letters, newspapers, and printed matter of every kind are exchangeable.

All correspondence, except letters, received from the United States, is chargeable on delivery with the Hawaiian domestic rates. Registration is not permissible, and samples cannot be sent.

NEW SOUTH WALES, NEW ZEALAND, QUEENSLAND, AND VICTORIA (AUSTRALIA).

The correspondence exchangeable in direct mails with New South Wales, New Zealand, Queensland, and Victoria, comprises letters (ordinary and registered), newspapers, printed matter of every kind, and patterns and samples of merchandise. Letters unpaid, or prepaid less than one full rate, cannot be forwarded; but insufficiently paid letters, on which a single rate or more has been prepaid, will be forwarded charged with the deficient postage. Correspondence of all kinds prepaid in full in New Zealand is delivered free of charge in the United States.

CHILI, WEST INDIES, CENTRAL AMERICA, ETC.

Under an arrangement with the British and Royal Danish Post Offices, mail communication is maintained with the West India Islands, Central America, the west coast of South America, British, French, and Dutch Guiana, and Venezuela, by means of the British Mail Packets plying between those points, and Havana, Cuba, Kingston, and Bermuda, St. Thomas, W. I., Colon, and Panama, respectively.

The rates of postage given in the table include, with the rates for countries with which the United States has no postal arrangements, the charge for British Packet service.

The correspondence transmissible is indicated by the table.

Prepayment is compulsory (except the divisions which are now controlled by the Universal Postal Union Treaty) on all correspondence sent, and the U. S. Postage, together with the British Packet charge, if unpaid, is collectible upon delivery of matter received in the United States.

OTHER FOREIGN COUNTRIES.

Correspondence from the United States for foreign countries and places other than those named above, or with which no postal treaties or other postal arrangements have been made by the United States, if forwarded in direct mail by vessels regularly engaged in carrying the mails, and not through the intermediary of a country having postal relations with the United States by treaty or other arrangements, is subject to the rates of postage given in the postage rates table "San Domingo Direct Mail."

Ordinary letters, newspapers, pamphlets, periodicals, books, and other printed matter, may be sent in these cases, under the regulations and conditions applicable to the same correspondence in the domestic mails.

Prepayment of postage is compulsory for all correspondence, and the prescribed rates are collectible upon delivery of matter received.
